The U. S. and Cuba
He Had a $1000 Diamond
It Was the Bulls' Turn
One in 10,000,000

—By Arthur Brisbane—

RECOGNITION OF THE new Cuban government by the United States will depend on that government's backing by the Cuban people.

There is some indication of a desire to change from President Grau San Martin back to his predecessor, De Cespedes, who for a few days succeeded President Machado.

The desire of the United States, its government and people, is to see the Cubans happily settled under a government of their own choosing on the way back to prosperity.

Yesterday, from New York's viaduct, at Riverside Drive and 130th st., a man plunged to death on the pavement of 12th ave., 75 feet below. More plunging and dying would attract no attention, but this man was extremely well dressed and wore a diamond ring worth $1000. To many it will seem strange that a man should kill himself while owning a ring worth $1000. That measures part of our civilization.

"Time at length makes all things even," according to the poet.

Yesterday in the Portuguese village of Sobral, near Lisbon, ten bulls, penned up to be tormented, and killed later for the amusement of the crowd, broke from their enclosure, plunged into a gaily dressed crowd at the annual summer festival, injured 20, killed several, damaged shops, including china shops.

A local barber, evidently with a career as matador ahead of him, killed one bull with a razor. A sermon could be written about that.

Yesterday 1,000,000 children were at work in New York City's public schools and other millions throughout the nation were returning to public schools, greatest of all institutions.

Of these millions perhaps one will be remembered a thousand years hence. To achieve that he must contribute to human happiness, or, like another Napoleon, to human misery, on a big scale.

But that will not discourage any mother, for each will believe that her child will be the one remembered.

Many millions of the children will be useful, constructive, patriotic Americans, and many millions doing their duty are more important to human welfare than any individual standing out in the great crowd.

Working in a restaurant on the Mediterranean, a former colonel of Cossacks knows where $6,000,000 worth of gold and gems are hidden. The treasure was taken to Turkey by a priest of the Russian church, and there taken from the priest. It includes English gold coins worth $3,000,000. The tale may be one of those "Spanish treasure" stories so familiar to police, and there may be a real treasure.

In the excitement of revolution and the fear of confiscation many valuable things were hidden in Russia that will come to light some day, including magnificent works of art, collected by the imperial family for centuries back, and by the Russian grand dukes and nobles.

Where is the Voltaire library that Catherine the Second bought when he died? That would be worth more than the six hundred thousand English sovereigns.

Prof. Sherman, of Columbia University, says a scientific, properly balanced diet will enable wise human beings to live ten per cent longer, and postpone that abominable period of old age, in which men, as a clever Frenchwoman said, "look on at life," no longer an important part of it.

After the NRA has adjusted all other difficulties it might turn its attention to cooking. At present the American plan for cooking vegetables boils all the valuable mineral salts out of them. The mineral salts are thrown away with excess water, the vegetables, lacking the most precious ingredient, are eaten.

The learned Prof. Sherman says keeping old men alive and vigorous in old age is most important, because wisdom that comes with years will hereafter be active, instead of slowly dying away. The new diet will realize Plato's ideal of "an intellectual aristocracy," in which "philosophers will be kings, and kings will be philosophers."

New York City tomorrow will have an NRA parade to be re-

Girl's Enticer Routed by Screams of Newton Chum

Madeline Sampson.

An attempt to kidnap a six-year-old Newton girl, which was balked by her nine-year-old chum, was reported today to the Newton police, who notified Somerville authorities seeking the slayer of Margaret McCarthy.

Mary Allen, 6, of 141 Jewett st., and Madeline Sampson, 9, of 45 Waban st., were returning from a store at Newton Corner and were on Washington st. when a green sedan stopped beside them.

"Come on and take a ride," the driver said, according to the Sampson girl.

He got out of the car and held out his arms to the smaller child.

"Don't you go with him; he'll take us away," said Madeline.

The man then seized the other child who started to cry.

"Oh, come on, don't cry," the man said.

"She's not going; she won't go with you," said Madeline. "I'll call a cop."

With that the man dropped the Allen child, got into his car and drove away.

REDS ATTACK U. S. WOMEN IN HAVANA

New Revolt Hatched as Arms Are Given Captive Officers

Cuban Crises Pile Up

New regime of President Grau San Martin confronted by fresh revolt of supporters of ex-Presidents de Cespedes and Menocal as the new Cabinet took office.

Fears of United States intervention increase because of raids on American homes and business places. Two American women are driven out of their homes by armed intruders.

Former Cuban army officers held virtually captive in National Hotel, Havana, with U. S. flag waving above it, defy President Grau San Martin.

President Roosevelt determined to keep U. S. warships in Cuban waters for protection of Americans until situation clears and government becomes stable and capable.

Havana, Sept. 12—The provisional government of President Ramon Grau San Martin, installed Sunday, was threatened today by a movement of ousted army officers to upset it and beset by the consequent fear of American intervention.

This intervention fear is based on reports of Communist raids on homes of American residents in Cuba.

An American girl employed in Havana was grossly insulted by hoodlum Communists as she was passing through Cerro in a taxicab. Dirt was thrown in her face, according to friends.

The house of E. S. Saile, commander of the Havana post of the American Legion, was entered and looted by Communist agitators.

Mrs. Alan Stoddart, wife of an American engineer at the Punta Alegre Mills, was driven from her home at the mill, being allowed to take with her only tht clothing that could be packed in handbags. Stoddart was absent at the time.

Mrs. Frederic Pepper, wife of the manager of a mill at Jobaro, was treated in like fashion.

ARMS FOR INSURGENTS

Further excuse for American action was seen by certain classes of Cubans not supporting Dr. Grau San Martin, in the apparently well-grounded report that 2000 rifles and pistols were carried to the defiant army officers barricaded in the Hotel National.

The hotel is flying the American flag and is temporary home of Ambassador Sumner Welles, who had closed the regular embassy and was ready to return to the United States when the army and navy enlisted

DISTILLERIES HERE READY TO RESUME

Coming End of Dry Era Reflected in Speed-up of Liquor Industry

Repeal Tide Rolls

Dry, rock-ribbed Maine, rolling up an overwhelming vote for repeal was the 26th state in the Repeal column today without a single state favoring the dry cause. In 553 of the state's 632 precincts the vote was 113,581 for repeal to 71,971 against repeal.

Three other states, Colorado, Maryland and Minnesota, were voting today on the issue with leaders admitting that the wets had a margin in all three.

The rapidly approaching repeal of prohibition, as signalized by yesterday's big wet vote in Maine and admissions by dry leaders that their cause is lost, will find Boston and Massachusetts ready to meet the bulk of the demand for hard liquor.

Throughout the state there is a throbbing pulse of distillery activity, deliberately muffled to a large extent, but growing stronger each day as the overwhelming voice of the people is recorded.

Twenty-six states now have ratified repeal and with three other states voting today on the issue, it was considered a foregone conclusion that prohibition will have ceased to exist by Nov. 7.

Idaho and New Mexico vote a week from today; Virginia on Oct. 3; Florida, Oct. 10, and the coup de grace will be given prohibition on Nov. 7, when six states go to the polls, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Utah and Kentucky.

Plans are being rushed in this state to renovate abandoned distilleries and build new ones.

In addition the two Boston plants which have been functioning under medicinal permits are preparing to increase their output tremendously as soon as the ban is lifted.

They are C. H. Graves & Sons, of 35 Hawkins st., manufacturers of a well-known gin, and Felton & Sons, Inc., of 18 E. Second st., South Boston, famous rum distillers.

Because of inquiries pouring in to the U. S. Bureau of Industrial Alcohol, regarding the manufacture of liquor, it is probable that a number of former well-known Greater Boston and Massachusetts distilleries may be functioning again within a few months.

These include, in addition to Graves and Felton's, the Nahum distillery, Charlestown; Chase, Somerville; Puritan, Cambridge; Porter, in Agawam, outside of Springfield, and the famous old Caldwell distillery in Newburyport.

$5000 REWARD!

The Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser offer a reward of $5000 for exclusive information resulting directly in the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who killed Margaret McCarthy. Transmit all such exclusive information to the City Editor, Liberty 4000, or call in person at the Boston American Editorial Department, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston, Mass.

TAMING THE NRA

THE pause in business since July is a matter to be carefully and prayerfully considered.

It is a reminder that prosperity cannot be re-created by a slogan.

As a matter of fact, the well-intentioned NRA drive, accompanied by the impulsive and sometimes intimidating expressions of General Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator and some of his Socialistic assistants added an element of uncertainty to the calculations of the business man.

As a result the business man stopped, looked, and listened, instead of continuing to move forward at the July rate.

Not knowing the outcome of it all, he restrained his forward operations.

The interruption can prove brief and unimportant if President Roosevelt will re-assure the business community.

The intention of Congress should be carried out, and the NRA experiment should be made CO-OPERATIVE, instead of COERCIVE.

IT should be properly interpreted as an adventure in raising social standards.

Its objectives are primarily HUMANE, rather than narrowly ECONOMIC.

Its complete achievement will be a matter of years, rather than mere weeks.

The aim should be to establish a partnership between government and business which will assure better pay and shorter hours for workers and improved management through freedom from obsolete restrictions and burdensome impositions upon business.

If successful, the effect will be to stabilize business, and keep it on an even, rational keel.

But an over-zealous hunger for first page publicity on the part of NRA has given the public the idea that it is the chief basis of recovery.

This is unfortunate and false.

The public should be heartened by the knowledge that natural economic factors are making for recovery in other principal countries.

At home, there is immense potential lifting power in the Agricultural Adjustment Administra-

MISSING MAN HUNTED IN STRANGLE KILLING

BULLETIN

Two bone buttons, one obviously torn by force from a garment and still sewed to a small section of green cloth, were found by Boston American reporters near the abandoned car of Harry Cahill in Wilmington. Peggy wore a green dress.

Harry P. Cahill, 42, a Lawrence man who recently lived in Somerville and knew Peggy McCarthy, 10-year-old murder victim, was sought today for questioning in connection with the strangling of the child.

Cahill vanished Sunday night, two days after discovery of Peggy's body in Cambridge, and his automobile was found abandoned yesterday on the shore of Silver Lake, Wilmington.

The lake is being dragged for his body. His car has been taken to Somerville for fingerprint examination.

Police said a witness had been found who placed Cahill near the little victim's home at 8 Marion st., Somerville, on Friday when she vanished.

CAHILL KNEW PEGGY

Out of the maze of contradictory "tops" and conflicting stories told by witnesses who had "seen" things, Cahill's strange disappearance leaped today as an important development having a tangible quality lacking in all other clues in the case.

He knew Peggy. He had taken her riding. He has vanished under circumstances indicating suicide.

FORMER COWBOY

Cahill is a stationary engineer, unemployed, but with prospects of a job on Oct. 1. He is a former Montana cowboy.

He is not married. His home, for the most part, has been with his father, Thomas P. Cahill, of Essex st., Lawrence. It was the father himself who sensed something amiss today and notified Lawrence

DR. BOOS FINDS ARSENIC DOSE KILLED MRS. GAUTREAU

Girl, 19, Thought Surgery Victim, Also Killed, Say Authorities; Fiance and 2 Others Held

Although their deaths had apparently been satisfactorily explained, the possibility that Mrs. Madeline Gautreau of Salem and Miss Laura Mailloux of Lawrence were murdered loomed big today as Dr. William F. Boos, Harvard toxicologist, reported that he had found a large quantity of poison in the body of each woman.

Mrs. Gautreau died suddenly last January in one of the roadside camps owned by her husband, Michael, near Ipswich. Death was believed due to natural causes until suspicions were aroused by her sister Mrs. Omer Provost of New Bedford.

HUSBAND SEEKS PROBE

She reported to Ipswich police in July that although her sister died in January she was not notified and her letters were answered in the dead woman's name.

Gautreau, when faced by state detectives said that he welcomed an investigation into his wife's death and offered to defray the exuenses if public funds were not readily available.

Dr. Boos said in his report today:

"I found arsenic in all the organs of Mrs. Gautreau's body, and the strength of the test which I obtained leads me to the conclusion that the victim's boyd contained considerable more than two grains. That is to say, more than a lethal dose."

The Mailloux igrl, who was only 19, was to have been married on Labor Day to Frank J. Chamberlain, 34, of Lawrence but she died about two weeks before that date, apparently as the result of an illegal operation.

TWO FACE CHARGES

Her fiance and two other Lawrence men, Rene Vermette, 33, and Hedwidge Tellier, 43, are at present facing charges in this connection.

"The character of the tests which I obtained for arsenic convinced me that the body of the victim contained a lethal amount of the poison," said Dr. Boos in his report on the case. "The presence of a considerable quantity of the poison in the stomach content is evidence of the recent administration of the poison."

Teachers Disagree With Convicts

Chicago, Sept. 12 (AP)—Schoolteachers do not regard kidnaping as such a serious crime as do prisoners of the Illinois State Penitentiary, the American Psychological Association was informed today.

The prisoner studies were made by Ray Mars Simpson of the Illinois department of public welfare. He said 272 Gary and Joliet high school teachers had rated kidnaping as the ninth most serious crime, while 200 convicts placed it sixth. The teachers put burglary in 22d place, while law ranks it eighth.

"The Bible stresses the duties of man to God," Mr. Simpson said, "while college freshmen and penitentiary inmates tend to rate as far more important those commandments which deal with the duties of man to man."

tion, which has the authority to bring farm prices to a parity with those prevailing in the great industries and service occupations.

The effect will be to create a balance, under which the vast social classes will be able to exchange among one another the product of their labors.

IN the interim, the process can be facilitated—and employment relieved—by more vigorous prosecution of public works and housing projects.

There is accordingly no crisis which necessitates the immediate adoption of remaining codes.

Such fundamental industrial Magna Chartas should be worked out leisurely.

Once the fundamental industries have adopted them, other branches of trade will adjust themselves.

Meantime, the self regulatory processes, which in the past have always accomplished recovery, are also vigorously at work.

These other factors, making for economic recovery, should be re-interpreted for business men.

And the business man should be convinced that he too will be a beneficiary from proper administration of the codes.

Under the law, he can trade better social relations with labor for greater freedom to cooperate with competitors in matters of price and general trade practices.

Likewise, the re-employment of the unemployed and the raising of wages will tend vastly to improve the consumer market in the United States to whom the business man caters.

As a further token of the desire to make profit possible in business, the Government should further hearten the business man BY GIVING HIM THE BENEFIT OF TAX REVISION.

A general manufacturers sales tax should be substituted for the existing hampering hodge podge of burdensome back breaking taxation.

By placing this new face on NRA, the administration will get the benefit of the enormous driving power of a nation of encouraged business men.

The good results will then flow freely to all branches of trade and employment.

The President is not the President of any part of the American people. He is the President of all the people.

The Democratic Party is emphatically not the party of any class or any faction or any section.

It is the party of the farmer, the industrialist, the workingman, the business man, the whole people.

Its concern and its activity should be for the welfare of the nation and of all the elements which constitute the nation.

It is only through the prosperity of all these elements that the nation can become soundly and permanently prosperous.

In remembering the forgotten man the remainder of the American citizenry should not be forgotten.

Entire City Under Code in Week Is Prediction

Prediction that the entire city of Boston would be enrolled under the NRA within another week was made by recovery officials today as plans were being continued to spread the recovery program effectively throughout New England.

At the same time Secretary Hugh D. Butler, of the New England NRA board, estimated that more than 100,000 persons had been put back to work in the New England states, excluding Connecticut, since the campaign began.

Announcement was also made by Brig.-Gen. John H. Sherburne, chairman of the committee on enrollment and interpretation of the state recovery board, to a meeting of county chairmen that a violation of the code is a penal offence and that the codes can be enforced by the various district attorneys once they are signed by employers.

Organization plans were completed for the establishment of the Massachusetts Junior NRA at a meeting held under the auspices of the State recovery board yesterday. It is expected more than 1,000,000 pupils of grammar and high schools and colleges and university students will be reached through this organization.

The State recovery board also met yesterday and sent a letter to Gov. Ely thanking him for his interest in the NRA and his efforts in behalf of the campaign. This was considered significant in view of recent criticism of the governor's attitude.

Chairman Edward A. Filene also sent letters to the mayors of all cities and the selectmen of towns asking them to speed up applications for appropriations from the federal government fund for public works.

Announcement was also made that more than 500 retail ice dealers in Greater Boston had formed a permanent organization and signed the blanket code. The new organization meets tomorrow night at 386 Harrison ave. to enroll other dealers who have not signed the code.

NRA district headquarters here last night reported the receipt of 982 signed agreements affecting 6232 employees. This brings the total of workers now affected in the district to 1,050,212.

Gang Forces Crime to Raise Trial Fund

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 12—Increasing crime in this region, including the robbing of the Railway Express Agency, was ascribed today by L. L. Drill, U. S. district attorney, to pressure by underworld leaders to raise funds for the defense of four members of the Roger Touhy gang.

They are awaiting trial for the kidnaping of William Hamm, Jr., millionaire brewer, for whose release $100,000 was paid.

BROCKTON SHOE STRIFE ARGUED BEFORE NRA

Issue Is Fought Out as Code Comes Up for Settlement

Washington, Sept. 12 (AP)—The National Recovery Administration faced additional controversy over the troublesome labor merit clause today as public hearings opened on a code to fix hours and minimum wages for 200,000 shoe workers.

Despite Hugh S. Johnson's declaration that the merit clause, approved in the automobile code, would be barred in future charters, the shoe manufacturers were prepared to contend vigorously for its retention.

A quick showdown is in prospect. Deputy Administrator C. C. Williams was expected to request withdrawal of the troublesome clause early in the hearing. Such a request, manufacturers said, would be refused.

Other controversies were in prospect.

MASSACHUSETTS MEN

A substitute code was brought here by a delegation representing the National Shoe Workers Association and the Shoe Workers Protective union. Among its provisions were prohibition of wage differentials between men and women, and guarantees that employes shall receive wages as high under the shorter hours of the code as were paid previously for a longer week.

This group consisted of C. F. Nelson Pratt of Saugus, Mass., member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives acting as advisor to the National Shoe Workers Association, John D. Nolan of Boston, president of the Shoe Workers Protective Association, and Franklin Priest of Haverhill, Mass., and P. E. Turner of St. Louis, also of the Protective organization.

The Brotherhood of Shoe and Allied Craftsmen and the Boot and Shoe Workers Union were expected to air their controversy which has brought about a strike of several thousand shoe workers in Brockton, Mass. The union has contracts with Brockton manufacturers and members withdrawing from the brotherhood have been dismissed by employers.

LYNN AND BOSTON WAGES

One clause in the code bears directly on the issue. It provides that contracts now in existence shall be recognized during the life of the agreement.

The code will be explained by Roger A. Selby, president of the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturing Association, and by Franklin McElwain, a member of the code committee.

Wages and hours in Lynn, Mass., and in Boston will be discussed by Mrs. Mary A. McGee and Bernie McGovern, of the National Stitchers Union, and a summary of conditions in Philadelphia will be given by Charles Schmidt of the general convention of shoe workers there.

Opposition to the provision in the code restricting shoe style shows will be offered by A. N. Lockwood, for the Annual Boston Shoe Show Co., and by A. N. Genting of Philadelphia and James H. Stone of Chicago, for the National Shoe Retailers Association.

Edwin S. Smith, of the Massachusetts labor department, will submit a report on his investigation of the Brockton difficulties and also on the controversy in East Springfield, Mass., where officials of the Westinghouse and Electric Manufacturing Co. have been accused of interference with efforts of union organizers. The Westinghouse situation probably will be discussed at the board meeting tomorrow.

7th Wedding for Eugenia Bankhead

London, Sept. 12 (AP)—The engagement of Eugenia Bankhead, sister of the film actress, Tallulah Bankhead, and Kennedy McConnell, son of a retired Scottish coal magnate, was announced today. It will be her seventh wedding ceremony.

The date for the wedding has not been set, said McConnell, explaining that his fiancee intends to visit her sister, who is in the United States recovering from an illness.

Eugenia Bankhead

"Maybe we'll be married in the United States or England," he added.

"The first time I met Mr. McConnell was about five years ago," she said. "We met again this summer. I have been married six times, three times to Morton Hoyt, a Washington millionaire. We were last divorced in 1929; we were first married 13 years ago when we were both under 20."

GIRL'S LOYALTY ACQUITS FIVE IN ROBBERY

Sweetheart of One Refuses to Testify; 2 Now in Prison

Five men, two of them now serving sentences, were acquitted today in Middlesex superior court on a charge of stealing a safe from the Cambridge Electric Light Co.—their acquittal coming on a directed verdict because the sweetheart of one refused to testify.

In asking Judge Walter L. Collins to direct verdicts of not guilty, Asst. Dist. Atty. Paul R. Foley said he was convinced the men were guilty and there had been evidence to prove it but that the girl, Ann Mariner, would not testify.

The defendants included Charles F. Hughes, 26, of Astor st., Back Bay, the girl's alleged sweetheart, now serving four to five years in state prison; Clarence E. Quinn, 24, of Newbury st., Back Bay, serving six months for receiving the money alleged to have been stolen with the safe.

The other three were James A. Downes, 23, of Chambers st.; Daniel Leary, 24, of Blossom st., and Joseph Bell, 23, of Kenard ave., all of Boston.

Last April 1 9the safe was stolen from the Cambridge office, and a short time afterward Boston police went to the Astor st. apartment and found there, it was testified, Hughes, the Mariner girl and her half-sister, Catherine McKeon. The latter had just returned from City Hospital where she had been treated after a beating administered by Hughes.

While police were questioning the trio, Quinn arrived. On revelations by the girls, police went to Quinn's home where they found a money bag and cash alleged to have been in the stolen safe. In a Dorchester garage the investigators found parts of a safe and some tools.

Why PRAY LINOLEUM and why NOW

PRAY'S, the linoleum house of New England, is the logical place to buy linoleum at any time, because Pray stocks are the largest in New England and Pray prices are regularly lowest. This is a natural result from Pray's unique position as importer, jobber, contractor and retailer.

And NOW is the logical time to buy, because Pray's huge stocks were bought while prices were lowest and have not been marked up to replacement levels. In fact, 28 patterns listed below are actually offered at sharp reductions from low regular prices. Remember, too, that Pray prices are for "all laid" linoleum, including everything—the linoleum, the labor of laying, the felt lining and the cement.

EXTRA POLICE ON GUARD IN HARWICH

Expect Violence When Provincetown 'Strike-Breakers' Get There

Serious disorders, perhaps even bloodshed, were feared in the Cape Cod cranberry war late this afternoon by Chief of Police Emulous Hall of Harwich, where the newly unionized pickers and the bog owners apparently were preparing for a showdown.

The vast A. B. Makepeace bog and those of the Cape Cod Cannery Co. apparently were destined to be the scene of the battle. Both are adjacent to Harwich. None of the 500 workers normally employed at the former place reported for work this morning, while only a scant 50 were on hand at the latter.

The rest of the workers—more than 700 strong—were in Harwich this morning, joining the new union at a dollar a head. J. D. McIntosh, Fred Wood and Ferdinand Silva, who claim to represent the New Bedford Central Labor Union, were enrolling them.

CONCENTRATE ON HARWICH

Hall ordered half a dozen of his men to patrol the bogs, and said that he was ready to call on the State Police at the first sign of trouble.

Meanwhile, pickets left the Holmes bog in Plymouth, where the strikers were replaced this morning by 200 workers supplied by the welfare department of the city. Union agitators said that this was in line with their policy of forcing the issue at the big Harwich bogs. The pickets also indicated that they were loathe to act against the welfare workers.

OTHER ZONES QUIET

In Wareham and other points of the "war zone" there was comparative peace today, although, for the most part, only small independent bog owners were working.

Authorities, however, were taking no chances of a flare-up. Armed guards were patrolling the bogs, 100 citizens—50 from Wareham and a like number from Plymouth—having been deputized at Wareham last night by Selectman Theodore A. Robinson. He said his action was the result of open threats by the agitators to set some of the bogs on fire.

GIRL'S FINGER OFF IN CRASH

Miss Margaret Queeney of 104 D st., South Boston, suffered a slashed left wrist and amputation of her right middle finger when two automobiles crashed at Shawmut ave. and Union Park st. and the car in which she was a passenger overturned.

William J. Gibbs, giving addresses in Lynde st., Malden, and Park st., Concord, N. H., was operator of the New Hampshire car in which Miss Queeney was riding, but he escaped injury.

The other car was operated by Harold A. Brewster of 93 Roxbury st., Roxbury, and riding with him was his wife, Mrs. Helen Brewster. They also escaped injury.

LOWELL PLEADS FOR FAIR DEAL

Judge James A. Lowell made a plea for a "square deal" in the administration of justice, when admitting five young women and 36 men to practice in the federal courts, at the opening of the fall term of the U. S. District court today.

"It is my opinion," said Judge Lowell, "that the numerous jail breaks are due to the fact that prisoners feel they have not had a square deal.

"There is nothing more devine in human life than justice. We are soon to move to far more beautiful courtrooms in the Federal Building, but physical beauty in a courtroom is far less important than the justice dispensed therein.

"Personally I a minclined to informality. I never could see how a smile or laughter was harmful so long as proper decorum is maintained, but above all there should be the square deal and justice. This court is happy to welcome you."

It was an unusual and decidedly human lecture. Amon gthe five young women lawyers admitted were three graduates of Portia Law School Misses Mary A. Dean, 81 North st., Randolph; Marion L. Gaffney, 42 Gale st., Malden, and Helen M. Dignan, 9 Bradley st., Hyde Park. The other two women lawyers are Misses Henrietta S. Files of Quincy and Sarah G. Grodin of Boston. Among the men lawyers was Edward F. Flynn, former assistant district attorney of Essex county.

HOOVER MOVES TO CURB NEW RACKETS

U. S. Agents Await Repeal for New Gang Moves

Washington, Sept. 12—It's going to be heavy sledding for bootleggers and illicit liquor dealers who plan to try new rackets if prohibition is repealed. The justice department intends to crush them.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the department's bureau of investigation and crime expert, discussed the outlook today. Every strategic agency of his organization, he said, will have men ready to meet any new shift in lawless tendencies.

DRIVE ALWAYS ON

"Many persons now in the bootlegging business will turn to various forms of racketeering," Hoover said. "They have been used to a life of crime and do not know how to work for an honest living. Every bureau in this country will have men trained to cope with such a situation should it arise."

But Hoover said recent transfers of key men in his bureau were routine promotions and indicated no intensified drive on rackets in any one sector.

Hoover emphasized the work his division is doing against all forms of crime, particularly kidnaping and extortion.

"Every kidnaping case turned over to this division since enactment of the Federal kidnaping law in June, 1932, has been solved," he said. "In some cases we have not arrested all the persons involved but we know who they are. In others, we have not yet gone to trial, but every case has been unraveled.

DEATH TO END WAVE

"Every time we make an arrest or get a conviction in any case it helps put the fear of God and the law into criminals. It is this fear and the confidence of the decent people in our work that will do much toward wiping out crime.

"A criminal will take a life sentence or a period of years with the hope that some day he will be pardoned or paroled but when one knows he is going to be executed then he comes face to face with the full power of the law and makes for his fellow criminals a forceful example that is bound to be a deterrent to crime."

MAN HELD WITH GIRL MOTHER

Charged with the death of her baby, Miss Constance Simons, 30, of Wellesley and Malden, in Dedham District court today before Judge Clifford B. Sandborn was held for the grand jury in $5000.

She was arrested in Wellesley last night. The child's body was found on a Wellesley golf course early in the summer.

According to Police Chief Fleming, of Wellesley, Miss Simons admitted the crime, saying the child was born in the home of a Wellesley school teacher. In court she waived reading of the complaint.

Also in court was Charles Jordan, of Greensborough rd., Dedham, father of six children and chauffeur for Prof. Philip Cabot, of Harvard, who lives in Canton ave., Milton.

Jordan was accused of attempting illegal surgery on Miss Simons. He was held in $2000 till Sept. 22.

Miss Simons' home is Evelyn pl., Malden, but she said she had been living with Miss Elizabeth Hewins, of Wellesley.

GRAND JURY TO HEAR FEDERAL BANK CASE

Indictment of Six Officials Is to Be Urged Soon

The new U. S. grand jury, before whom cases of the Federal National bank and three of its affiliates will be presented, was sworn in today at the opening of the fall term.

Judge James A. Lowell appointed Lowell M. Allison, manufacturer of 54 Chester road, Belmont, foreman on the bench with Judge Lowell were Judges Hugh D. McLellan and Ilisha H. Brewster.

Special Atty.-Gen. Irving D. McCann, who has been gathering evidence in the Federal National failure since June, was in court. He refused to make any statement as to his plans. From other sources it was learned the Federal National Bank case may not be reached until late this week or the first of next week.

That new charges will be lodged against Daniel C. Mulloney, president of the Federal National, appeared certain today. It was also intimated that from five to six other officials of the collapsed bank chain, with deposits of $40,000,000, might be named.

Mulloney, a former bank examiner, was indicted by the outgoing Federal grand jury on Aug. 21, in order to win a race against the statutes of limitations. He was arrested in New York and brought back to Boston. He was a witness in the Walker-Sherwood probe in New York when taken into custody.

He is out on $15,000 bail. His counsel was today granted a continuance until Oct. 2 to file.

Shakespeare Cited for Jap Killers

Tokyo, Sept. 12 (AP)—Shakespeare was appealed to across the centuries and the vast differences of occidental and oriental civilizations today, in behalf of ten young naval officers on trial for killing Premier Suyoshi Inukai in May, 1932.

The defense attorney, Naoyoshi Tsuxasaki, dramatically disclaimed passages to show the assassination of Inukai was comparable to the slaying of Julius Caesar.

"The accused had as their purpose establishment of a better, purer state," the attorney asserted.

Chicks in Eggs Given Vets, Charge in Newton Fight

Antique eggs and dried-up oranges are among the uneatables being delivered to Newton's needy war veterans, according to complaints made at a big protest meeting in the aldermanic chamber at City Hall.

With the aid of leaders of veterans' organizations, the men on the soldiers' relief roll asked for cash instead of food, and charged that attempts are being made to "pauperize" them.

Under the present system, recently established, the veterans receive their aid entirely in food delivered at their homes by grocers and other dealers under contract with the city.

"I was given six eggs and four of them had chickens in them," said Louis J. Legorio of Jones st. "I took them to the board of health and the odor was so bad they dragged me out into the open air.

"Uncle Sam didn't have to beg us to go to war but we have to beg for good food that is fit to eat."

Arthur P. Broulette, past commander of the Spanish War Veterans, said the state law forbids pauperizing of veterans but attempts had been made to get some Newton veterans to sign a paper which would pauperize them.

Alderman Dennis Cronin presented a petition signed by more than 200 veterans asking a change and declared the law required the aid to be in cash.

The aldermen claim they have no jurisdiction in the matter, but they listened to the protests because there was considerable criticism when they refused to listen previously.

Seventh anniversary of his wedding today found Albert C. Read, Jr., Los Angeles broker, on the witness stand testifying for Claire Windsor, who is being sued for alienation by his wife.

Sales Betterment Seen in Georgia

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 12 (US)—Improvement in sales of fall clothing, replacement of obsolete furniture, refilling of coal bins, improved demand for hardware, particularly grates and firearms for the approaching hunting season, and a sharp decrease in the number of homes vacant due to "crowding" of two or more families into single houses during the depression, were reported over the South last week.

Improvement in these lines of business has been solely the result of increasing co-operation with the administration's National Recovery Act. The "Buy in September" campaign has been responsible for a great deal of the increased purchasing in Georgia and neighboring states.

READ OBSERVES WEDDING DATE ON STAND

Broker and Wife Secretly Married 7 Years Ago

Los Angeles, Sept. 12—Just seven years ago Alfred C. Read Jr., handsome young broker, secretly married Marian Young, his college sweetheart.

Today, on the anniversary of that wedding, Read will testify against his ex-wife in Mrs. Read's $100,000 alienation of affections suit against Claire Windsor, beautiful blonde stage and screen actress.

Read, who declared he doesn't like to say anything against his former mate but feels he must help Miss Windsor, didn't want to testify on the anniversary day.

ASKS TO BE EXCUSED

He asked that another witness be called. The situation, he felt, might evoke unpleasant memories for him and for the former wife who must sit in the courtroom as he testifies.

He is expected to deny that Miss Windsor alienated his affections. The defense attorneys will cross-examine him at length and attempt to prove Mrs. Read and her husband were actually estranged before he met the glamorous actress in 1931 on a transcontinental train.

PLOT PROBE FORECAST

Read's testimony will follow charges made in court by Miss Windsor's attorneys that he had conspired with his former wife to build a case against the actress and planned, if successful, to create a trust fund for their two children with the money obtained. He will be the first witness for the defense.

The charge was made when Miss Windsor's attorneys asked permission to file a supplementary answer in the case, but the answer has not been filed.

NRA IS BEYOND SOCIALISM, SAYS FILENE

Adds Cooperation to Profit Motive, He Tells 'Ad' Men

The NRA goes far beyond socialism, Edward A. Filene, Boston merchant prince, today told the Advertising Club of Boston at its first luncheon of the season in the Hotel Statler.

E. A. Filene

"The very most that socialism can promise is the honest administration by the State of the mechanism of production and distribution," he said. "How much honesty and efficiency such an administration could develop is a mystery.

"We know, however, what the American business man, in his selfish pursuit of profits, can do. Only the periodic breakdown of the economic mechanism has prevented the abolition of poverty."

It is the purpose of the NRA, explained Mr. Filene, to avoid such breakdowns, not by taking away the profit motive which has made possible all our progress, but by adding to it the principle of co-operation. It retains human selfishness, but puts it to work for the common good.

Advertising assumes a new importance in business under the New Deal, he went on. To supply every one with the necessities and comforts of life, and to provide employment for all, it is necessary to turn to mass production, he said. And mass production demands mass sales.

That means that the masses must have sufficient buying power, he reasoned, and this is to be obtained only through higher wages and shorter hours. Mere thrift—non-buying—will not produce it.

In this juncture advertising assumes a new dignity and importance, he argued. It must put away ballyhoo. It must leave out the bunk. It must be a courageous expression of business under the New Deal. It must be for intelligent persons to read.

It can no longer render its services to the wage slasher and the shirker, Mr. Filene said. Nor can it help a merchant to charge $2 for a $1 product. Overcharging makes less prosperity, instead of more, because it means less production and less buying.

Advertising must aim to put the masses to work, he said. And it must aim to aid them to consume their way to prosperity.

"The old system destroyed itself. We couldn't go any farther in the direction we were going," he said.

Court to Sentence Two Women Friday

Springfield, Sept. 12—The cases of two Philadelphia women, Mrs. Elizabeth Hughes and her daughter, Catherine Hughes, will be disposed of in court here on Friday.

The women were arrested here Sept. 1, when their auto was found to be loaded with goods allegedly stolen from stores in this city, Worcester and Boston.

"ALFALFA BILL" HEADS COURT FIGHT

Oklahoma City, Sept. 12 — Gov. William H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray has gone to bat with the State Supreme court.

He threatened an attempt to unseat its members by submitting a constitutional amendment to the people and outlined resistance to a court order vacating the salary cuts for elective state officers which he whipped through the last Legislature.

To his constant political foe, State Auditor Frank Carter, who was directed only last Friday by a special Supreme court to pay Chief Justice Fletcher Riley $625 a month instead of the $500 appropriated by the Legislature, "Alfalfa Bill" wrote:

"This is to inform you that your are urged to uphold the law, which I believe you will do; and, assuring you that, in the event you are found as for contempt by any court, I shall immediately pardon you for the act of maintaining the law, and we have 5000 National Guards to enforce the order."

ADVISORY BOARD PONDERS MANY PROJECTS

State construction projects costing about $1,835,000, approved by Gov. Ely, must be sanctioned by the federal advisory board, of which former Gov. Alvan T. Fuller is chairman, before being sent to Washington for final approval.

Included in the list of projects submitted by the Emergency Public Works board and approved by the governor is one calling for three dormitories at the Norfolk State Prison Colony, to cost $660,000. There is also an item of $284,000 for a power plant at the Northampton State hospital and $184,000 more for a new ward building at the same institution.

Other projects are: storage shed for artillery transportation at Natick, $96,000; steam and electrical systems at Massachusetts State College, $100,000; storage and storehouse and sewer bed construction, Monson State Hospital, $130,000; State police barracks, Framingham, $62,000; substations at Concord, $35,000; Hyannis, $35,000; Shelburne Falls, $35,000, and Topsfield, $35,000; cold storage and power distribution at Gardner State Colony, $95,000.

WOMAN IS TRIED AS KIDNAPER

Edwardsville, Ill., Sept. 12—A woman and five men went on trial for their lives in the kidnaping of August Luer, wealthy Alton, Ill., packer.

While the jury was being picked the federal department of justice stood at the shoulders of Madison County officials in the latter's efforts to send the defendants to the electric chair.

Mrs. Lillian Chessen, 50, of East Alton, who is inclined to plumpness, fanned herself with a printed court document as she sat among the defendants. The state charges she pointed out Luer as a prospective kidnap victim.

Beside her sat her husband, Charles Chessen, also accused. Behind them were Christ Nicola Gitcho, said to have written a ransom note and Randol Norvell, professional bondsman who had admitted he was involved in the abduction. In the last row sat Percy M. Fitzgerald, St. Louis ex-convict, who admitted he was one of the kidnapers, and Mike Musiala, 77, in whose musty cellar Luer was held for six days before being released when ransom negotiations failed.

Public Accountant Classes Open Soon

A special class for men and women, preparing for the state certified public accountants' examination, will open Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in Room 15, State House. The course, offered by the State Department of Education's University Extension Division, will be given by Daniel B. Lewis, formerly member of the state board of examiners of certified public accountants. The class will meet weekly for eight weeks.

Alert Cashier Halts Bad Check Passing

Through the alertness of a restaurant cashier in Inman sq., Cambridge, Herbert Bassett, 27, of Hurley st., East Cambridge, faced district court today on charges of uttering a forged check for $29.

The cashier, Miss Kay Mahoney, reported to Patrolman Thomas O'Neil after Bassett was alleged to have arranged by telephone for the cashing of the check as the friend of a Cambridge automobile official.

Atlantic Phone Wooer Takes Bride

Leamington Spa., Eng., Sept. 12 (INS)—A transatlantic telephone romance culminated today in the marriage of Dr. William Edward Fogerty, Warwickshire physician, and Miss Aileen Kelleher of New York.

Dr. Fogerty proposed to his bride over the long distance phone after she returned to New York following a tour of England during which they met.

STORK BRINGS GRANDCHILD TO GOV. ELY

Gov. Joseph B. Ely was reported "doing well" today, he having become a grandpa for the first time through the birth of a daughter to Mrs. Richard Ely, wife of the Governor' only son.

Mrs. Richard Ely

The baby was born at Faulkner Hospital, Center st., Jamaica Plain, and today was expecting a visit most any time from her famous granddad. The Governor's son was at the hospital to receive the news.

Both mother and daughter were reported "exceptionally well" by hospital authorities, the baby bearing the normal weight at birth of nearly eight pounds.

Mrs. Ely, the former Louise Ludwick of East Brady, Pa., was admitted to the hospital at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The baby was born at 6 o'clock in the evening.

Through a telephone call from his son, Gov. Ely learned of his new honors in a matter of but a few minutes later.

Richard and Miss Ludwick were married at East Brady, Pa., on June 25, 1932, Gov. Ely and Mrs. Ely making the long trip to attend the ceremony.

After the honeymoon the young couple returned to Boston and of late have made their home at 73 Chestnut Hill rd., Chestnut Hill.

8000 View New Federal Building

Boston's new $6,000,000 federal building, dedicated Saturday and opened to the public yesterday, was the goal of 6000 to 8000 visitors on the opening day, according to figures today. Frank A. Crowley, assistant superintendent of mails, has been placed in charge of 35 guides to assist the visitors.

'We'll Say Summer's Gone,' Middlesex County Wails

"The first story I want this morning," said the city editor arriving from his Billerica farm all wrapped up in last year's blue Benny, "is a story about the weather."

So here it is:

The first heavy frost of the season damaged late crops in BILLERICA, Lexington, Concord, Bedford and other inland farming communities early today.

In Lexington the temperature dropped to 28, coldest for the date in several years, and the official reading in Concord was 32.6, lowest for a Sept. 12 in a decade.

In some places a heavy dew caused more of a freeze than a frost.

Mackerel schools began heading south and other poor fish headed for cellars to burn up the rubbish or start a genuine coal fire. Topcoats made an incongruous appearance under the soiled late-season sailor straws. High overhead the geese came honking from the northland. Summer's dying, brother, and the forecast is little change in temperature.

The lowest figure officially recorded, at the Boston weather bureau, was 47 from 2 to 6 a. m. The record low officially was 43 in 1875, and it was 45 in 1917 and 46 in 1914.

THREAT OF U. S. LANDING STIRS CUBAN CHIEFS

In Havana harbor are the U. S. cruiser Richmond, flagship of Rear Admiral Freeman, the battleship Mississippi and the destroyers Triggs and Goff, sent here by Washington to protect American lives should there be any disturbance. Numerous other American warships are in Cuban waters.

BLOODY UPSET FEARED

Certain sections opposing the Grau San Martin regime feel that a bloody upset is due. The general view among well-informed Cubans is that the present government will have a hard time maintaining order, and that only a man of outstanding power, force, military genius and popularity, can save the situation, and then only by resorting to drastic methods.

The quiet that marked the closing hours of the De Cespedes administration is missing. The hunting of Porristas (Machado assassins) suspended shortly after De Cespedes came into power was resumed today by a group of ABC affiliates. Police stopped them from taking a Porrista prisoner in Mariano.

While the army officers at the National Hotel are demanding that De Cespedes be permitted to return to office, as condition of their support of the government, De Cespedes refuses absolutely to consider this course.

U. S. TRADE PACT SOUGHT

Provisional President Grau San Martin despite threats of an upset by the former army officers and the possibility of American intervention, went ahead today in his efforts to establish a government.

At the same time, he made overtures to the United States for what he hoped would be a mutually beneficial trade agreement. Of this he said:

"I favor an immediate, mutual trade agreement with the United States. Cuba is grateful for the aid given her many times in the past by the United States.

The chief problem confronting the new regime is to find a way of pacifying the high army officers, part of the ABC society and the supporters of former President Mario G. Menocal and Gen. Mendieta, who have not yet endorsed the new government.

COUNTER-PLOT FEARED

There are insistent reports that these groups are plotting a counter revolt, but the high army officers, virtual prisoners under the American flag in the National Hotel, have only to look out windows to see that an army machine gun is trained on the building. This stopped revolt talk in the hotel.

Another important problem demanding quick solution is that created by reports from the interior of Communist raids taking over business enterprises and administering them solely for benefit of the workers, without acknowledging the existence of a government in Havana. Grau San Martin pledged that Communism would be wiped out peacefully.

Grau San Martin Cabinet Filled Save for 2 Posts

Havana, Sept. 12 (INS)—President Grau San Martin forged ahead with the important task of forming a strong cabinet as part of his program to restore constitutional government in Cuba.

After hours of hard work, he had succeeded in filling all but a few cabinet posts. The appointments follow:

Secretary of state, Marques Sterling; sub-secretary of state, Luis A. Barnet; secretary of the treasury, Col. Manuel Despaigne; secretary of justice, Dr. Rios Balmaseda; secretary of interior, Dr. Antonio Guiteras;: secretary of sanitation, Dr. Carlos J. Finlay; secretary of public instruction, Dr. Manuel Costales Latatu; secretary of communications, Gustavo Aguado; secretary of agriculture and commerce, (not filled); secretary of labor, (not filled).

Ramiro Capablanca, brother of the chess champion, was named secretary to the president.

Kelvinator Workers Enjoy Harbor Sail

As a reward for the excellent work of dealers and salesmen in establishing a new sales record for Kelvinator in this territory, officials of the Kelvinator Sales Corp., Memorial Drive, Cambridge, were hosts to their dealers and friends on a cruise of Boston Harbor last night.

Over 350 went aboard the steamer Dorothy Bradford. A great diversity of entertainment was offered. Music for dancing was furnished by a well known orchestra.

The committee on arrangements was headed by H. T. Troutwine, branch manager, with D. R. Bates, sales manager, in charge of the entertainment and features.

U. S. All Set for Trouble in Havana

Washington, Sept. 12 (INS)—With 30 U. S. warships in or near Cuban waters, President Roosevelt today was prepared to act on a moment's notice to protect the lives of American citizens in the turbulent republic if unruly elements should attempt to wreack mob violence on U. S. Nationals.

Although it was emphasized repeatedly that the landing of American forces is the last act this government desires, officials indicated if American citizens are harmed the President will risk the friendship of other Latin-American nations to go to their aid.

Determination of the President to protect American lives, even at the cost of his coveted plan for the development of closer relations with South America, coupled with the uncertainty of the existing situation in Cuba, had State Department officials apprehensive.

While Secretary of State Hull made it plain the United States was prepared to extend recognition to the new Cuban government at the first evidence of its stability, officials were doubtful when such assurance of stability might be forthcoming.

TRIO PERISH IN AIR CRASH

Chicago, Sept. 12 (US)—Fate of a young woman and two men who set out Wednesday to fly from South Bend to Chicago in an autogyro was determined when their bodies were discovered floating in Lake Michigan off Indiana Harbor.

Identification was made first of Miss Majenia Gerard, of River Forest, Ill., from the description furnished by her family, and by a diamond ring she was wearing on her right hand.

The other victims were H. E. ("Spud') Manning, champion parachute jumper, and Charles T. Otto, pilot of the gyro.

It was thought probable that the plane was forced into the lake when its gas supply was exhausted.

Roxbury Man Faces Auto Death Charge

Theodore Eldracher of Hillside st., Roxbury, faced a manslaughter charge at Swanzey, N. H., today, as the result of the death of Mrs. John Wilber, 50, in an automobile accident.

Eldracher's car, police said, sideswiped another on the Dartmouth College highway and then caromed and struck Mrs. Miller, who was standing on a lawn. Eldracher was first held in $2000 on a charge of reckless driving, but death several hours later of Mrs. Wilber caused a change in the charge.

NRA Board Averts Cleveland Strike

Washington, Sept., 12 (US) — A strike which threatened to tie up the entire transit system of Cleveland, O., has been definitely averted through the mediation of the NRA National Labor Board, it has been announced.

Senator Robert F. Wagner, (D) of New York, chairman of the board, received a report from the board's representative in Cleveland that an agreement had been signed. The agreement runs to May, 1934.

Newport Welcomes British Man of War

Newport, R. I., Sept. 12—The city of Newport and the summer colony has opened a series of entertainments for the officers and men of the British warship Norfolk which put in here for a nine-day stay.

The Norfolk, flagship of the British North American and West Indian fleet, was met at the dock by civic officials and Dr. Alexander Hamilton Rice, noted explorer.

Rowley Youth Was Suicide Victim

Newburyport, Sept. 12—Police investigating the death of Wilfred Morin, 17, formerly of this city, whose body was discovered hanging by a rope from a tree only 100 yards from his home in Rowley, have decided death was due to suicide.

Morin, son of Mrs. Denton Smith, Glenn st., Rowley, dropped from sight in that town on Aug. 29.

Executioner's Axe Kills Mother, Son

Torgau, Silesia, Sept. 12 (INS)—A woman and her son were beheaded today—by the axe—for the murder of her husband.

They were Mrs. Lina Liess and her son, Walter, who paid the extreme penalty upon conviction of the murder.

Another son, Willy, 14 years old, was sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary as an accessory to the crime.

25,000 Get Fed Free on 'Sauerkraut Day'

Forreston, Ill., Sept. 12—Other towns may celebrate about this, that and the other thing, but in Forreston the annual "Sauerkraut Day" is the thing. Sept. 14 is the date. All comers get free food and the town is figuring on feeding no less than 25,000 of them.

Of these only about 1000 live in Forreston.

ROOSEVELT TO REJECT PLAN TO DISARM

Washington, Sept. 12 (US)—President Roosevelt will reject the British disarmament program for abolition of bombing airplanes, now pending at Geneva, if Britain persists in demanding her "exceptions," Universal Service learned today.

BAN ALL BOMBERS

The President has advised Norman H. Davis, American delegate to the Disarmament Conference, that while the United States favors the abolition of bombing planes as "offensive weaponns of warfare" it insists that such abolition must be agreed to and carried out by every nation in the world and the abolition must be absolute.

Great Britain has been fighting for a clause that would permit the use of bombing planes under 6000 pounds unladen weight for frontier patrol work. Britain would be allowed to use such planes in Iraq and other far removed possessions.

The United States, having no such possessions requiring bombing planes, probably would be ruled out.

Thus, while Great Britain could not build any vast bombing fleet she could be constantly developing bomb sites, bomb launching equipment and planes themselves. The United States, which now has by long odds the fastest and most efficient bombing planes in the world, would have to junk its equipment and give up all development in the bombing field.

ALL DISARM OR NONE

The President is convinced that no progress can be made in air disarmament unless all nations alike are complete in their abandonment of bombing planes.

If one nation retains this type of equipment for any reason whatsoever the weapon remains as a potential danger, he feels. He is not willing to junk the American bombing corps and leave the British or any other nation in a position to continue development.

BYRD FLIES BIG PLANE TO N. Y.

New York, Sept. 12—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd landed the big plane he will take on his second trip to the Antarctic at Glenn Curtiss airport after a flight from Chicago.

With him were Harold June, who flew with Admiral Byrd over the South Pole and who will act as chief pilot on the forthcoming expedition; W. M. Bowlin, pilot; Paul Swan, mechanic, and E. K. Campbell, an aeronautical engineer.

The plane has been fitted with four extra 200-gallon tanks, giving the ship a total fuel capacity of 1100 gallons and a cruising range of 1800 miles. A specially equipped autogyro will be included in the equipment Admiral Byrd will have when the expedition leaves Boston Sept. 28.

On the trip from Chicago Admiral Byrd did much of the piloting himself and made it plain he expects to do a good part of the actual flying in the observation flights over the Antarctic.

Tiny 'Miss Detroit' Happiest at Fair

Chicago, Sept. 12—Tiny Joan Lott, "Little Miss Detroit," already famous, with a movie contract just around the corner, was perhaps the happiest visitor at the World's Fair yesterday.

The petite, blonde 4-year-old won an opportunity contest conducted by the Detroit Times and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios in July and August. Joan won over thousands of contestants and 21 runners-up in the semifinals.

Selection was made on the basis of beauty and accomplishments. Toe dancing is Joan's chief performance, although singing and piano playing are also on her list. She will compete in a national contest in Hollywood studios of M-G-M.

Rich Farmer's Will Opposed at Probate

Portsmouth, R. I., Sept. 12—About 20 relatives of John L. Borden, aged farmer, who died several months ago, through counsel, opposed the probating of his will, under the terms of which the Newport Hospital was to receive $600,000. Another $100,000 was distributed in minor bequests.

The town council, sitting as a court of probate, took the matter under advisement after about three hours of argument.

Aimee Dares Hutton to Sue; They'll Vie for Broadway

Kenosha, Wis., Sept. 12 (INS)—David Hutton, the portly baritone, is using his divorce threat as a "publicity stunt" to promote his vaudeville career, his evangelist wife, Aimee Semple McPherson, charged today.

"I am sick and tired of all the threats of a divorce action with no action," she complained. "For weeks I have begged him, his manager and his attorney to go through with the divorce, but they have so far neglected that important step."

The evangelist flew here from Minneapolis to address the fourth annual convention of the eastern district of the Four Square Gospel church.

"Barking dogs don't bite, and I rather think he is using this divorce as a publicity stunt for his cheap theatrical adventure," she said.

By DOROTHY ROE
Universal Service

New York, Sept. 12—Footlights look better than candles to David (Strong Man) Hutton.

And he feels more at home singing a torch song on Broadway than warbling hymns in Angelus Temple under the fond eye of his estranged spouse, Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton.

Breathing deep the bright air of freedom, David quivered his three chins in deep emotion as he explained that a man can't marry a whole church and like it.

But Davey, as Aimee used to call him, hasn't entirely evaded the grasp of his evangelistic wife. While he is being billed impressively as "David Hutton, in person," in Brooklyn and New York cinema palaces, Sister Aimee will be doing a rival act in Manhattan night clubs.

Davey sighed as he said:

"That's not my idea. I don't want her playing in the same town with me. I even stopped off at Minneapolis and tried to get her to change her booking, so she wouldn't be following me. But she wouldn't do it.

"I asked her not to go on the stage at all. I told her I was shocked at the idea that she was going on the stage, because it was against all the principles she always taught, but she said:

"'Please don't call it the stage. It's the platform. I'm going to carry on with God's work.'"

Tobacco Crop Cut Battle Nearly Won

Raleigh, N. C., Sept., 12—The big battle to put over the government's acreage-reduction, price-raising tobacco campaign was virtually won with reports from the field telling of thousands of growers' signatures placed to contracts.

Agriculture experts of the Carolinas agreed that the success of the plan was assured in view of the enthusiasm shown for it by the leaf growers.

AMERICAN-ADVERTISER TEST BALLOTS BEING PREPARED

Secrecy and Accuracy to Be Paramount Points in Mayoralty Straw Vote Conducted by Newspapers

To decide the strongest Democratic candidate for mayor of Boston.

The verdict to be delivered by the voters themselves.

Plans for this definite and convincing test of the dramatic Mayoralty campaign, with the choice of the next Mayor of Boston to guide this metropolis in the important four years to come, were being speeded to conclusion by these newspapers today.

Formal application has been made to the Elections Department for an official and authentic list of the 161,000 registered Democratic voters of Boston.

The postcard ballots are being drafted in proper form for presentation to the printers.

The Boston Postal Department is being sought for the customary authority in publishing these postcard ballots and for distributing them through the mail to the proper addresses.

Clerical and technical forces are being assembled to copy the list of voters and to address the straw ballots to them.

Another force is being organized to compile and tabulate the ballots as soon as they are received in order that daily announcement may be made of the returns.

Certified public accountants will be designated to make an accurate check of these ballots and their identity soon will be announced.

The Straw Ballots should be in the hands of the voters the latter part of this week.

The voterrs will be enabled to mark the choice of their favorite candidate.

If the name of any candidate favored by any voter does not appear upon the ballot, there will be a blank space with adequate room in which to write the name of that favored candidate.

The purpose of this Straw Ballot is to enable the Democratic voters of Boston to register their preference for Mayor and thus to derive every possibility which can exist for them to have a Mayor of their own choosing out of the dramatic but muddled Mayoralty situation which now hovers by reason of the confusing election laws.

The purpose is to aid the people of Boston in selecting a majority Mayor who will represent the established majority sentiment of the public rather than a minority Mayor who would represent the divided and minority sentiment at a time when good government commands universal co-operation for economic recovery of the Nation and State and sound administration for the great city.

ACCURACY FIRST

In short, this Straw Ballot Test Election is to be conducted by the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser under the exact conditions which have made the straw ballots of the Hearst Newspapers the most accurate gauge of public sentiment in national elections.

Upon the completion of the Presidential election of 1928, the experts of the University of Columbia at New York diagnosed the Presidential polls taken by the Hearst Newspapers, the Literary Digest and the numerous other agencies throughout the country.

This board of experts found that the results of the Hearst Newspapers poll outshone all other polls in their accuracy.

This system proved itself the most accurate and reliable. It is the same system that will be operated in determining the choice of the Democratic voters for Mayor of Boston.

The poll will be taken with the utmost secrecy.

That is, every person who receives a postcard Straw Ballot can be assured that he can mark his ballot to these newspapers with the same guarantee of privacy with which he votes on Election Day in the official polling booth.

There will be no number on the ballot or any other symbol through which the identity of the voter could be detected.

The voter, and the voter alone, will know how he has marked his ballot.

Morover, the Boston Evening American and the Boston Sunday advertiser are conducting this Straw Vote on their own responsibility.

They are not interested in the success or failure of any candidate for Mayor.

They are not associated with any candidate in this Straw Vote.

Their own employes, and not the representative of any candidate, will mail these ballots, will count them and will turn them over to authorized public accountants for certification.

There is only one request to be made of the voters who receive these ballots.

That request is that the voters shall mark their ballots plainly and quickly because the time in which candidates and prospective candidates must make up their mind to enter the field, to stay in the field or to withdraw from the field will soon be at hand.

COLUMNS OPENED

Each candidate is invited to make a statement of his candidacy through the news columns of these newspapers.

Such statements should outline the reasons why he should be elected Mayor.

The statement should be limited to 350 words.

The statement can be construed by the voters as the platform of the candidate.

The statements will be published as received.

The wheels are turning.

The ballots will soon be at hand.

Get ready to vote.

By your decision you may determine the future of the city of Boston.

Candidates, Tell Your Stand!

In conjunction with the Straw Ballot Test Election, the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser offer space in their columns to the candidates and prospective candidates for Mayor of Boston.

Every candidate is hereby invited to state, over his own signature, why he should be elected Mayor.

The statements should be brief. Each should be limited to 300 words or less.

The statements must be authentic; that is, they must be issued by and in the name of the candidate himself.

They should not include an attack upon any other candidate.

They should be a clear-cut, convincing statement of why the candidate himself is best fitted to manage this great Metropolis the next four years.

The statement will be published for information of the voters of Boston in the order in which they are received.

Meanwhile, get ready for the great Straw Ballot Test Election.

FRASER RECOVERING

Encouraging reports on the condition of Eugene Fraser, of Lynn, senior member of the Governor's Council, are reaching Beacon Hill. The councillor has been seriously ill but is on the road to recovery.

COUPLE OF THUMBERS

The big bus that took the special committee of the legislature studying hard liquor legislation from Montreal to Ottawa won't forget that trip in a hurry. The bus, although a new one, rode so hard on the more than 100 mile trip that two of the committee, Rep. Paul Dever, of Cambridge, and Senator William Madden, of Boston, thumbed a flivver for the last 35 miles of the ride.

UP TO THE GOVERNOR

Now that repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment seems assured by Nov. 7, many members of the legislature are beginning to take an interest in the probability of a special session being called by the Governor. So far the Governor has not indicated whether he will call one or not in view of the legislature's refusal to enact a hard liquor law at the last regular session.

Husband Wins Divorce, But Loses Girl

Salem, Sept. 12—Although Albert C. Mallett of Lynn obtained a divorce for desertion today, his wife, Alma, was granted custody of their child, Josephine, 14, because Josephine wanted it that way.

"Whom do you want to live with?" asked Judge Harry R. Dow.

"Oh, with my mother," said the girl.

"Your love for your mother is greater?"

"Yes," said Josephine. "But I like my father."

Lynn police testified to using field glasses to watch Mrs. Mallett and a man embracing in an apartment on Baldwin st.

Then they raided and arrested the couple, who were fined.

The wife told Judge Dow that the trouble all started when her husband tried to get friendly with a 17-year-old girl who was visiting them. She said he bought Josephine only one pair of shoes in four years.

70 Workmen Back on Navy Yard Jobs

Chalk up another one for the National Recovery Act.

Thanks to the $75,000 it makes available for repair work at the Charlestown Navy Yard and at the Naval Station in Hingham, 70 men were back on the job today in the public works department of the yard.

Forty of them were recalled after having been furloughed without pay. The other 30 were taken from the reinstatement list. The working force at the yard now totals approximately 1,200.

Funeral Service for Mrs. Caroline Hawley

Newburyport, Sept. 12—Attended by relatives and friends, services for Mrs. Caroline J. Hawley, widow of Lemuel Hawley, took place this afternoon from her late home, 30 Collins st.

Born in Cambridge, N. Y., 78 years ago, she was the daughter of the late William and Caroline Hawley. She is survived by one daughter, Miss Mary C. Hawley of Newburyport, and a sister, Mrs. John Reed, of Bristol, Ct.

Woman's Apparel Burglar Is Jailed

Albert H. Palmer, 35, of Waterville, Me., who in breaks in Waltham and Watertown displayed a fondness for women's apparel, was sentenced to two and a half to three years in State Prison today.

He pleaded guilty before Judge Walter L. Collins who, after hearing Palmer's record of jail terms in a number of states from Maine to California, remarked that it was amazing.

Driver Fined $200 for Fatal Accident

Rutland, Vt., Sept. 12—Romeo A. Leveille, of North Adams, Mass., driver of an automobile which struck and fatally injured George N. Pappas of Nashua, N. H., at North Clarendon, Sept. 3, was fined $200 in municipal court and given a suspended sentence of from nine to 12 months in state prison.

CURLEY SCORED AT HEARING

Attacks on Mayor Curley for alleged czarist tactics were made today at the resumed legislative hearing on changes in the Boston charter by City Councillor Francis E. Kelley of Dorchester and Mrs. Hannah Connors, president of the Massachusetts Real Estate Owners' Association.

Kelley charged the mayor with "arrogance and abuse of power" and asserted $20,000 is too large a salary for the mayor, when the Governor receives only $10,000.

Mayor Curley takes unto himself, Kelley charged, more power than has the nation's President.

The council, he said, should have the power to confirm or reject the mayor's appointments and power to override his vetoes.

Mrs. Hannah Connors, who claims to live in Dorchester, but who is declared by Mayor Curley to live in Milton, renewed her former demand for "a real investigation" of the present city administration.

Mrs. Connors said the traffic commission should be abolished, because police could do that work just as efficiently. She said she wanted primaries returned in Boston.

SUNDAY DEATH UNDER PROBE

San Francisco, Sept. 12—An inquest into the death of George M. Sunday, 40, son of Billy Sunday, the evangelist, injured in a fall from a window of his apartment, is to be held here today.

Sunday died unexpectedly last night as four doctors were attempting to reset a fractured jaw, one of several injuries received in the four-story fall Thursday night.

Dr. Edgar H. Howell, one of the physicians, said Sunday was under an anaesthetic, but attributed his death to shock caused by the injuries.

His mother, Mrs. Hallie Sunday said a premonition of death had been with her all day yesterday. Sunday's father also was here.

Sunday told police his fall was accidental, but his wife reported he had broken her finger in a nervous outbreak a short time before.

Washington, Sept. 12—A shipment of 500 cases of French brandy—Hennessy, no less—will come legally into the United States in the next few weeks, and it will be the first legal importation of brandy since 1922.

On arrival the brandy will go to a bonded warehouse to be dispensed to agents authorized to handle liquor on prescription.

Women Turn to Hats as Business Booms

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 12—With the rising tide of recovery, women have flocked into the shops to buy new hats.

This was the deduction of the State Labor Department as it looked over latest figures showing an increase of 46.1 per cent, nearly half, in the number of the men and women employed in making feminine headgear.

DAMNABLE

Sweatshop?

The N. R. A. will HELP to clean out the Sweatshop Cussedness, BUT so long as philanthropic? merchants buy the product they will secretly exist. And as some buy and offer for sale foreign-made rubbers costing around 34c to land and retailing for 59c, just to this extent is all human effort retarded.

Same with prison-made goods: anyone offering them for sale is helping to starve the families of legitimate workers. The made-over hats, gatherd from ash-cans and offered to the unsuspecting public who unknowingly buy them, not only prevent workers from earning a livelihood but are disease carriers and extremely dangerous for the wearer.

BUT if merchants refused to buy them, they wouldn't be produced!

Firemen Search Buildings for Shoes of Slain Peggy

authorities that his son was a friend of Peggy.

When Cahill was not in Lawrence he lived with a sister, Mrs. Alice Hayes, in Concord ave., Somerville, not far from the home of the dead girl. A daughter of Mrs. Hayes was a playmate of the victim.

Cahill has two other sisters living in Somerville. They are Mrs. C. H Houghton of Preston rd., and Miss Isabel Cahill of Laurel st.

CAR LEFT ON SHORE

He left Mrs. Houghton's home, where he was visiting, at about 8 p. m. Sunday and drove Miss Cahill to her home. Then he started ostensibly for Lawrence.

He failed to appear in Lawrence Sunday night and in a wooded lane on the shore of Silver Lake, Wilmington, yestrday, his green sedan, its doors locked, was found abandoned.

Under his car was a torn coat, ripped up the back and shoulder seam and later identified as his. In the car was a small handkerchief.

LAKE IS DRAGGED

It was not until today that his father thought to tell police Cahill knew the McCarthy family. Lawrence authorities immediately communicated with Chief Damery of Somerville, who, after an investigation, requested that the lake be dragged.

Dist. Atty. Bishop assigned State Detective O'Neil to the new clue.

Houghton, brother-in-law of the missing man, went to Wilmington this afternoon and drove the car to Somerville.

Inquiries by Somerville police produced one storekeeper who said he believed he had seen Cahill driving near Marion st., Friday afternoon.

At the Concord ave. home of a sister of Cahill, police searched in a rubbish barrel after being told by neighbors that Cahill cleaned his car Sunday. They found a package that had contained a bottle of liquid shoe polish but attached no particular significance to this fact although it was while on an errand for shoe polish that Peggy vanished.

TOOK GIRLS RIDING

Relatives of the missing man said they knew of no acquaintances in Wilmington and were at a loss to understand why he had gone there. He was not despondent over anything, they said.

Police said they believed it strange that although Cahill was near the McCarthy home Sunday he did not attend the wake. They said it was established that he often had taken his niece and the McCarthy sisters on rides in his car.

All these things police pointed out while, at the same time, asserting their belief that he was a man of fine character. He had no police record so far as could be established and enjoyed a good reputation. He just chose the wrong time to disappear.

HUNT IN EVERY BUILDING

Even while the Cahill clue became the most important so far turned up in the case, investigators began a systematic search of every building in Union sq., Somerville, and between the square and the child's home along several routes.

The hunt was the biggest undertaking of its kind ever launched locally. Fire department inspectors, ostensibly seeking fire hazards, were used in order to obviate the necessity of obtaining search warrants in cases where objections might be met.

But fire hazards were not considered. It was for a pair of worn black patent leather slippers—missing from Peggy's feet when her body was found Saturday—that the search was being made; the shoes or any other evidence that will establish where the child met her death.

Those particapting were Lieut. Joseph F. Green, chief inspector of the Somerville fire prevention bureau; Lieut. Edward A. Cotter and Inspectors John McKenzie, Robert Powers, James Colbert and William Breene.

ALL POSSIBLE ROUTES

It was estimated that three or four days would be required to complete inspection of all buildings in the area mapped out. This area includes Union sq., Somerville ave., Bow st., Park st., Washington st., Prospect st., Dane st., and the Lincoln Park area, taking in all possible routes between Peggy's home at 8 Marion st., and Union sq.

Vengeance for the slaying of pretty 10-year-old Peggy McCarthy still cries out as the grim hunt for the fiend goes on, but to date few tangible clues have been found.

where she was last seen Friday noon on an errand for shoe polish.

A thorough inspection of every building from cellar to attic was being made on the theory that the child was strangled somewhere in the area.

For police to have made the search, warrants would have been necessary where any opposition from tenants was met, but the fire inspectors may enter every building on demand.

MAN WITH MOUSTACHE

The search for the shoes—and for the auto with plates starting 717 reported early Saturday morning near the Harvard Divinity school in Cambridge where the body was found, were the principal angles of the probe besides the Cahill clue.

Also the "big man with the moustache," twice previously mentioned in the hunt popped up again as a molester of children that started police on a search of houses in Franklin st., Cambridge.

Two witnesses yesterday linked a middle-aged man of this description in the case, one placing him in conversation with Peggy in Union sq. just before she vanished, the other putting him near the spot in Cambridge in the "717" car early Saturday before the finding of the body.

Tragedy's Number Played in Pool

On a slim clue in the tragic slaying of a little girl they pinned a fortune in nickels, dimes, quarters and half-dollars.

For those who play the numbers of the "Nigger pool" daily, and snatch their hunches where they may, are playing 717—the known digits in the registration of the car sought in the murder of Peggy McCarthy. And even one of the pool operators—a "tough" guy—commented:

"Jeepers!"

But took the plays, just the same.

Today, Florence, 10, and Elizabeth, 11, daughters of James Horton of Franklin st., related an unpleasant experience they had with a man of the same description two weeks ago. This man tried unsuccessfully to entice them into a nearby house where, it was established, he was then living.

He has since moved and the house is vacant. It was searched this morning as were other vacant houses in the street.

Later in the day it was planned to use a Doberman Pinscher dog in an attempt to trace Peggy's movements from the time she left a Union sq. shoe repair shop—and to re-question James Hayes of Holland st., Somerville.

Police had also a list of some 60 Somerville men residing in the vicinity of Union sq., who will be questioned in a routine checkup. They are convinced the child's slayer bears a deep scratch as a result of Medical Examiner Dow's supplementary report that human flesh was found under one of her finger nails.

They believe also, but not so positively, that the slayer was a man known to his victim.

CHECK HAYES' STORY

More than 300 of the 1000 cars being checked as a result of the story told by Paul Murphy, of Museum rd., Cambridge, that he saw a car with plates starting 717 near Gorham st., where the body was found about 2:15 Saturday morning, have been eliminated.

The story of Hayes, a Harvard sq. luncheart worker and a friend of the McCarthy family, that he observed a car of the same description with a big moustached driver a few yards from the spot, was not related until last night, 24 hours later, and gave investigators considerable pause.

He had attended the funeral of the victim before it occurred to him there might be any significance to what he had seen. He appeared at Somerville police headquarters while Mayor Murphy and police heads were in conference on the case, and after telling his story was questioned for an hour and asked to return today.

"I work at Jim's Lunch in Harvard sq., Cambridge," Hayes opened. "Last Friday night I got through about 1 o'clock. That was Saturday morning rather. I hung around Harvard sq. with some friends for a while and then I went and got some coffee.

"I must have killed about an hour or an hour and a half. Anyway about 2 o'clock I started home. I live around the corner from where they found the body of the McCarthy child. In going home I cut across the vacant field between the tennis courts near the Harvard Divinity School.

"It took me a short time to get across the field. I wasn't in any hurrry and I just took my time. It was just beginning to rain but very little and not enough to bother anyone.

CUT THROUGH FIELD

"When I got near to Gorham st. I cut through the hole in the fence that runs along the street and the Harvard property and entered Gorham st. Then I started to walk toward Hammond st. into which Gorham st. runs to get to my house which runs off Gorham st.

"As I started to walk up Gorham st. toward Hammond st. I saw an automobile parked alongside the fence. It was a few feet from where the body of the McCarthy kid was found afterward. The motor of the car was running. I walked past the car, which was headed toward Hammond st., and a man—a big fellow—suddenly began to fool around with the headlights. There didn't seem to be anything wrong with the headlights, though.

"I didn't pay any great attention to it at the time, but I did notice that the first two numbers on the rear plate of the car were 71 and something else. It was a big black sedan. Painted black as though by hand. It was an old car. I didn't pay much attention to the make of the machine, so I'm not sure what it was.

"The man fooling around with the headlights started to fool around with them as though fixing something just as I walked past the car. The lights were burning and I could see that he had a moustache. He acted funny and kept poking around with the lights, turning to look at me just as I passed.

"I crossed the street and continued toward my house. It was raining pretty hard by this time and I began to run to keep from getting wet. I don't know when the car got there or how long it was there before I got there and I don't know when it left. But I know the motor was running and that it was just like the car that fellow Murphy, who lives on Museum st., told the police on Sunday he saw creeping along his street and go into Gorham st.

"I didn't think anything of this even after I heard about the body of a kid being found on Gorham st. It just didn't mean anything to me, I guess. But when I read about Murphy seeing a car like the one I saw parked there creeping along Museum st. at about 2:30 o'clock in the morning I right away figured out that what I saw must fit with what he saw.

"The description Murphy gave of the car was exactly the same one of the car I saw parked there. He didn't say how the driver looked, but the man I saw near the car had a mustache, was kind of dark, and was a big fellow.

Tanner's to Blame If You're a Toe-Ache Prophet

Chicago, Sept. 12 (AP)—This business of prognosticating the weather by aching feet can be stopped by changing the methods of tanning shoe leather uppers, Dr. John Arthur Wilson of Milwaukee told the convention of the American Chemical Society Biologists today.

"When a person suffers bodily fatigue, mental irritability or general discomfort without apparent cause," he said, "it would be well to investigate the properties of leather in one's shoes.

"Even the tanners themselves have been concerned but little with the question of the relationship existing between the properties of leather and human comfort, devoting their time rather to the production of leather presenting a fine appearance and good wearing qualities in a shoe. Many of the important properties of leather have not been even recognized."

These include, he said, leather whose tannage increases its shrinking in humidity by three-fold and accounts for the foot weather prophets.

F. X. Bushman's Daughter to Wed

Beverly Hills, Cal., Sept. 12 (INS)—Mrs. Josephine Bushman, the former wife of Francis X. Bushman, the actor, announced today that their daughter, Lenore Konti Bushman, 23, would be married probably within ten days to Dr. Webster L. Marxer, 26, Los Angeles surgeon.

The Keyhole on the News

Long Pull

Al Masters, now of Boston, one of the great Dartmouth football men of all time, will soon announce his engagement to Miss Esther Dewing, whom he has squired from early school days.

"No one ever thinks that marriage follows a 14 years' courtship," says Al, "but here's one. Esther has been saving my money for years—but you know what kind of years we've all been having lately."

Grunt System

Tommy Wigglesworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wigglesworth of Topsfield, has a decidedly "back to the earth" leaning, his father being president of the Essex County Agricultural Association. Anxious to take an active part in the Topsfield Fair, Tommy arranged to drive the mammoth pair of white oxen attached to a bright farm vehicle.

"Never have worked harder to reach an understanding with any pair of anything," he explains. "I tried 'Gee' and 'Haw' for a while, then went to 'Wooh' and 'Heist' and now I control them perfectly with the grunt system. One has to grunt just so or they will both turn around with obvious sarcasm in their calm eyes."

Slow Talk

There are all sorts of conversationalists in the world, using all sorts of delivery, high, low, fast, slow, loud, et cetera. Recently we mentioned a statement made by a noted drawler, Bill Terry, captain of the Giants, to the effect that "Ah'll decide whut ah got tuh say, aftah I talk it ovah with maself."

Sam Burns, husky Harvard guard of 1929 is another noted drawler. His favorite expression when asked if he knows anyone is, "Ah used to shave her fahther." Our own favorite drawler was old Alexander the Great, who when called upon to pitch the Cubs to a championship in the tightest of World's Series pinches, said of Babe Ruth, while dawdling out to the pitcher's box: "Brother, ah ain't afraid of no guy called Baby."

Current

"Boston has been a great factor in the American theater," he said. "The first was built here back in 1792 on Hawley st. and everyone knows what B. F. Keith meant to the varieties. You can trace the development of the theatrical art by actual Keith measurement. He first set up a place in Park sq. and the attraction was a mechanical gadget covered by carpet. It had electrical attachments and for five cents a watt you were shocked. The change has been gradual. Currently you sit back in a theater seat, shocked at the cost, shocked at the show, but far from electrified."

About People

Myles Lane, former football coach at B. U., has all sorts of psychological slants to get the best out of his squad—after the Rockne fashion . . . Detective-Sergeant Tom Joyce, of headquarters, was a swimming star during his English High School days . . . John Conroy, of the R. H. White Co., is still wondering how he shot an 86 to the championship in the store's golf tournament . . . Vicar-General Richard Haberlin was a baseball star in South Boston during his boyhood days . . . One of the more melodic local trios, is that which consists of Congressman William A. Connery, president of the Revere City Council, George E. Lund, and Rep. Thomas Carroll—They harmonize with the best of 'em! . . . Judge Lewis Goldberg reads the Talmud for recreation. Arthur Kellrey, treasurer of the R. H. White Co., is at last able to get on the links, after a long siege of illness . . . The venerable father of Leverett Saltonstall, speaker of the House, was one time voted as the most liberal of all Boston men, by a group of newsboys . . . Dr. Hubert Pruett, who used to pitch for the Braves, struck out Babe Ruth eight of the nine first times he faced him . . . Sheila O'Donovan Rossa, the mezzo soprano, sang the ballad, "The Mother's Prayer," in every single ward in Boston during the local Emergency Relief Drive . . . Frank Black claims that if he ever had his way, all his time would be spent working in his flower garden . . . Max Ulin, ex-Senator and Representative, is a most familiar figure at the Franklin Park golf links . . . Mark Burston, one of Boston's leading insurance men, is a dead ringer for Edward G. VOTE IN MAINE FOR REPEAL BY 3 TO 2

Augusta, Me., Sept. 12 (INS)—The surging tide of nation-wide wet sentiment roared through rock-ribbed Maine, and today the pioneer prohibition state was the 26th consecutive voice in the roll of states registered in favor of repeal of the 18th Amendment.

Only 10 more states were needed to bring the total to 36 and make repeal an accomplished fact.

Colorado, Maryland and Minnesota are voting today.

By a vote of less than 2 to 1, the voters of Maine at the special State election yesterday joined the other five States of New England in the wet column. Complete figures were expected to make the wet majority larger.

In 553 out of the State's 632 voting precincts the vote was:

The majority of delegates, either wet or dry, will decide how each county will vote at the convention.

3 to 1 Wet Victory Seen in Minnesota

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 12 (INS)—Liberals were confidently predicting a three to one wet victory today, as Minnesota voted on repeal of the 18th Amendment and national prohibition.

Maryland Sure to Go Wet, Say Leaders

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 12 (INS)—Maryland—led by its three time, consecutively, governor—Albert C. Ritchie, the vigorous exponent of state's rights—cast its vote today on the amendment to repeal the 18th Amendment.

An overwhelming vote for the wets was predicted

Two to One Victory Seen in Colorado

Denver, Col., Sept. 12—Coloradoans held a special election today to determine whether their state will retain the 18th Amendment.

Repealists pointed to the statement of Gov. Ed C. Johnson, issued in Washington, in which the governor predicted repeal will carry by two to one.

Culbertson Is Accused of Illegal Bid

London, Sept. 12 (INS)—A charge that Ely Culbertson's new four-five no trump bidding convention is "illegal" under international rules was made here today by Col. Walter Buller, British contract bridge expert, writing in the Evening Star.

Buller bases his charge on the contention that this convention exposes cards of honor rank and that the player on the left of any bidder using this convention is entitled to demand a new deal under Law 43, Section B.

Buller's charge attracted widespread attention because of the free use made of the four-five no-trump convention by Culbertson and his team in the recent international match here.

The four-five no-trump convention was introduced by Culbertson early this year for the higher ranges of bidding, particularly as definite slam invitations.

New York, Sept. 12 (INS)—Ely Culbertson today commenting on Col. Buller's charge said:

Strawn Urges U. S. Maintain Tariffs

Chicago, Sept. 12 (AP)—Silas H. Strawn, noted local attorney and former president of the International Chamber of Commerce, before the convention of the American Trade Association executives today urged increased foreign trade for the United States.

"Obviously, in the advance of a general international agrement, this is not the time t oreduce our own tariffs," he said. "On the other hand, I see no reason why we should not only maintain the present volume, but strive to increase our foreign trade."

Knighthood Blooms Out in Duel, Then Victor Flees

Asheville, N. C., Sept. 12 (AP)—A gallant stranger who fought a moonlight pistol duel over a girl who doesn't even know him intrigued police here today.

They had the story of Jack Moody, filling station attendant, who said he incurred an abdominal wound in the romantic encounter, but they were anxious to learn the other side.

Moody was under $500 bond charged with dueling—a charge that has not graced North Carolina records in years. They wanted to place a similar charge against Moody's assailant, but—

Here is Moody's story:

A few days ago the young Sir Galahad took him to task for his attentions to a certain girl.

They fought—with fists.

When they met in the business district Moody drew a gun.

So it was agreed they go to the exclusive Beaver Lake residential section to settle their differences.

Moody found he had only two cartridges in his pistol. The cavalier offered to give him some, but they wouldn't fit. So he thereupon disposed of all but two of his own cartridges.

Standing back to back in the moonlight, the two youths paced 20 steps, whirled and fired.

The stranger missed his first shot, but the second hit its mark. When Moody regained consciousness, the stranger and his car were gone.

BROCKTON FAIR STAGES THRILL IN R. R. CRASH

Brockton, Sept. 12—Thrills of all kinds were in store for patrons of the Brockton Fair today as the annual show moved into its third day here.

One of the big thrills was to be the head-on collision of two locomotives on a track built on the grounds at 5:30 today. Officials said each engine would carry a high pressure of steam, and both would attain high speed before the crash.

Camera and newsreel men will be on hand to film the spectacle, first of its kind presented in this section in many years.

In addition to the collision today's program offers horse racing, with both harness and running events scheduled.

Then there will also be a balloon ascension and a parachute jump. In addition there will be the usual vaudeville show in which leading performers from all parts of the country take part afternoon and evening on the big stage in front of the grandstand.

Yesterday was Children's Day and more than 10,000 youngsters enjoyed the various amusement and educational features of the exposition. There was also a big program of athletic events as well as the annual pie-eating contest.

Prizes were given for the winners of the various contests and there were numerous prizes for different types of babies. Charles J. Doherty, Jr., 2½, of this city, was crowned "Baby Monarch" and will represent the Brockton Fair at the Century of Progress Exposition.

He and the young lady to be chosen as "Miss Brockton, 1933," will be officially welcomed at the Chicago fair by Rufus Dawes, head of the exposition.

LABORATORY TESTS CHECK EFFICACY OF KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN

Show Why This Delicious Cereal Overcomes Common Constipation

There are scientific reasons for the success of ALL-BRAN in preventing and relieving common constipation. Laboratory investigations show that it supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines; and vitamin B to promote appetite, and help tone the intestinal tract.

These two important food-elements aid regular habits, and help do away with the headaches, loss of appetite and energy, so often the result of constipation.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is mild in action—much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Isn't this pleasant "cereal way" far more healthful than using pills and drugs—so often habit-forming!

Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's daily—enough for most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Besides, ALL-BRAN brings your body twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Special cooking processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable. Equally tasty as a cereal, or used in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Sleep Illness Seen as Paralysis 'Split'

St. Louis, Sept. 12 (INS)—The sleepin sickness epidemic which has taken a toll of 119 lives in the St. Louis area showed no signs of abatement today.

Discoveries of Dr. Edward Rasnow lead those who have been in close contact wit hhim to the belief the streptococcus which he found in "sleeping sickness" patients is what scientists call a "split-off" from the infantile paralysis type.

'Corkscrew Wins in Maine' Declares Mrs. Tilton

Maine has espoused the corkscrew and is content today to let its character fall where it may, heedless of the pleas of Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton, of Cambridge, militant dry leader.

For Maine, long a rockbound outpost of the dry cause, has firmly aligned itself with the parade of states decisively voting to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment.

Last night, before returns from the Pine Tree State had started to show the trend of voting, Mrs. Tilton, chairman of the Women's National Committee for Education Against Alcohol, issued a staement from Washington.

The subastance of the statement was that Maine, in voting on the repeal question, had its choice between the corkscrew and character. It is now history that the "down-Easters" preferred to be "screwy."

BOSTON'S MAYOR AND OTHER LEADERS AID NRA BUY DAY

The American Legion will turn out with bands, drum corps, and many units of marchers, under the leadership of newly elected Commander, Daniel J. Doherty, and his aids.

Henry O'Day, Department Adjutant of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, has promised large delegation of veterans to fall in line in Boston American and Sunday Advertiser's huge parade.

Patrick J. Connolly, Director of Organizations of the Boston NRA, who has been aiding officials of the Boston Evening American to gather material for making the NRA BUY DAY a success.

Mrs. Gertrude McLaughlin, president of the American Legion Auxiliary, will take charge of that organization when they turn out, almost en masse, for the NRA Buy Day Parade tomorrow.

Mayor James M. Curley will have a busy day tomorrow—NRA Buy Day. He'll start off the day with Blue Eagle exercises on the Boston Common. More than 175,000 public and parochial school children will take part in the ceremony. In the afternoon His Honor will view the mammoth military, civic and trade organization parade. The Mayor has declared a half holiday Wednesday afternoon.

The Rev. Richard J. Quinlan, S. T. L., director of Diocesan schools, will lead the children of the parochial schools — 35,000 strong, in the Blue Eagle pledge on Boston Common.

Patrick T. Campbell, superintendent of Boston Public Schools. School children from all schools of Boston will gather under the Superintendent's order to take Blue Eagle pledge.

HUGE NUMBER OF FLOATS IN PARADE

More floats and bands will participate in the NRA "Over the Top" parade tomorrow afternoon than Boston has seen in many a day.

At least 50 have definitely entered the float and automotive divisions. Among them are all the boards of trades of Boston, including Dorchester, Roslindale, West Roxbury, Allston, Brighton, East Boston and Roxbury.

STORES IN LINE

Others are the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co., who will also have 200 marchers in line; Whiting Milk Co., Boston Consolidated Gas Co., the Sheraton Shop, Y. & H. Truck Co., World Radio, RKO Theaters, Loew's Theaters, Hudson-Essex and Henry Kimball Cos., Chinese Merchants' Association, Standard Brands, General Baking Co., and the Boston American.

Some of the above are putting one or more floats in the parade, others like the General Baking Co. have as many as six or eight.

Raymond's will have its unique team of oxen as its contribution to the procession.

Among the bands will be the Fort Devens organization, the only U. S. Army band in this part of the country, which is being transported from Fort Devens through the courtesy of the Boston & Maine Railroad.

The B. & M. is furnishing busses to carry the soldiers down from the fort and back again in the afternoon, as the contribution of the railroad to the success of NRA BUY DAY.

SCHOOL CADETS MARCH

American Legion bands will include the William L. Harris Post, Alexander Graham Bell Post, West Roxbury Post, T. J. O'Connell Post, of Jamaica Plain, Suffolk County Band and others.

Parochial school cadet outfits include St. William's corps of Dorchester, St. Francis de Salles of Charlestown, St. Mary's Girls Bugle corps, and St. Mary's Fife and Drum Corps, St. Anne's of Dorchester and St. Bridget's of South Boston.

Start Early Is Tip to Parents

Parents are urged to start the school children early into Parkman Bandstand tomorrow afternoon so that they may gather on the Common before the start of the radio broadcast of the Blue Eagle pledge led by Mayor Curley at 2 o'clock. The Boston Fire Dept. Band will play at Parkman Bandstand from 1 until 2 o'clock, with music appropriate to the occasion.

A. F. L. Adds 250,000 Members in South

Jackson, Miss., Sept. 12 (AP)—George L. Googe, chairman of a drive to organize southern workers, says approximately 250,000 new members have been added to the rolls of the American Federation of Labor since the campaign began Aug. 25, 500 new unions being organized in 17 southern states.

The route will take the marchers through Stuart, Columbus ave., Boylston, Tremont, Park, Beacon and Charles sts., where it will disband. Hundreds of units, military and civic, as well as many decorated floats will join in the cause.

Jail Breaker's Plea Wins State Farm

On request of the prisoner, Judge Walter L. Collins, in Middlesex Court today, sent Benny Pedato, 23, of Marlboro, to State Prison instead of Concord. Pedato, one of two men who escaped Dedham Jail in July, was given three to five years for larceny of a Marlboro auto at the time of his flight. He had been at Concord, serving time for the escape, and did not want to go back there.

Clarence DeCraeme, 19, of Newark, N. J., the other fugitive, was sent to jail to finish previous sentences, which have seven months to run.

Lieut. Henry O'Day, Adjutant, Massachusetts Department, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Adjutant Harold J. Redden, of the American Legion.

PENNY TO NAME JUDGES

Col. Penny, in his capacity as marshal, will appoint the judges to award prizes for the five best floats. These awards, contributed by the Boston Evening American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser, will be as follows: for the best float, $100; second, $50; third, fourth and fifth, silver cups.

This patriotic procession climaxes NRA BUY DAY set aside to the Blue Eagle and the "Buy in September" and "Buy American" program, in which 175,000 Boston school children will take part.

With all the color and glamor of the parade, perhaps the most impressive spectacle of the day will be the thousands of children massed about the Parkman bandstand on Boston Common at 2 o'clock, an hour before the parade, at which time they will be led by Mayor James M. Curley, in the "Blue Eagle" pledge.

The City of Boston and the School Department, Cardinal O'Connell and the parochial schools, and the Boston NRA group have united to make possible this demonstration, which was sponsored by the Boston Evening American-Boston Sunday Advertiser.

The NRA BUY DAY, set aside only a few days ago, will be historic in the annals of this city. Within a short space of time, response to the appeal of the occasion has been tremendous. It hearkened back to the World War days when a nation mobilized overnight.

ENTRIES POUR IN

For tomorrow the mobilization of the city of Boston, its citizens, business, and military groups has been just as remarkable.

The call to crown the NRA drive by joining in a "Buy" drive met with a thundering response.

All day yesterday and into the evening, and beginning again this morning entries in the parade poured into the NRA BUY DAY headquarters at 294 Devonshire St.

Today at noon was the deadline for those who had already negotiated for places in line and the last minute crush was even heavier than last night.

Among the military units will

IRWIN COWPER

NEWCOMB F. THOMPSON

The radio "Globe Trotter" voice of the Boston American, Newcomb F. Thompson, will describe the gathering of school children taking the Blue Eagle Pledge on Boston Common. A half hour will be occupied on the air between 2 and 2:30 tomorrow afternoon through Station WAAB and Yankee Network outlets. IRWIN COWPER, popular microphone man of the WNAC-WAAB staff, will assist the V. F. W. and Legion auxiliaries, with the drill teams and their fife and drum corps and bands.

Posts from the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion will tramp again to the marching step of the old days in France.

Parochial school cadets and their musical corps will be there. Entered are both boys and girl bugle corps, fife and drum corps and bands.

Tomorrow morning the various schools, both public and parochial, will devote a session to explain "What the Blue Eagle" means. At this time 175,000 Blue Eagle primers will be distributed to the children.

On the last page of the primer is the "Blue Eagle" pledge, which Mayor Curley will explain to the boys and girls on Boston Common at 2 o'clock. The Mayor will then lead them in taking the pledge. This remarkable demonstration will be broadcast over radio station WAAB and motion pictures and "talkie" newsreels will be made of the occasion.

The Boston Fire Department Band, noted as one of the crack outfits of its kind, will play at Parkman Bandstand from 1 to 2 o'clock while the children are gathering. Promptly at 2, Mayor Curley will be introduced while the program goes out over the ether.

JEWISH WOMEN MEET TO BACK BUY PLAN

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

The League of Jewish Women's Organizations will tomorrow afternoon dedicate its meeting to the "Buy-in-September-Buy American" campaign, sponsored throughout the country by the Hearst newspapers, in conjunction with the NRA program of President Roosevelt.

Representatives of 42 organizations, members of this parent body, will be present to hear explained to them the details of the drive and to pledge themselves to the necessary support by which the NRA purposes may be achieved.

BACK PRESIDENT IN PLEA

Miss Margaret Wiesman, executive secretary of the Consumers' League of Massachusetts, and member of the Massachusetts Recovery Board, is to be the principal speaker of the day.

She will be introduced by Mrs. Ely Feibleman, president of the League. The meeting will take place at the Temple Kehillath Israel, Harvard st., Brookline, at 2 p. m.

Miss Wiesman's address will be an appeal to the women of these Jewish groups to support the President in his efforts for the unemployed through the backing of the NRA and the Buy in September-Buy American drive.

Mrs. Feibleman, who has personally urged the campaign to success, will tomorrow officially impress upon her membership the need for immediate September and American buying to assure the entire industrial rehabilitation embodied in the NRA program.

The League of Jewish Women's Organizations is the clearing house of the leading associations of Jewish women in Greater Boston. It represents a total membership of many thousands of women.

"Buy in September-Buy American" will be carried back by the organization representatives to their respective organizations in a sweeping movement to carry on the NRA principles.

BROOKLINE MEETING

Tonight at Temple Mishkan Tefila, a large mass meeting of leading Brookline, Boston and Roxbury women will be held to likewise stimulate the communities into buying in September and buying American as their contribution to the success of the NRA movement.

Mrs. Augusta Schon Holzman, organization chairman, will present and introduce as speakers Rabbi Harry Levi, Mrs. Fred Pigeon, chairman Boston women's division of NRA, and Ruth Mugglebee, vice-chairman of the women's division, Ward 14, NRA, who will explain to the women how by buying in September and buying American they can underwrite re-employment and industrial rehabilitation.

Float Winners to Get Prizes

Prizes will be given to the best floats in the NRA "Over the Top" parade tomorrow afternoon as the contribution of the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser. Prizes are $100, for the most original and typifying best the spirit of the day; $50 for the one judged otherwise best in its respective field, and three silver cups for the next best three floats.

Women Ready for Part in Parade

The women of Greater Boston representing the greatest "buying" unit in this section, will turn out in full force in the NRA "Over the Top" parade tomorrow afternoon.

The ladies of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars in all the colorful uniforms of their organizations have displayed the greatest enthusiasm in joining the NRA BUY DAY celebration.

NRA PRIMER FOR YOU

The Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser, in order to aid children of school age, and those grownups who are puzzled as to the various clauses of the NRA movement, have published an NRA Primer. These primers, containing the Blue Eagle Pledge, will be handed out to more than 175,000 school children on Boston Common tomorrow. The children will read the pledge in a body.

Fielding Sees 'Buy' Plan as Builder of Thrift

Atty. Henry P. Fielding, former assistant district attorney of Suffolk County and one of Boston's leading lawyers, strongly endorses the Boston American's "Buy in September and Buy American" movement. Of the movement he says,

"I am heartily in favor of the Boston American "Buy in September" campaign. Buy exclusively in N. R. A. stores. This will help the business men who have been showing their good faith and patriotism by displaying the Blue Eagle, by shortening hours, by increasing the number of their employes, and in many instances by increasing wages.

"While I advocate thrift, I also strongly advocate a reasonable spending of money for the necessaries of life. We all know that the circulating dollar is a working dollar and that the hoarded dollar is an idle dollar. The circulating dollar speeds up business; the idle dollar slows down business. For example, if you need wearing apparel for yourself and for your family for the fall and winter season, buy in September. The buying of goods empties the shelves in the stores of the merchants. These shelves must be replenished with new merchandise from the mills and factories. This means more jobs, more spending power and better business.

"It is obvious that merchandise will cost more in the future because the NRA store from which you buy will purchase only from a manufacturer who is operating under the NRA. The manufacturer operating under the NRA will be forced to increase his prices in time to come because of shortened hours of labor, increased wages and the employment of additional workers.

"Buy in September to create more jobs. The creating of jobs is the only thing that will bring back prosperity."

Rival Messengers Set to March

Western Union and Postal Telegraph boys will march in the NRA "Over the Top" parade tomorrow afternoon.

Each company is forming and drilling a group to step to the lilting tunes of the parade bands in the demonstration to back the NRA.

Buy Now Drive Aids U. S. Manufacturers

San Francisco, Sept. 12 (INS)—Even manufacturing in San Francisco is feeling the stimulus of the "Buy in September—Buy American" movement initiated by the Hearst papers.

"While we cannot tell at this time precisely what its ultimate effect will be," said Capen Fleming, manager of the Manufacturers' and Wholesalers' Association, "this movement is unquestionably of great moment to the local manufacturing industry.

"The demand created among customers will lead to greater buying by jobbers and manufacturers consequently will profit."

PARADE UNITS ASSIGNED TO LINE POSTS

Marching directions for all bands, floats and other units in the NRA "Over the Top" parade tomorrow afternoon were being dispatched from parade headquarters at 294 Devonshire st. today.

The block bounded by Dartmouth st., Columbus ave., Berkeley and Tremont sts. will be set aside for the paraders to gather.

VETS ASSIGNED

Unless otherwise notified, all Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the V. F. W. auxiliaries will be in Warren ave. between Clarendon and Berkeley sts. at 1:45 where the division commander will assign their places in line.

The American Legion posts, except the bands, will gather with the Legion auxiliaries in Gray st. and Appleton st. between Clarendon and Berkeley sts. They will meet at the same hour.

Parochial school fife and drum and bugle corps, and the parochial school cadets will be in Warren ave., between Clarendon and Dartmouth sts. at 2:00 p. m.

Marching groups from the business, trade, civic, fraternal and municipal units will be in Appleton st., between Dartmouth and Clarendon sts., at 2:15.

All floats, and other automobiles participating, must be in Lawrence and in Chandler sts., between Dartmouth and Berkeley sts., ready to move at 2:30. This means that these floats should find places early enough to avoid confusion at the starting time.

FACE CLARENDON ST.

In all above cases, floats, bands, marching units should be facing Clarendon st., whether or not they are on either side of it, so that when they are called they may proceed into Clarendon st. from the cross streets and down to the corner of Tremont, the starting point of the parade.

Anyone in doubt as to these marching directions may call Liberty 4000, or Liberty 3442 and 3443, asking for the parade committee.

'OPERATOR 13' By Robert W. Chambers

Maj. Allen Orders the Girl Spy to Stop Flight of Lady Greensleeves

READ THIS FIRST

Gail Loveless, experienced actress at 20, was sent into the Confederate lines as a Union spy. Disguised as a quadroon laundress, she deceived everybody, including Capt. Jack Gailliard, gallant young spy in the Confederate service, who was ashamed to find himself so deeply stirred by her saffron loveliness. But Vespasian Chancellor, gangling, hawklike chief of Confederate spies, presently exposed her and she fled for her life, stealing Gen. J. E. B. Stuart's horses. She stole also the clothing of a little farm boy to make herself appear to be a little Negro stable boy.

Outwitting the pursuing Chancellor and Gailliard, she captured them one at a time and led them toward the Federal lines, where all knew they would be hanged. But on the way they stumbled upon the dreadful spectacle of a Union army hanging a Confederate spy, and Operator 13, sickened, freed her prisoners. Before they rode away, Gailliard kissed her passionately and she kissed him. Then she rode into Emmettsburg, Maryland, at dusk.

Exhausted, she gave Gen. Stuart's horses to a young man who spoke the pass phrases of the Northern secret service and, at his advice, lay down under a tree to sleep. The man, a Southern spy, brother of the one hanged that day, betrayed Operator 13 to the beautiful but implacable Lady Greensleeves, Confederate spy, who was living in Emmettsburg. At pistol point, Lady Greensleeves captured Operator 13, but in the confusion occasioned when Confederate cavalry rode into town the girl escaped.

Finding Gen. Stuart's horses hidden in Lady Greensleeves' stable, Operator 13 stole them back and hid them in an orchard. From a school in the town she stole the dress of a nun. Wearing it, she was admitted to Lady Greensleeves' house, but the Confederate woman spy, refusing to yield, fought like a tigress. When the fight ended, Lady Greensleeves lay unconscious. Unable to lift her, Operator 13 left her bound and galloped into Frederick for help, but none was to be had. A dazzled young telegraph operator put her in touch with Maj. Allen at Knoxville, and he ordered her to stop Lady Greensleeves from boarding the boat. After the wire, the girl exclaimed, "Oh, I'm so tired!"

(Republished from Cosmopolitan Magazine and soon to appear on the screen as a Cosmopolitan production made by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and starring Marion Davies.)

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

Then the boy rose to the occasion. He took a big tin of scalding water from the stove, went into his own room, which was blanketed off from the office, and filled an old tin bathtub with hot water. Then he led the girl thither and showed her soap and towels, a man's nightshirt and his own camp bed.

"That's what you want, isn't it?" he asked.

"Yes," she sobbed, "and something to eat."

"I'll draw rations for you, ma'am. Shall I buy you a calico dress in town?"

"No, I'll do that," she replied, laughing through her tears. "If I had some alcohol I could get off the rest of this brown skin stain."

"I'll find you a bottle, ma'am. Now, take your bath and lie down. I'll ask the guard to see you're not disturbed."

He went out and talked to the corporal, who presently detailed another sentry to protect the privacy of the place and warn off all intruders.

CHEERFUL COOK

Another soldier, armed with authority, drew rations and fetched the alcohol, and young Barry cooked the bacon and hardtack in a frying pan on the stove, and boiled a pot of coffee.

He sang disrespectfully, as he cooked.

"Buford and Bayard,
Buford and Bayard,
The one is weary,
The other is tired!
I won't be drove,
I won't be hired
To ride no hoss
For Gin'ral Bayard!"

He could hear the girl discreetly wallowing in the old tin tub. He set a camp table with his own tin service, dished up the tack and bacon, singing cheerily and disrespectfully:

"Oh, Gin'ral Buford,
Look at what they done,
A-crossin' at the new ford,
Hoss an' foot and gun!
"Oh, Johnny Buford
An' Freddy Pleasanton,
They're ever number two ford,
Every mother's son!
"Wake up, Johnny Buford,
Bayard and Pleasanton!
Take alook at leeward,
Take it on the run!

Wave your fancy new sword,
Cock your fancy gun,
Or Jeb will have you skewered,
Freddy Pleasanton!"

GAY SUMMONS.

He heard the girl laughing musically as she splashed. He lifted a bread pan and beat a gay tattoo on it with a tin fork.

"First call for dinner, ma'am!" he shouted. "Fall in!"

"Coming!" she replied. And after a few minutes she appeared, swathed to the chin in his army blanket.

"Thank you for the alcohol," she said; "it took off every spot of stain remaining."

He saw her seated; then retired to a rear room, where there was another telegraph instrument beyond anybody's hearing when the door had been closed.

From his east window he could look out on a courtyard where Mrs. Bunn, the sutler's pretty wife was picking over peaches for peach turnovers—the same destined to stuff the garrison.

"Oh, Mrs. Bunn," he called, "there's a lady here without any clothes—"

"My God," said she, "what's this you're telling me, Mr. Barry!"

"No suitable clothes, I mean! She is your height and slimness. Go over to Ewarts' emporium like a good girl and buy her something to travel in. And tell 'em to send the bill to the quartermaster and make it out to Maj. Allen of the Secret Service!"

Before Gail Loveless had awakened from a postprandial nap on Operator Barry's narrow bunk the sutler's wife returned with her bundles and a valise, and a duplicate bill that scared young Barry.

However, he reflected, it was no worry of his, and he knocked at the door, had a sleepy answer; opened it, and shoved in the parcels.

ENTRANCING VISION

He was scarcely prepared, however, for the vision in gray poplin and saucy little hat and shawl that emerged demurely from his quarters.

"Crickety!" he said. "You're too pretty to go gunning for rebel spies, ma'am."

They laughed like two children, and she inquired about a train and a revolver and some money for her journey.

A messenger from the provost marshal had already brought the money—inspired, no doubt, by a telegram from Maj. Allen. The revolver, belt and ammunition, fresh from the army depot, she buckled on in the privacy of the sleeping quarters.

He had her railroad ticket for her when she emerged.

"There are three loaded troop trains with steam up on a side track where the B. & O. crosses the Monocacy," he explained. "Eastward, between Frederick and Washington, there is a train headed the other way. It leaves for Baltimore in an hour. I have an ambulance ready at the door for you."

"You are a wonderful boy," she said warmly. She was radiant. All trace of fatigue and privation had vanished, so resilient is youth in health when the tonic is excellent.

At the door a soldier stowed her valise aboard the ambulance and young Mr. Barry, cap in hand, handed her in.

"Thank you and good by," said the girl, and retained his hand a wicked moment.

He looked passionate volumes at her. It was another of her "moments." Only Juliet could have returned his look with such a devastating smile.

"Won't you tell me your name?" he whispered incoherently.

"Operator 13," she said cruelly as the ambulance rolled off through Frederick.

GUILELESS REPOSE

The girl slept aboard the cars all the way to Baltimore. Aboard the Norfolk boat she continued to sleep like one blessed who know no guile.

When, after early breakfast, she emerged on deck at the Norfolk dock, two men came forward to greet her. They were John Babcock and Augustus Littlefield of the United States Secret Service. A carriage driven by two armed cavalrymen and drawn by two splendid horses was waiting for them; and in another moment Gail Loveless and the two secret service men were rattling through the streets of Norfolk at a brisk trot.

When Operator 13 had finished her hurried story regarding the plight in which she had left Lady Greensleeves, Babcock said:

"The woman left Emmettsburg an hour after you did! She has nine lives, ma'am, or she'd have been hanged after Manassas!"

"The trouble," said Littlefield bitterly, "is with Mr. Lincoln. He won't hang anybody if he can help it."

"But the rebels," added Babcock, "are hanging our people all the time. And," he continued, smiling at Gail Loveless, "I guess they'll start us gallows dancing if they catch us."

"As for your white panther with nine lives," continued Littlefield, "if we intercept and catch her, all she'll get will be a nice rocking chair and three meals a day in Fort McHenry."

A PROTEST

"No woman ought to hang," said the girl. "There ought to be no hanging anyway. Why can't they shoot us decently?"

"I reckon it's too stylish for vulgar spies," replied Littlefield grimly. "Well, ma'am, if we've got to love our enemies and give 'em rocking chairs in government forts, I hope to God that Lady Greensleeves sets and rocks her damn head off in Fort McHenry before we see Knoxville again."

"Poor thing," said the girl gently, "if you had seen her lying there as though her beautiful neck was broken—"

"All sham and humbug, ma'am. John Babcock and I have it by grapevine that she was stepping out high in Baltimore last night. She warn't hurt none. We missed her at the hotel an' at the wharf. She had the impudence to go on a troop boat as an officer's wife. We found out about it too late to head her off. All I hope is that we find her at Back Bay or on the dunes."

"If she gets aboard that Rebel blockader off False Cape that goes to England," added Babcock, "she'll do a vast mischief to the United States."

So, with gossip and surmise and jest and irony, they passed the tedious miles over a pretty good road running to the North Carolina line. A basket of lunch helped them to while away the hours.

THE SEA AT HAND

They met scarcely a [illegible] that wilderness of pine and cornfield, buzzard and razorback, swamp and brush and sand and marl. The sun hung low when they first smelled the [illegible] of the distant ocean and the ranker odor from those brackish bays and inlets which the great dunes separate from the Atlantic.

Millions and millions of waterfowl were flying over Back Bay and their clamor filled the reddening heavens.

The soldiers who had been driving them drew up beside an ancient tavern; Littlefield, Babcock and Gail Loveless got out stiffly, and Babcock went into the dusky tavern.

"We'll leave our baggage here, ma'am," said Littlefield, staring out across the water. He added "I sorely mistrust we've missed your Lady Greensleeves."

Babcock came out hastily, followed by two sullen fellows in sea boots, carrying oars, who led the way down to a rickety wharf where a sail boat rocked in the swell from the crimson-tinted bay.

"Is she here?" inquired Littlefield.

"Her skiff left this wharf 20 minutes ago," said Babcock. He called to the two cavalrymen: "Put up your horses, get supper and wait for us." Then he and Littlefield helped Gail Loveless into the rocking sailboat where one of the sullen men held the tiller while the other stowed the oars and hoisted sail.

All the vast bay was a dazzling glare of fiery reflections from the setting sun. The wind was enough and a lively sea, spray clouded the bows and Gail Loveless crouched in the cockpit.

After a long time she heard Gus Littlefield say quietly: "Thar they are, Jack."

"I see them," said Babcock.

Later. "I can't notice that we are overhauling them," said the younger man.

One of the sullen men said to his companion: "Dee is sailin' right smart."

The other replied, "I reckon dee is sailin' mo' faster as we-uns."

"Can you hoist more sail?" demanded Babcock.

"No, suh. Reckon we-all ca'y'n mo' sail now than we got a right to."

It was true. The wind from the bay was rising and the starboard gunwale was deeply awash.

IMPATIENT LANDING

They rushed on, Babcock and Littlefield bailed; the drenched sheet strained and bellied, the jib bulged to bursting.

"Mos' thar, suh," said the man at the tiller to Babcock. "Yonder's the sea dunes. Reckon dee's mos' ashore."

The other boat was no longer visible. A small island called Half Moon hid it.

Does the Confederate spy succeed in escaping on the blockade runner? Tomorrow's instalment of this thrilling Civil War romance portrays a near tragedy. Don't fail to read it.

Schoolgirls Adopt Simplicity

COLLEGE girls filling their first going away trunkful had a large share of consideration this past month in order to minimize their clothes problems. But younger sisters, still in their earliest teens, need attention, too, and it is to them and their mothers that we address this brief story about what our very recent tour of the junior fashion field revealed.

The supreme judge of what is right for school for juniors is the test of simplicity. A mother's good taste never allows fussiness of any sort. One preference allowed young girls is their love for color. This year they can go on a veritable orgy if they choose for never-before-heard-of combinations are good now. Tweeds and all woolens are coming out in enticing new shades. One marvels at the beautiful new ways in which colors are blended together.

Stripes and plaids are seen everywhere, if not always the whole dress, then the blouse, jacket, jacket lining, vest, scarf, hat, bag or gloves. Jerseys, knit weaves, velveteens and tie-silks this summer, are blossoming again in velvet, satin and silk in newer, darker shades, for the winter. On young girls, these prints in silk and velveteen are charming.

For a starter, it is safe to begin with the ubiquitous plaid. Like the model seen on the pretty young student on the left, in raspberry and bright blue on navy. Its only trimmings are the two enormous wooden-plate buttons—a novel idea that seems to accentuate the charming simplicity of the dress. As you can see by the sketch, the whole thing is utterly simple and naive.

Often you find that it is the fabric that makes the dress, as, for example, the youthful model worn by the young girl on the right. Fuzzy gray rabbit's hair worked in an all-over design on a black silk foundation reflects one of the newest fabric trends—that of wool embroidered on silk. It's a particularly applicable one for juniors, since the embroidery acts as the sole decoration on a superlatively simple dress. Little woolen caps are worn with dresses like these. Often they are hand-knit, made by mother or daughter, or else bought in accessory shops.

Large gay handkerchiefs are always sought after by young school girls as well as their elders. In the corner of the sketch we've shown a small section of two beautifully blocked designs. The new large 15-inch square is a very popular one, smarter for sports than the smaller size. New fall dress colors are carefully duplicated.

Other ideas young girls should watch for: The velveteen blouse, buttoned down the back by enormous brass snappers . . . fur vests, matching fur muffs, to be worn with tailored little suits . . . pleated, Pierrot-like ruffs worn on simple little woolen dresses . . . afternoon dresses with short contrasting sleeves . . . hip length evening capes in velveteen contrasting with the dress, often mandarin-inspired.

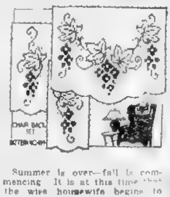
Chair Back Set

By Laura Wheeler



Summer is over—fall is commencing. It is at this time that the wise housewife begins to make her home attractive for the winter. She knows that it is the accessories—the smart touch here—the bit of decoration there—that make her rooms lovely.

Chair back sets do a double duty, they add to the beauty of a chair, and protect it from wear. First used in Victorian days, they have regained their old popularity, and are seen today in the loveliest homes.

This set, since it is done in large crosses, makes it possible to have a handsome piece of embroidery in short time. Pattern 499 consists of a chair back design 12½x15 inches and two arm rests 5½x12 inches. The pattern comes to you with detailed directions for making the set and necessary yardage.

Send 15c for this pattern to Boston Evening American Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth ave., New York City.

Listen World! She Saw Only That Which She Wished to See

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE FRENCH REVOLUTION! You may not know much about history, but you shudder at that name.

Elsie Robinson

You wonder about that queen Marie Antoinette. How deliberately heartless she must have been to have played all those years in the face of their agony, squandering the tax money of her starving subjects to gratify her selfish whimsies.

There's a book you should read. It's the biography of Marie Antoinette by Stefan Zweig. Most biographies of the great make indifferent reading, because their characters are so far outside our daily life that they seem unreal as fairy tales. But Stefan Zweig gives you Marie Antoinette just as she is—a gay, lazy, aimless, warm-hearted, empty-headed little creature, whose like you meet every day in the beauty shop or across the bridge table.

Poor butterfly! Never in all her silly days did she have one really cruel desire. Suffering shocked her as much as it would you or me.

Yet she let her people live in abject misery?

Yes, but she didn't want them to be miserable. She just didn't see their misery; that was all. Daily she passed by it, smiling, nodding, blowing kisses from her rosy little mouth with her foolish little hands. And, as she passed, her jeweled skirts brushed their filthy rags. Yet she never saw them, because—

SHE SAW ONLY THAT WHICH SHE WISHED TO SEE; BELIEVED ONLY THAT WHICH SHE WISHED TO BELIEVE. AND SHE DID NOT WISH TO SEE OR BELIEVE ANYTHING WHICH WOULD MAKE HER FEEL PERSONALLY UNCOMFORTABLE OR RESPONSIBLE.

Why was pretty, playful Marie Antoinette's life so shameful; her death so dreadful? That was why. She was not a monster, yet her record was monstrous, because SHE WOULD NOT FACE THE REALITY OF 1793. And so they punished her.

So, presently, many excellent law-abiding "harmless" citizens of these United States may be punished—unless they get busy and face the grim reality of 19[illegible]. They may not lose their heads, but they may have their smugness and feelings considerably shaken.

THERE ARE STARVING PEOPLE IN AMERICA TODAY. THERE ARE MILLIONS OF AMERICANS AS [illegible] DISEASED AND DESPERATE AS THOSE FRANTIC FRENCH PEASANTS WHO GUILLOTINED THEIR QUEEN.

They are [illegible] desperate for exactly the same reason. Those who should realize their plight and help them, refuse to see it, or admit that it exists.

"All this talk about a revolution—it's absurd!" they laugh, shuffling the cards, lighting their cigars with fat, jeweled fingers. "Of course times have been hard. Look at all we lost in the market crash! But these horrors you hear about—they're just talk. Why, most of those men in the bread line wouldn't take a [illegible] one. And as for starving—with all this charity poor people are eating better than they ever did before."

That's what these excellent, law-abiding, "harmless" American citizens are [illegible] and honestly believing, these days. That's what Marie Antoinette said, and honestly believed 150 years ago.

FANNY CROWNINSHIELD HOMAN'S ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

'beacon hill'

By Betty Alden

THE LITTLE CHURCH AROUND THE CORNER

in New York will be the scene of the marriage this evening at 6 o'clock of Miss Mildred Keyes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Keyes of Concord to Mr. Gerald Henderson, son of Mrs. Walter Henderson of Wayland. Only the families will be present at the ceremony and there will be no attendants.

MILDRED KEYES

The very attractive Miss Keyes is a sister of Mrs. Stedman Buttrick (Caroline Keyes) of Concord and of Henry Keyes who married Molly Walcott. She has been popular as a model at many fashion shows.

Mr. Henderson is a Harvard man and associated in the insurance business with John C. Paige Co. in Boston. His mother is a prominent philanthropic and welfare worker in Boston.

Mr. Henderson and his bride are sailing tomorrow for a honeymoon in Bermuda.

The first important social event of the season will officialy open the social season at the Copley-Plaza will be the third Fiesta Fantastique for which Don Corte and the hotel management have completed arrangements. The Fiesta will be held in the ballroom on the evenings of the 6th and 7th of October.

Don Corte is making such elaborate plans for the Fiesta which in modes, colors, settings, music and entertainment will surpass in brilliance any other entertainment he has produced. The affair is being arranged to benefit a children's charity in Boston.

The director is keeping busy engaging artists and mannequins to exhibit the latest in fall clothes from several of New York's smartest shops.

The patroness list, which numbers many beautiful and talented ladies practically insures the success of the Fiesta. On the list are Mrs. Charles F. Ayer, Mrs. Henry F. Benson, Mrs. Katherine Crosby Choate, Mrs. Harold J. Coolidge, Mrs. Albert M. Creighton, Mrs. Augustus F. Goodwin, Mrs. James M. Hunnewell, Mrs. Joseph Leiter, Mrs. Edward Motley, Mrs. A. Wilder Pollard, Mrs. C. F. Ropes, Mrs. Charles Thompson, Mrs. Bayard Warren, Mrs. John T. Bottomley, Mrs. Frederick R. Bogardus, Mrs. A. Clossen, Mrs. Harold G. Cutler, Mrs. Charles Eaton, Mrs. Frank McQueston, Miss Dorothy Preston, Mrs. Leroy Race and Mrs. Charles Sprague.

The fame of Don Corte has grown with each presentation of a Fiesta Fantastique on the North Shore during the summer . . . he never repeats a star, fashion or mode of entertainment.

Gertrude Peabody to Make Debut

MISS GERTRUDE LAWRENCE PEABODY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Peabody of Berkeley st., who came down from Bar Harbor for the marriage of her cousin, James Lawrence, Jr., on Saturday, has returned to her family's home there to stay until about the 20th of this month when she will come back to town to prepare for her debut. Her grandfather, Bishop William Lawrence, is entertaining at tea for her on Sept. [illegible] at his magnificent estate in Readville.

There are several other debutante parties on the calendar for September . . . we have already mentioned the dance which Mr. and Mrs. Philip Stockton are giving at their summer home in Manchester for their daughter, Margaret, on Sept. 29. Miss Margaret is one of the most important of this season's buds.

Mr. and Mrs. George N. Proctor have issued invitations to a luncheon to present their daughter, Miss Elizabeth N. Proctor, on Sept. 21 at Marblehead Neck.

Miss Adele Alsop, daughter of Mrs. Julia Chapin Alsop of Highland st., Milton, will make her debut at a dance to be given by her grandmother, Mrs. Robert W. Chapin, on Sept. 22, at her home in Tyringham in the Berkshires . . . and Molly Wheeler is to be presented at a tea dance at her parent's home in Weston the next day, Sept. 23. She is the daughter of the Edward C. Wheelers.

Many Debuts Planned for October

EARLY OCTOBER BRINGS THE IMPORTANT tea dance on the 12th which Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. O. Alsop are planning in honor of their debutante daughter, Miss Camilla Alsop. The debutante is a niece of Mr. S. Hooper Hooper who no doubt has plans in the back of his mind for several parties in her honor. The next day will mark the entrance into debdom of four of this year's group. Miss Anne Sortwell, whose parents are bringing her out at a dance at Beverly Farms; Miss Cynthia Hoar will have a dance in her honor at the Concord Country Club and a tea dance at the Brookline Country Club will be the means of introducing Miss Mary Lee Dewey of Belmont and Miss Katherine Baker of Belmont, to society.

Frances Turner

Later in October Miss Frances Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Turner of Cambridge and Peaches Point, will be presented with Miss Mary Weed on the 26th . . . the place is still indefinite . . . the 20th of October is the date chosen for the presentation of Miss Eleanor Shaw, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Parkman Shaw of South st., Needham, via a dinner dance at The Country Club.

Miss Anne Upton will make her debut in December, when her parents are planning a small dance in her honor. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Upton of Marblehead who are taking an apartment in town on Beacon st. so Miss Anne will be near the scene of all the festivities of her first season.

Pauline Longworth Entertained

MISS KATHERINE LANE was hostess recently in her charming studio, The Chimneys, at Manchester, for a private showing of the latest moving pictures of the trained dogs of Mrs. Harrison Eustis . . . Mrs. Eustis has just returned from Europe with the films and has been the guest of Mrs. Gardiner Martin Lane and her daughter.

She is internationally famous for training dogs both for war and for the blind . . . and is the founder of the organization known as the "The Seeing Eye."

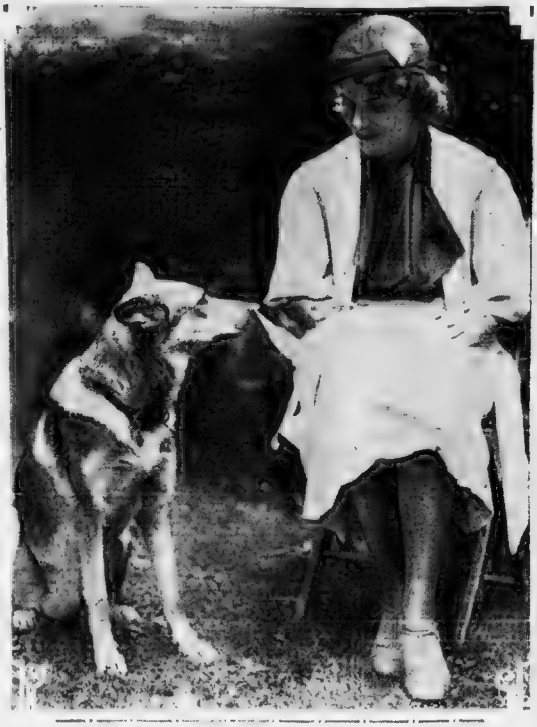
Miss Pauline Longworth, daughter of the late famous Speaker of the House, has been a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sewell H. Fessenden at their Coolidge Point home . . . she was entertained extensively around Manchester and Magnolia . . . The F. Wadsworth Busks (Harriet Fessenden) who also have a summer home at Coolidge Point, with their young family, have been enjoying a fishing trip to Maine the past two weeks.

LUNCH FOR TWO -:- IN THE GARDEN



POLITENESS IS ONE of the characteristics of Mrs. William Holt's favorite dog, Admiral Dewey, and he was rewarded with a share of his mistress' lunch at a recent garden fete held for charity in North Scituate, home of Mrs. Holt, who often takes her pet to teas and fetes on estates in the neighborhood. Vincent Club Girl to Wed H. S. Warren

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT HOMANS of Chestnut st. and Minot, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Miss Fanny Crowninshield Homans, to Mr. Howland Shaw Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Warren of Dudley st., Brookline.

Miss Homans attended the Winsor school and was graduated from Westover. She was presented in 1930-31 season and was elected to membership in the Junior League and Vincent Club.

Mr. Warren prepared at Milton Academy for Harvard, where he was graduated in 1932. He is now a student at the Harvard Law School. His clubs include the Spee, Hasty Pudding, Institute of 1770 and Signet. His sister, Miss Mary Eleanor Warren, became engaged last June to Mr. Grayson P. M. Murphy, Jr., of New York.

No date has been announced for the marriage.

'Pete' Bostwick Takes Bride in October

Saturday, October 7, is the date chosen by Miss Laura Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Freeman Curtis of Roslyn, Long Island, for her marriage to the famed steeplechaser and polo star, Mr. George, "Pete," Herbert Bostwick, son of Mrs. Fitch Gilbert of New York and Aiken, and the late Albert C. Bostwick.

The ceremony will be performed in Trinity Episcopal Church in Roslyn and a reception will follow at "Willowmere," the Curtis home.

The usher group includes many internationally famous polo players, all close friends of the prospective bridegroom. In this group will be Stewart Inglehart, Philip Inglehart, Robert Livingston Gerry, Jr., Stephen Clark, Jr., James F. Curtis, Jr., John R. Fell, William Post, Robert V. McKim, Lyman Wright and Dunbar Bostwick. Albert Bostwick will serve as best man for his brother.

Mr. Bostwick will not allow marriage to interfere with his favorite sport and will continue to maintain a stable in England where he is accustomed to passing the autumn with his aunt, Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark.

Latest Notes of Fashionables

By Dorothy Whipple Fry

TWO ACCESSORIES, the fur scarf and the flower, have a special gift for giving formality and chic to a costume. In early autumn weather, when the tailored suit and frock are worn on the street, the fur and the flower figure as important fashion details.

The scarf this fall is the familiar silver fox which remains the smartest fur with an occasional good-looking piece of blue fox.

Mrs. James Phelan of Boston and Manchester has a gorgeous fur piece of silver fox that she wears in a chic manner with a cherry and white print that is especially gay and attractive. She is a lovely blonde with fair skin and golden hair which is the coloring, probably the most striking with silver fox. One of Mrs. Phelan's soft grey fox fur, it was beautifully tailored and the tones especially lovely with her coloring.

Mrs. John Chapin is a tireless entertainer, no sooner has she achieved one social function than her agile brain is ready to launch another enterprise. Her luncheon for her daughter Jean was a much talked of social affair on the North Shore and now with the assistance of her charming daughter, Miss Martha Chapin, she is planning that very exciting event on the eve of the Yale-Harvard game, the Crimson-Blue Ball to help found a free cancer ward at the Deaconess Hospital. A most worthy cause and a well chosen time to perpetrate the ball when one and all are in a holiday mood, yearning to don the colors of their favorite teams and sally forth.

Mrs. Alvin Sortwell has enlisted her assistance to the worthy cause and her vivacious and attractive young daughter "Bubbles" Sortwell, who is making her debut this fall will contribute many ideas and suggestions.

Arch Preserver Shoes will do this for you . . .

Arch Preserver Shoes have a long and widespread record of actually preventing and correcting many foot troubles. They give you abundant energy hour after hour, for shopping, for working, or social activities.

Arch Preserver Shoes being scientifically constructed, co-operate completely with the mechanism of the foot. The rigid steel arch never sags or breaks down. It supports your weight evenly and gently, as Nature intended, throughout the long life of the shoe. The perfectly flat innersole and metatarsal feature prevent crowding of toes, breakdown of the forward arch, and restriction of circulation.

Arch Preserver Shoes cannot possibly make muscles ache—bring on fatigue—rasp nerves as ordinary unscientific shoes do.

Every Arch Preserver Shoe in my two stores is fitted by the exclusive heel-to-ball system which insures that every part of the shoe fits every part of the foot.

If you suffer from foot troubles, try one pair of Arch Preserver Shoes. Learn how unnecessary foot troubles are—how you can have the most thrilling style in footwear, and at the same time a degree of foot comfort you never would believe possible. And prices have not been advanced.

YOU CAN DISGUISE YOUR NOSE IF ITIS NOT ALL THE HEART DESIRES IN APPEARANCE

Bit of Rouge, a Little Powder and a New Coiffure Work Wonders

By Therese Deschamps

WE HAVE HAD so many letters lately expressing woe on "nose trouble" we really feel we have to do something about it. "My nose is large," "my nose is red," "my nose is fat"—poor noses—but after all, whoever sees a nose if the eyes are bright and intelligent, the mouth smiling, the temper above reproach.

It isn't so important a feature that we have to mourn it—even if it is flat or large, or turned up in saucy fashion.

And so we say—pooh! The shape of the nose can't be changed, all you have to do (and incidentally, so do we) is to admit the fates were in a frivolous mood when they assigned us that little appendage, then decide, as we did, that that is a good family characteristic—and let it go at that.

Glorifying Face

Now we're getting down to more than accepting noses as they were given to us. Why want them too perfect? However, there are ways of glorifying all of our features.

If the face is long, with the nose also a trifle too long, place the rouge low on the cheeks and spread it over a fairly large surface. A very light touch of rouge beneath the tip of the nose will make it seem shorter! Remember powder should be used sparingly. A very white nose makes it more prominent than ever. A tiny dab of rouge on the chin will also shorten a long face.

Hair styling is the next step. This is as important as your make-up and wonderful things can be done to improve your general appearance by arranging hair becomingly. For instance a large nose demands a fluffy, soft wave. A short nose comes gallantly into prominence if you brush your hair back off your forehead.

Bang Coiffure

One of the most becoming hairdresses for the slender youthful face is the bang coiffure. It gives the illusion of a high forehead if you part your hair side-center, and let the hair fall back in soft natural waves.

Now that we have decided upon the most flattering coiffure for our particular style of beauty, let us return to the too-shiny nose. We saved this for the last, but it is by no means least. Shiny noses sometimes indicate an oily skin. Careful cleansing with a good pore lotion will keep the skin fresh. We have discovered such a preparation. This lotion is also an excellent make-up remover as well. A bit of cotton saturated in the lotion and applied to the nose and entire face cleanses perfectly and leaves the skin soft and smooth.

If you would like the name of this preparation we would be glad to give it to you if you will enclosed a stamped self-addressed envelope with your request to Therese Deschamps, Boston Evening American.

Beauty Questions and Answers

Healing a Cut

Question: Some time ago I fell against a stove and cut my nose. I got the blacking in the cut and now that it is healed, there is a black streak on the side of my nose. Is there anything I can do for this?—Mrs. L. F., East [redacted]

Answer: The outer layer of skin constantly peels itself and as time goes on, if the cut was a surface cut, the mark will grow closer to the surface and then fade. One can purchase a skin peeling lotion or paste which will hasten this process. Of course, it can be done immediately by seeing a doctor.

Skin Brush

Question: Do you advise the use of a complexion brush on a thin, dry, sensitive skin? I also have open pores on the sides of my nose. E. A. Belmont.

Answer—We do not think it well to use a complexion brush on a skin such as you describe as it may irritate it. A gentle massage with creams, the cream to stay on all night, would be very good for improving this condition. An oil base soap massage, followed by a cream, then the use of an astringent in the morning will help close the pores.

Hangnails

Question—Will you tell me what to do for hangnails?—Miss J. D., Dover, N. H.

Answer—If the cuticle surrounding the pink shell isn't kept free of the nail base it os bound to develop shreds and patches that prove painful. Manicure the nails once each week. Each day lift the flesh gently with the orange wood stick, until it is properly trained. First soak the fingers in warm sudsy water, then apply oil and snip with needle-point scissors. At night, either cuticle oil or cold cream applied to the nails and cuticle will keep them soft and smooth.

Cream Benefits

Question: My daughter, who is going to high school, is using a cream on her face at night. She also washes it with soap and water. Her skin is in good condition and I do not want her to do anything to harm it in any way. Will you tell me if the treatment she is using is right for a young girl?—J. V., Dorchester.

Answer: If the cream your daughter is using is wholesome and good there is every reason to believe that her skin will be benefited by it. The soap and water treatment is excellent.

Hair Shorter

Question: I have been wearing my hair in loose curls around my neck for the past year. I understand that this is no longer smart and I would like to know a better way of combing it.—D. A., Dedham.

Answer: The hair is worn shorter this season and the curls are high on the head—if curls are becoming to you. It is wise to experiment with your hair until you find a coiffure which is individual and still in good style.

Corduroy Made in Newest Fashion

FIE ON the thought that a heavy fabric glove need be clumsy! Corduroy, once in the lumberjack class, is fashioned into gauntlet gloves that even while they breathe sportiness have not deserted the principle of grace.

Perhaps one reason is that the corduroy is ultra fine and pliable. Another, that an insert of stretchy jersey is sewed into the palm and fingers, and lets you pick up a pin with gloved finger tips. There's a swashbuckling flare below the wrist.

They'll not look like clumsy childhood day mittens, for all their warmth, and you can slide them under the elbow of your escort when threading the rush at the Stadium or the Bowl, confident that there's nothing about them to remind said escort of the clumsy horrors you wore when you were nine and he a huge fourteen.

If you'd like to know where to buy these corduroy sports gloves that make such grand ensemble finishes, write to the Fashion Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, including a stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

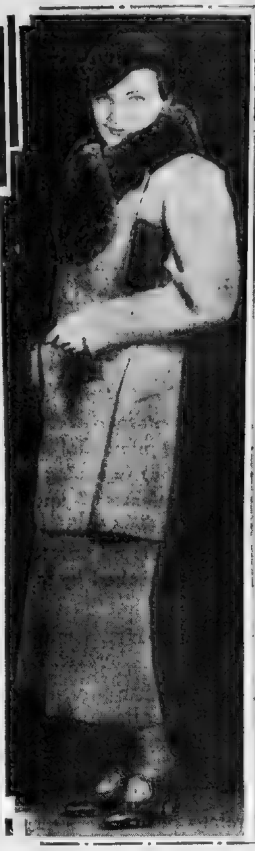
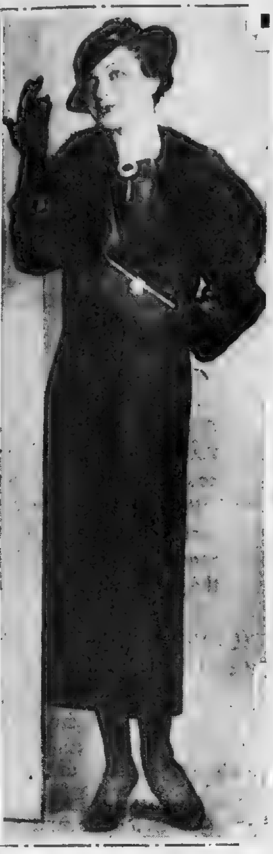
THERE WILL BE SUITS, SUITS, SUITS



The new wardrobe suit (pictured left) is first in importance in a suit season. Of tan wool in a rugged weave and mounted with a collar of rich beaver, this ensemble is completed with brown suede gloves, bag and shoes. Separate blouses "tuck in."



The dress-up suit emphasizes satin and wool combination, the wool so fine in texture that it feels like silk. Satin gloves, bag and trimming on the hat repeat the luxurious note that makes this little suit so acceptable as a part of the wardrobe.

Fall Cleaning Made Easy at Cottage

By MARTHA LEE

CLOSING up the cottage for the summer? And dreading all the extra work it means—especially the curtain and blanket washing? It's a he-man's job—specially the blankets. But it can be done "the easiest way" if you'll follow some very simple directions I got from no less an authority than our good friend Grace Larson.

She says—"To keep blankets fresh and clean, they should be washed as soon as signs of dustiness appear. A clear, breezy day is desirable for washing blankets.

"First consider the color-fastness of the material. Test a corner of the blanket in lukewarm water. If the material of the blanket is washable, gently shake the blanket to remove any loose dust or dirt. If there are medicine, iron rust, or other stains, remove these by special methods.

Woolen Blankets

"Woolen blankets should be washed with the same care that is used in washing other woolens, in order to keep them soft and "springy-feeling"; that is, always use lukewarm water and a mild, neutral soap. We find pure soap flakes particularly effective for laundering blankets, for they are so mild that no matter how much is used, they cannot harm the blanket; yet dirt is removed quickly and easily, even at lukewarm temperatures.

"Wash blankets by gently forcing rich suds through and through. Avoid rubbing or other harsh mechanical action. Wash blankets for only as short a time as is necessary to remove the soil. Always dry blankets in the shade, away from excessive heat and freezing temperatures. Never dry them in the sun!

"A washing machine is very helpful in washing blankets; but if one is not available, a tub may be used effectively.

"Make lukewarm suds. Never put blankets into hot water or hot suds. Two tablespoonfuls or so of soap flakes to a gallon of water is usually enough, except in hard water, but it is essential to use enough flakes to maintain suds throughout the wash. When washing new blankets, which often have an oily finish on the material, it is especially important to use plenty of soap to maintain suds.

"When the suds are ready, put in the blanket and begin washing at once. Do not soak colored blankets—even for a short time. Wash the blanket by squeezing thick suds through and through the material. Do not rub as this is likely to mat and 'felt' the soft fibers. If the blanket is much soiled, use several fresh suds, for dirty suds do not effectively remove soil.

Rinse in Clear Water

"When the blanket is clean, thoroughly rinse it in clear, lukewarm water. It is important to remove all traces of dirt and soap, if the blanket is to be bright and new-looking.

"If the wringer is at hand, put the blanket through this—adjusted loosely. If this is not possible, squeeze water out. Do not twist blankets!

"Hang the blanket evenly over a line, squaring the corners so that the weight is evenly distributed and the edges straight. Blankets will dry more quickly if spread between two lines. Hang striped blankets so that the stripes are up and down; then if the dye does run, it will run into the stripes, not into the background. If the dye is even slightly unfast, insert white cloth between the folds, so that one section does not flap onto another. Dry in a good current of air in the shade, if possible, and never expose to the direct rays of the sun, to excessive heat, or freezing temperature.

"When the blanket is dry, carefully brush it with a clean brush—in one direction—to raise the nap.

"Have blankets thoroughly dry before folding, especially if they are to be put away for several months.

There are many times when the wife the wife of a tightwad feels that she would cheerfully exchange him for a nice, generous-hearted, extravagant racketeer.

Now that two Chicago women have been ordered to pay alimony to their husbands, the only masculine "privilege" that women haven't managed to attain is the luxury of being bald-headed.

A girl used to feel that her life struggles were over when she landed her first husband, but now she doesn't feel actually "settled" until she has divorced her last husband.

Nothing makes a man so happy or a woman so miserable as to be loved mildly and sensibly.

A pre-view of the new fall hats almost convinces one that women are determined to kill love, if it takes the ingenuity of all the eccentrics in Paris.

All those old jokes about martyred husbands waiting for a woman to finish dressing are deader than technocracy. Any up-to-the-minute woman can get into her clothes in five minutes which leaves her nearly an hour to put on her complexion, while her husband is fastening his evening tie and trying to find his dancing pumps.

To watch some men concentrating on a jigsaw puzzle, you just know that they are using up all the mental powers the Lord gave them in one supreme effort!

Almost time for the girl who has been going about clad chiefly in suntan and an air of studied unconsciousness to put on something a little warmer.

I went into a store in Somerville to do some shopping. Seeing a young lady leaning on one of the counters I went up and asked her to show me some silk underwear. Imagine my embarrassment when she said she was no saleslady, only came in to purchase.

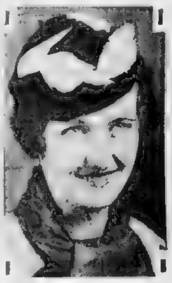
The Wings of Mercury on This Hat

By Annice Brink

THERE'S DASH, and youngness in this little chapeau. But before we tell what is so Parisian about it, the wonderful tale of its material, proudly American, should be known.

It's made of lastex. The velvet is shirred hazel-nut brown, and the lastex treatment will give you a sensation that comes only once in a span of years. It will fit like a [illegible]. And choose your angle at its most daring. You'll be certain that five minutes after you've placed it on your head, the hat will not have crept up to sit lackadaisically and unbecoming, and—if we [illegible] use another long, and clumsy word—precariously atop your [illegible]



[illegible] as if it were a part of the [illegible] like your ears, or the [illegible] bump you surely [illegible] carry somewhere on it.

Now for the feathers that [illegible] loves to load on our heads [illegible] season (sometimes, be it [illegible] and now, to the point [illegible] a model that looks [illegible] the little red hen [illegible] feathers all fluffed out [illegible] bath). But the white M[illegible] that have been [illegible] cunning to get [illegible] swift and carefree [illegible] tex bonnet shown, [illegible] jump up and [illegible] holes for Paris and her feathers.

A self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Fashion Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, will come flying back through the mail to you letting you know where this charming Miss Mercury bonnet may be purchased.

The reader's interest—makes Advertising Pay

● American Weekly—Snorting brontosauri with swarms of pterodactyls perched on their backs go gallivanting from the primordial slime across the toes of fabulous princesses, heiresses and actresses who, swooning in ermine negligees with hot love-letters stacked around them, "confess all" under the shadow of Science's latest mechanical star-splitter, a device for laying the centuries end to end so that they will reach from the pearly minarets of wicked Constantinople to the awesome depths of the profoundest ocean abyss yet plumbed by man!—(TIME Magazine—May 1, 1933)

CLEVER, Brother Time, but you haven't said the half of it.

For, as a matter of fact, nothing less than the whole world of human interest rolls through the colorful pages of The American Weekly every Sunday of the year.

This Mighty Magazine deals with the elemental and fundamental yearnings of life, with all its human hunger for love, for knowledge, for happiness.

The difference between the way The American Weekly deals with these and the way other publications are edited is simply this:

The American Weekly recognizes that love can come alike to cottage and to castle; that the lamp of learning has been lighted even more often on the homely mantel than beside the throne; that happiness may flute as clearly in the peasant's whistle as in the prince's song.

"To walk with kings nor lose the common touch" is no ordinary fact; its sustained successful appeal to millions of people is the reason behind The American Weekly's success.

Is the editor right to plunge both hands deep into life, dredge the palpitating facts of the world's romance, science, progress, and spread them in all the fascinating actuality across these pages?

Or should he respond to heart-hunger, mind-hunger, body-hunger with a stone of chill judgment and outworn recital?

The American Weekly has made its choice. Gorgeously, humanly, accurately it portrays this world of ours as it is, as it was and as we would have it be, to this living world of readers.

And in return, more than five million homes open their doors every week to this Mighty Magazine, paying to it a tribute of loyalty that never changes except to grow and deepen.

In the bond that exists between this publication and its readers there is something for you, Mr. Manufacturer, to consider thoughtfully if you have goods or services to sell.

For $16,000 you can buy a full page, a big page the size of this advertisement, printed in four colors, and make your sales appeal in the world's most interesting magazine to the world's most interested audience, the responsive millions in the 5,000,000 homes which welcome The American Weekly every Sunday.

Where this Magazine goes

The American Weekly is the largest magazine in the world. It is distributed through 17 great Sunday Newspapers. In 529 of America's 995 towns and cities of 10,000 population and over, The American Weekly concentrates 68% of its circulation.

In each of 93 cities, it reaches one out of every two families
In 110 more cities, 40 to 50% of the families
In an additional 157 cities, 30 to 40%
In another 169 cities, 20 to 30%

. . . and, in addition, more than 1,680,000 families in thousands of other communities, large and small, regularly buy and read The American Weekly.

Where can you spend your advertising dollar more effectively?

"SPEND A DOLLAR AND MAKE A JOB"

BOSTON AMERICAN
NEW ENGLAND'S GREATEST EVENING NEWSPAPER

"BUY IN SEPTEMBER AND BUY AMERICAN"

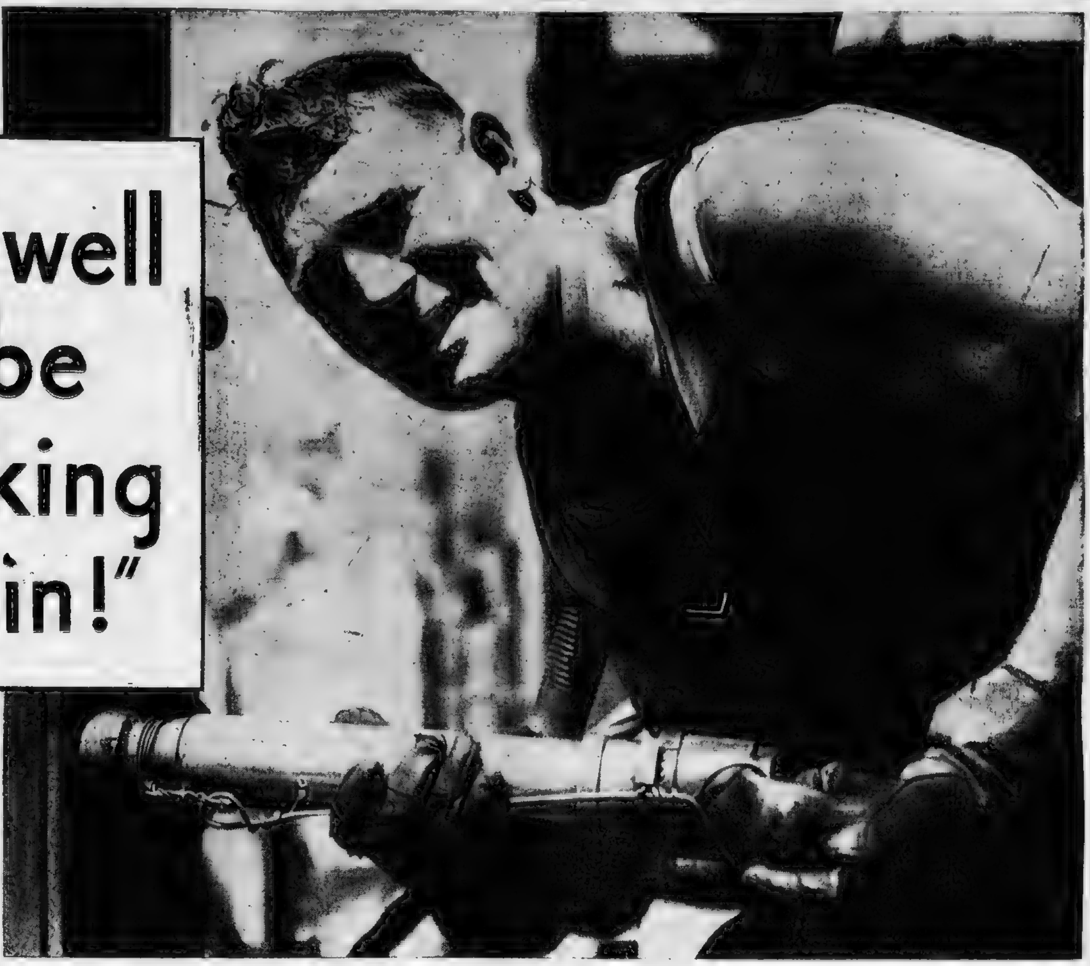
BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN New England's Greatest Evening Newspaper TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1933

"It's Swell to be Working again!"



This is the third illustrated editorial—of a series now appearing in the Hearst Newspapers—on the importance of the Buy Now movement as a contribution to National Recovery.

He's doing his part . . . You do yours . . . START BUYING NOW!

THE WORK WHISTLE HAS BLOWN! And industry has picked up its tools. The steel worker is back in his skyscraper. The miner is down in his pit! The farmer at his plow . . . the stenographer at her typewriter . . . in every community, smiles have appeared on brave faces. Willing hands have taken up their accustomed toil.

"It's swell to be working again!"

How pleasant to hear that cheerful phrase. Listen to it! Men are going back to work! Every day . . . America "gets down to business!" To fight it's way out of the red!

Not all of you who read this will have a job. But most of you will! And you are the ones who must not forget the "other fellow." For at this stretch of the road we must stand shoulder to shoulder. With that spirit, National Recovery cannot fail.

It's up to you! Today we must face facts squarely—think things through. It is your duty to see clearly your part in this nation-wide purpose to provide men with jobs, merchants with customers, manufacturers with buyers for their goods.

Manufacturers have done their part. Hours have been shortened. Men have been called back to work. And wages have been fixed at a minimum scale.

Your downtown stores and your neighborhood merchants have taken their places in line. Every day new jobs are being created. Salaries are in line for advance.

Now . . . it's up to you! It's your dollars that must ring the retail till. Food, drugs, clothing, furnishings, automobiles . . . necessities and "American luxuries" of all kinds must be sold.

You must do the spending. Your dollars must do the work. There is no middle course. No time for dallying. Buy what you need. Spend your money sensibly and success is directly ahead.

This is not just an appeal to your generosity. It is a simple pointing out of your clear line of duty. Your heart must feel the weight of this human problem. Every hand must follow the dictates of that wisdom which resides within a man.

Buy in September! It's your duty! Your neighbor's! Everyone with money in his pocket . . . with money in the bank. You must see the wisdom of buying now the things you need.

ALREADY AN AROUSED population has gone into buying ACTION! The Family has gone into a huddle. America is taking inventory . . . checking up. The kitchen pantry; the coal bin in the cellar; the clothes closet in the hall—all are open for inspection. What do we need? What can we sensibly buy? We'll buy it now—TODAY! We want to do our share, too!

A man comes home with a new golf club. He's wanted that mashie for two years. A woman happily wears her new hat. She looks prettier. The whole family notices it . . . and joins in her joy.

A daughter buys "that dress she saw in the window." Her older brother comes home dressed up in a new suit to wear to business. He's been wanting it . . . in fact, needing it . . . for months. Now they're buying.

A new radio set appears in the living room! A new car is parked in the family garage. America is buying! For today. And tomorrow!

What do you need? What will make your home more comfortable? Your wife happier? What will add to your family's well-being? Every man is interested in these questions, whether he lives in the tiniest flat or the millionaire's mansion.

It's up to every one of you. Do your sensible share!

Buy in September. Now is the time to start. Let every family hold a "business conference" in their home. Decide on the things you want and can sensibly afford. Buy everything you need—NOW! That's the way to help speed Recovery.

COWARD'S PLAY FOR SCREEN

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor, Universal Service

Copyright, 1933, Universal Service, Inc.

Los Angeles, Sept. 12—Busier than the proverbial cranberry merchant, Irving Thalberg has bought this play and signed that star. Just to make his week complete he has purchased the screen rights to Noel Coward's play, "The Vortex." Remember, it was produced some eight years ago and was the first play to gain the British playwright recognition. Alice Brady is the choice for the role that Florence Lancaster created on the stage.

Irving is expected to make his first public appearance since his return from Europe at a tea given for him by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios today. Two birds will be killed with one stone, if you will pardon my copybook expression. At Mr. Thalberg's tea, Maurice Chevalier will officially sign his contract for "The Merry Widow." And we thought it was signed two months ago.

Louella Parsons

Frank Borzage is expected to sign a contract with Carl Laemmle, Jr., to direct "Show Boat." Borzage goes to Universal before he starts with Warner Brothers. Edna Ferber's "Show Boat" came along in the silent movies at a bad time. Talkies were only a few days old and much of the colorful effect that might have been borrowed from Florenz Ziegfeld's musical comedy version were omitted from the screen by Universal, also all the [illegible] songs. Junior plans to bring to the screen Ziegfeld's musical version intact, with a big [illegible] all the popular songs.

Louise a Funny Queen

With or without [illegible] mounts "Alice in Wonderland" goes into production [illegible] ing. Louise Fazenda will be [illegible] the set bright and early. Don't get excited. Louise won't play Alice, but she will be made up for "The White Queen." No one in all the world could be [illegible] than Louise as the queen. One of the laughs of casting "Alice" is Charlie Laughton's abrupt refusal to play "Humpty Dumpty." He had other ideas. He wanted a dramatic part such as the "White Knight." Gary Cooper carried off the "White Knight" role, while W. C. Fields is content to play "Humpty Dumpty." Jack Oakie does a solitary "Tweedle-Dee." [illegible] is set for "Tweedle-Dum." [illegible]

Rift Aids Esther

Maybe it isn't p[illegible] loud that Esther Ralston [illegible] better and is doing better [illegible] on the screen since her [illegible] monial spat with George W[illegible]. She was absolutely radiant [illegible] Kay Francis-Kenneth McK[illegible] party and reports on her [illegible] both at Paramount and [illegible] sal are most complimentary. On the strength of these tests Carl Laemmle, Jr., has [illegible] Miss Ralston for the [illegible] Countess in "Candlelight" [illegible] Boles plays the male [illegible].

A new [illegible] will be made of the [illegible] and some changes [illegible] are contemplated.

The smart speed [illegible] car of Douglas Fairbanks [illegible] often seen on our boulevards, is for sale. Young Doug's other Hollywood belongings [illegible] be put on the market and sold to the highest bidder. All statements to the contrary, Fairbanks, Jr., is not returning to the U. S. A. to live. Perhaps some one told him Warner Brothers had removed his name from all advertising. He has sent for his secretary who was [illegible] to bring his wife with him and prepare to remain in London in-definitely. The Fairbanks, father and son, are now living in the house of Doug Sr., purchased in London.

Talk about activity on the Universal lot. It's just humming there with stories being put into production and important stars once again at work. Boris Karloff, who has just been put under a new contract by Universal, will make his first return appearance in "Bombay Mail," the picture which took Edmund Lowe to Universal and which is slated for one of the important Universal events.

"BRITTLE HEAVEN" PROVES EXPERT DRAMA

New Play Gets Fine Handling at Tremont

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

Of this Yankee soil, "Brittle Heaven" has in that fact of origin and local interest a most excellent anchor to windward against any critical storm as to dramatic shortcomings. It is a quiet play, given the tribute of eager eye and keen ear, by a distinctly friendly audience at the Tremont, last night. Assuredly, in this old home country of its theme, this new piece is going to make good.

Its fine points are many; its lacks will hamper it most beyond these Yankeeland boundaries on the west. So expert is its production treatment, so deft is the acting touch as to situation and line, that the play has the beauty of a fine painting, plus exquisite atmosphere and a literary flavor that must appeal to dyed-in-the-wool Bostonians. I may accord it the art of Alma-Tadema's "A Reading from Homer," glorious to look upon, but lacking the dramatic power of that reading itself.

"Brittle Heaven," in essence, deals with two women and a man. Its time is the Civil War era. They are true life characters. One is Emily Dickinson, the poetess; the others are more or less known to literary delvers, Helen, and Capt. Edward Hunt. Upon a basis of real personalities, the playwright attempts to solve what is known as the Emily Dickinson "controversy"—the secret of her love. Through his reading of the poetess' letters to her chum, his wife, Hunt is fashioned into the romantic figure that platonically swayed the whole after life of Miss Dickinson.

Three Acts in Play

Through three acts—the first of three scenes, and the last of two—the drama is held to the parlor of the Dickinson home at Amherst. Readings from letters and poems by the central character find frequent voice. An outstanding weakness, from the coldly critical angle, is this very literal fidelity to the factual. A beautiful portrait is presented of the writer, of her home, of her family, of her friends. Her soul is laid bare, and their souls, too; but the impellingly dramatic elements are wanting.

The technicians have built up a perfect scheme; a breath of life with one fine climax would save the day. But the very limitations of theory consonant with truth foil this salvation.

Cast Is Stellar

Mr. Beckhard and Mr. Isaacs, and staff, have given "Brittle Heaven" a vast deal of excellence. In Boston it should be a success. Its fate outside New England, one regrets to observe, is easy to guess. In craftsmanship, remembering the exacting demands of so delicate a theme, Vincent Yorke and Frederick J. Pohl have done wonders. But their output is nothing more vigorous than good home circle entertainment.

The cast, here and there, is stellar. I like particularly Katherine Emery's handling of the principal role, a remarkable feat of character carving. Little Diran Bodenhorn aids the scant humors, and could be made use of, with profit, to a greater extent.

But I did enjoy the show; yet could not help thinking that if its gold were salvaged, its strait-jacket sloughed off, and its precious metal cunningly worked into a drama of the present day, it would, indeed, be a grand play to see.

Roxy's Gang in Song Cycle Top Bill

By HARRIS MORGAN

Real singing and abundant comedy highlight the current Scollay stage bill, although for the curiosity seekers interest perhaps centers in the appearance in the "spot" of "Prince Michael Romanoff." It is a well varied vaudeville program, with one of the finest of all balancing acts to give a few thrills.

Dault & Lamarr open, and prove astonishingly expert balancers. Above tiered tables they put a chair on common bottles, and on that perilous perch the pair do such tricks that now and then a woman in the audience shrieks. It's a fine act. Pettit & Douglas patter, sing and dance, with the wee fellow in the team capturing the honors. Nellie Arnaut and Brothers are clever acrobatic violinists but register stronger with their comic bird imitations.

Besser & Balfour rough it through hokum comedy, and then comes the classy song turn, with Roxy's Gang shining brightly. In quartette and solos, they win tremendous applause. This is the real topline act.

"Prince Mike," in best bib and tucker, is given a grand setting by Manager Vinson, but the man's own seriousness makes his act slow. There are laughs now and then; the audience is just dying to "bust loose"; if opportunity were furnished, the turn would be worth more than just a sop to the curious.

Sammy Lewis and Tommy Moose stir up plenty of hilarity with a comedy skit. Paul Cunningham revue closes with skillful dancing and plenty of it.

Records Slide at Bowdoin

"Tugboat Annie," apparently the "box office smash" of the season, is breaking records at the Bowdoin, where it is featured on a gala bill of two photoplays and vaudeville.

On stage the acts scoring big are Togo and Chyo, wire walkers; James and Dunn, comedy turn; Coogan and Casey, funsters; Harrison and Grant, comedians, Harry Hartley, vocalist, and Stanton and Delores, gymnasts.

Two Showings for Premiere

Details are now made public for the world premiere Friday night at the Majestic of the film, "Damaged Lives." The first showing will be at 7 o'clock, followed by the official premier at 9 o'clock. Except for a few invited guests there will be no reserved seats at this or any other performance. It will be shown daily thereafter, including Sundays, continuously from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m.

Diane Sinclair, Marcelline Day and Lyman Williams are seen as stars in "Damaged Lives." Miss Day in particular will be remembered for her role in "Washington Masquerade."

"DAMAGED LIVES"
. . . a tensely dramatic story that visualizes with graphic realism an age-old social and health problem.
Thoughtlessly, unknowingly this boy risked his health in one gay experience, on the eve of his marriage to the girl he dearly loved.
Later came the cruel awakening when his physician told him that he had an infectious disease, and that his wife was an innocent victim.
They thought they could never laugh again, but they found new hope and courage in the promise of eventual restoration of health and happiness.
The feature picture will be followed by an interesting sound film presenting authentic information concerning the scientific theme of "DAMAGED LIVES," which the American Social Hygiene Association urges everyone to see and hear.

KING OPENS POLICE WAR ON CLUB SPEAKEASIES

This Is Life

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

Last week I suggested that organizing the youth of America for the NRA might be the first step in the creation of an American "youth" movement leading towards Fascism. The same day I was interested to see, Roger Babson, speaking at his annual conference out at Wellesley Hills, pledged his organization's reputation for accuracy to the prophecy that out of the middle class will arise a dictator who will impose a Fascist regime on the United States to save it.

Words change their colors in moving about. For instance, in Europe the word Fascism means a dictatorship in opposition to parliamentary government. The word "middle class" means the bourgeoisie in opposition to both the aristocracy above and the proletariat below.

In America the Roosevelt administration, functioning almost without congressional control, certainly has a tinge of Fascism, but when Mr. Babson mentions the middle class he almost certainly is drawing the lines more closely than a European would. By middle class Mr. Babson, I take it, means the average small business man, as opposed to the controllers of "big" business on the one hand and to the labor unions on the other hand. He represents traditional American individualism. Politically he is neither liberal nor conservative; in actual fact he has no recognizable politics except business.

This type of man, suggests Mr. Babson, has stood the selfish interests as long as possible. Both big business and radical labor have failed. The "business man," impartial and benevolent, will do better. And Mr. Babson's "middle class" has one other characteristic one never thinks of in discussing European politics. He is most probably a church member. This I take it is essential in Mr. Babson's philosophy.

Against this we may put a paragraph by Alva Johnson discussing repeal in the current New Yorker. He is trying to award praise (or blame) properly for what has happened.

"The Dry [illegible] made a game fight against odds. Their strength came mainly from the middle class and religious groups. They were beaten by a combination of smart society and the underworld, which are practically invincible when they work together because they are the two classes that are sure of themselves and not afraid of public opinion. When the top and bottom social layers unite on any issue, whether involving manners, morals [illegible] social tenets, the self-conscious and complacent [illegible] middle class [illegible] stampede like sheep."

That [illegible] and [illegible] statement and I am not [illegible] agree. But from that point of view, let [illegible] what becomes of Mr. Babson's prophecy of a middle class dictatorship. Mr. Johnson would probably say that a coming Fascist dictatorship would aim precisely to take power out of the hands of the middle class which has always controlled it in America.

Congress is middle class. Banking, in the greater part of the country, is middle class. So is normal competitive business. Neither aristocratic conservatism or proletarian radicalism has ever had a look-in in America. If any one class is to blame for our present mess, it is the middle class.

There are signs of revolt. The "middle class" not only has been thoroughly beaten on Repeal but there are signs that in matters like race-track betting, Sabbath observance, lotteries and the like, control is passing out of the hands of Mr. Babson's middle class.

The new NRA dictatorship may be Fascism, but it is not middle-class Fascism. Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Hoover were essence of middle class. Mr. (and Mrs.) Roosevelt are essence of aristocracy. Their administration is aristocratic. The Brain Trust is aristocratic. The NRA is military, which is simply aristocracy with spurs. Congress, which is utterly middle class, is out of the picture.

The more one looks at it all from this angle, the more it seems that we are in for a struggle for control between two groups, the aristocracy of brains, wealth and power and the aristocracy of labor. The middle class will stand on the side lines as usual, will listen to sermons on the duty of a Christian, will be powerless in the decision and obedient to the result.

Mr. Babson is thinking of the middle class that produced Cromwell's Ironsides, Garrison's Abolitionists, etc. They were a great lot, only there do not seem to be any of them left. If the history of revolutions teach anything, it is that power always slips quickly out of the hands of the moderate, benevolent middle class into the hands of the extremists. This happened in France, this happened in Russia.

HULTMAN HIDES FROM BATTLE OF ADJECTIVES

Speeds to Duxbury to Escape Conry's Verbal Barrage

With a lead of several verbs and thousands of mysterious adjectives, Traffic Commr. Joseph A. (Where's My Camel) Conry scored heavily today in the latest "mauling of the missives" that found Police Commr. Hultman sagging on a dictionary.

Somewhat of a weak defense was offered by the police head but the mighty typewriter of the trafficker spelled out blow after blow to render the policeman groggy.

HAVEN OF BANDITTI

"The police department indicates a fungal power of control softened by vacillation," wrote the well-dressed traffic man.

"Our people should not be penalized because a crepuscular police commissioner prefers to gaze on receding waves at Duxbury rather than face advancing crime waves in Boston," was another body blow.

"Any reply, commissioner," ventured one.

"I haven't seen his statement," came the retort courteous.

"Mr. Conry says that since you became head of the police department Boston has become a haven of banditti—that last one just means bandits," pushed the peace hater.

"That's interesting," was the most informal reply.

INTELLECTUAL TROUBLE

"Mr. Conry says that the troubles of the police department are intellectual, not physical."

"Oh, he thinks we're getting highbrow."

"Mr. Conry says that it would be better if you spent more time in Boston on police work and less in Duxbury watching the waves. Have you anything to say about it?"

"No," and the tone was firm and formal.

Young Murray threw the clock at the man, who ran out and jumped into a waiting automobile in which were two other men. They sped away.

There was about $10 in the register. Murray said he got only the last three numbers of the auto license.

CRICKET GASSERS ILL

Lynn's battle of the crickets sent Park Commissioner John Morrisey (at right) and ten aids to drug stores for treatment this morning. Use of carbon disulphide on bits of cotton—which were dropped in four-foot holes about five feet apart—made the cricket battlers ill. The fluid causes gas formation intended to oust the pests that have annoyed Lynn folk for weeks. You see the men at work this morning before sickness halted the job. An expert chemist will engineer work from now on.

The idea was that the gas would permeate the entire dump in a short time and kill all the crickets. But it worked so fast that the fumes came right up through the dump to the workmen, driving them out.

A Boston chemist was consulted by telephone and he told the city it was on the right track and the gas would finish the crickets. He promised to hurry to the scene to see that it was done right [illegible] [illegible] be [illegible]

CAR INSURANCE REPEAL MOVE STARTED

Legislators Start Move for Flat Rate or Fund System

Greater Boston legislators were today going ahead with their plans for circulating an initiative petition calling for repeal of the compulsory auto insurance law and the substitution of a flat rate or a State fund system.

A group of 23 legislators met at the State House and started plans for the petition at the same time State Insurance Commissioner Merton L. Brown was holding a public hearing on the proposed rates for 1934 at Gardner Auditorium.

20,000 SIGNERS NEEDED

In order for such a petition to be effective it must contain 20,000 signatures representing at least four counties in the Commonwealth.

The petition would then go before the legislature at its next session. If defeated there the filing of an additional 5000 signatures would insure the placing of the question on the ballot at the 1934 State election.

A similar initiative plan was tried in 1931 after the futile special session of the legislature on the auto rate increase. The limited time available at that time precluded the presenting of the petition.

In the present case, however, backers of the plan point out they have three months in which to secure the 20,000 signatures necessary to present the petition to the 1934 session of the legislature.

Little hope was held out today that yesterday's hearing would bring about any substantial changes in the tentative schedule of auto insurance rates for 1934 announced Sept. 1 by Commr. Brown.

NEW SCHEDULE READY

At the close of the hearing Commr. Brown stated he expected to announce the permanent schedule for 1934 in a short time, probably at the end of the week.

It is not believed there will be any material changes in the rates, either [illegible] reductions or increases, [illegible] slight adjustments are expected in some cases.

BONE DRY CITY AIM OF NEW POLICE HEAD

Drinking Parlors Banned; Five Captains Reprimanded

Five police captains smarted under the reprimand of Supt. King and Supt. King smarted from defiance of club owners and bootleggers today as the new police head opened war on liquor traffic.

The five division heads, Captains John J. Mullen of the North End, James F. [illegible] of the South End; Edward Fallon of South Boston, Thomas [illegible] Kavanaugh of Roxbury and John J. McGrath of Brighton, were ordered to give an account of their liquor stewardship [illegible]

WAR ON NIGHT CLUBS

To the defiant liquor sellers, Supt. King laid down the ultimatum that amounted to close up or be closed up.

"All night clubs look alike to me and regardless of their size and splendor will be raided and the proprietors prosecuted if evidence is obtained that the law is being violated," said the new superintendent.

"It is my duty to close up these places which are operating under the law," he added.

FRISBY TO EXPAND PROPOSED BREWERY PROJECT

Busy scene in Frisby laboratories

WASHINGTON—Congressman Frisby will soon announce a drive to place five shares of stock in his proposed Greater Frisby Breweries, Inc, in every home in the land. "My plan," says Frisby, "is so simple that I blush to admit that I didn't think of it sooner. In a word, I have decided not only to divert the healthful water of the Great Lakes into life-giving beer—but also to engage in the manufacture of dandelion wine. I find that dandelions are easy to grow; and any man can put his weight in dandelions by simply borrowing a power lawnmower. My setup will provide that everybody loan his lawnmower to his neighbor and no questions asked In exchange he will receive five shares of stock, provided he makes five gallons of dandelion wine and places it on his back door steps. The wine will then be siphoned to our vats, placed at a convenient location in every neighborhood. The rest of the plan will be worked out when we come to it."

Boston Gets an Old Cat Back In Its Lap ↕ One Time That John Public Escapes a Trap

By AUSTEN LAKE

With all this clatter about the Petrolle-Fuller crockery smash going on and on in a rising crescendo, how can a peaceful author write his daily gossip on cribbage, baffleboard and badminton? Take that nuisance into the alley or I'll call on the law.

In the first place I've often told you that prize fighting is no business for honest gentlemen. Yes, there are honest men in it I know, but they have two strikes on them with their head in a bag, because the swindlers who infest the trade, use all the honest holds and a flock of dishonest ones as well. They can take the works out of your watch without opening the case, or remove your skin without unbuttoning your coat.

As one who studied penmanship in the old-fashioned copy book school by scrawling "Virtue is its own reward" and "Honesty is the best policy," 100 times to the ruled page, maybe I am not equipped spiritually to deal with the subject as though I had been taught on the line that "There are many ways to skin a cat" and "Set a thief to catch another." But I will be as dirty as possible.

From hearsay I gather that the Boston Decision has reared its ugly head again, after a long slumber and the city which sport writers have toasted as the Mecca of fair play, the home of ever loving fans, and the abode of good sportsmanship, has the old cat back in its lap again.

Usually in cases of this sort it is the public which gets hurt, because the public is considered by good judges who ought to know, to be a good natured gilly with a stocking full of money and a short memory for past injuries. And besides, so little of the public gets hurt at one time that it really does not matter to the rest of the public, and so on around the mulberry bush. But this time it was the promoters, the State boxing commission and the health of the industry, which took the harpoon. Which hints that somebody's aim was bad, whoever that somebody was.

Naturally the public was the intended target. For at the start of the Petrolle-Fuller match, the gambling odds were quoted at even, which was a singular thing in view of Billy's top lofty reputation and the fact that Fuller was fraying out. But the amazing thing was that, as the bout started, and Petrolle began to simonize the North Ender, like a garage polisher going over a 1925 body, the odds shifted.

Sure they shifted, you say. Why not?

The Odds Shift Inversely to the Fight

That's the odd part. The more Petrolle blistered Fuller, raising little puffs of dust as he punched his dry hide, the shorter the odds became on Petrolle and the higher on Fuller until by the sixth round you could walk down the aisle to the proper people at ringside and get six shares against 10 that Fuller would win or draw.

You would have thought that the big, good natured crowd would have marched down in a column of fours and held out their money with a fascist salute. But there is virtually no betting at all, probably because it looked like such a sure thing that the crowd suspected a mousetrap play and sheared away. For your innocent bystander has been potted from ambush so often and become so increasingly shy after years of playing Little Red Riding Hood, that he no longer walks up to the wolves and says, "My Grandmother, what sharp teeth you have." And when a sure thing offers itself he is inclined to sniff suspiciously and edge away before it reaches out and grabs him by the giblets.

So, as it happened, it was not the public, but the promoters who have investments in leases, equipment and contracts, who took the shock on their financial nerve centers. Not only the Garden, but the few remaining promoters who have survived the skin-and-bones period of boxing and are nursing their pennies in the hope of a sudden revival. But I suspect now that the public will not be easily coaxed out of its burrow for a long time to come, nor will top flight boxers be willing to risk their reputations in this uncertain climate. For Billy Ames tells me that Jack Hurley, Petrolle's manager, swore a solemn vow that he would never let his man enter a Boston ring again.

Capable Referees Make Good Judges

Here, for example, are a group of reputable boxing referees in and around Boston, Johnny Brassil, Joe O'Connor, Jerry Moore, James Walsh, John Martin and several others in the Western end of the State, all of them men who have weathered a long siege of apprenticeship and having stood the test of honesty and competence. Yet few of them make more than $150 a year or work oftener than once a month, and their fees range from $15 to $25 a night. You may be surprised to know that Brassil received only $25 for handling the Brouillard-Walker go.

The answer seems clear.

By erasing the judges, most of whom come by the boxing knowledge at second hand, their places could be filled by licensed referees, assigned in rotation. Fortunately for Brassil, the third man in the Garden ring with Petrolle and Fuller, the system of concealing individual decisions of the judges and referees as practiced some years ago, is no longer in vogue. For when Brassul voted for Petrolle and had his decision announced in the press, he was absolved from any pointed finger. Which may have saved him from the embarrassment that the late Larry Sweeney suffered at Mechanics Building in 1926 after Johnny Dundee had given Charley White a scientific lacing only to lose the decision.

When the announcement was made and Sweeney as referee was obliged to hold up White's limp arm as the victor, a long silence ensued. Then as Sweeney skinned between the ropes and pressed through the crush in the aisles, the storm broke, and the crowd, which was made up largely of Italian-Americans, played grabs with Larry's outer clothing, shredding his shirt and landing pudgy fists on his head. It took a flying wedge of police to pry him out of the human whirlpool and rush him to his dressing room. He resigned his license the next day and never refereed a boxing match again.

I could reel you off a dozen examples of past Boston decisions, where the verdict has always gone to the native son. But those were in the previous days under another commission. This Petrolle affair is the first of its kind under Dan Kelly, and if I know Dan, as I think I do, I suspect that he will empty some of the sawdust out of the effigies that are now sitting in the Judge's pews and fill the vacancies with blood and brains.

Punting seems to run in the McNamara family. Warren here shapes as Doc Harmon's best bet at B. U., and he is only a sophomore. He is a brother of Bob McNamara whose punting for New York U. the past three years brought back recollections of Sam Felton, Harry Kipke et al. The McNamara boys first started kicking at Wellesley high. Young Warren looms as the logical quarterback choice at the intown institution.

REIBER LOST TO CORNELL

Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 12 (AP)—Five Cornell football candidates, smallest number in years, reported to Coach Gilmour Dobie today. Already without Capt. Frank Murdock, right tackle, the squad also lost Richard Reiber, regular end two years ago, through scholastic ineligibility.

Ten other men reported for light morning and afternoon drills in chilly weather. They were Don Anderson and Frank Irving, ends; Harry Shaub, Nate Kossack and Tom Borland, guards; Johnny Ferraro, Homer Geoffrion, Bob Grant, Walt Switzer and John Terry, backs.

HORSTMANN IS REDSKIN ACE

Evanston, Ill., Sept. 12—Roy Horstmann, brilliant new backfield ace, was the sole Boston Redskin to remain out of action today as the Hub eleven held its second scrimmage session of the week. Horstmann was the shining light of the B backfield in yesterday's scrimmage and Coach Dietz gave him an easy workout for today. The drop in the high temperatures and the incentive furnished by the importance of the Green Bay clash Sunday, spurred the remainder of the squad to renewed efforts in the morning drill.

The form shown by Horstmann in scrimmage made Coach Dietz's efforts to decide on a starting eleven for Sunday even more perplexing.

The ex-Purdue flash looked immense in the practice game and broke away for one touchdown run for 50 yards.

Cliff Battles was up to his old tricks also, and registered a touchdown for the regulars after galloping 47 yards through a host of prospective tacklers. The blocking furnished by Erny Pinckert and Jim Musick on this and many other occasions was particularly impressive. Dick Thornton ran the tentative first team and showed good choice in his selection of plays.

Public Football Clinic for Detroit Grid Fans

Detroit, Sept. 12 (AP)—Detroit football fans who don't know the difference between the "6-2-2-1 defense" and the double wing back will have no excuse for such ignorance this season for Coach Charles E. "Gus" Dorais, of University of Detroit, is holding a "public football clinic" Sept. 22 for those who haven't kept abreast of modern gridiron strategy.

Beneath the floodlights of the U. of D. stadium Titan varsity will go through formations of the Notre Dame, Warner and other systems in slow motion, while Dorais explains each move through a loud speaker system.

It is believed here to be the first "clinic" of the kind ever held.

GOB SLUGGISH IN WORKOUT

Chicago, Sept. 12 (INS)—Jack Sharkey, deposed heavyweight champion, was scheduled to box four rounds against sparring partners today in preparation for the ten-round bout at Comiskey Park Friday night with King Levinsky, Chicago contender.

Levinsky, fresh from his training camp, [illegible] rounds.

Sharkey's sluggish performance yesterday against Buck Everett and Danny La Marre was expected to result in an order from Trainer Al Lacey for the Boston sailor to do some additional sparring tomorrow.

Levinsky Given Time Off on Birthday

Chicago, Sept. 12—King Levinsky, having spent almost two weeks belting his sparring partners around and pounding the beaches near his outdoor camp at Grand Beach, Mich., in an effort to whip himself into shape for his important heavyweight battle with Jack Sharkey, the former champion, at Comiskey Park Friday night, moved into the Loop today.

The reformed fish merchant, who had been sulking a bit, was permitted to ease up in his training so that he might celebrate properly his 23d birthday.

STONEHAM SELLS OUT INTEREST IN CLUB

New York, Sept. 12 (INS)—Charles A. Stoneham's majority interest in the New York Giants National League baseball club has been sold to A. C. Blumenthal, theatre promoter, for a price reported to be $1,500,000.

The International News Service was [illegible] today that contracts for the sale were drawn up last week by former City Magistrate [illegible] Healy of Brooklyn.

It is understood former Mayor James J. Walker will become president of the club under conditions of the sales contract.

Walker for many years has been a close friend of Blumenthal's, Stoneham's and Healy's and the announcement of his future connection was no surprise.

The deal was to have been kept secret until after the World Series but a leak on the legal end permitted it to become known.

John J. McGraw, for many years manager of the Giants, will retain his minority holdings in the club.

Several other prominent New Yorkers, among them Walter Chrysler, Jr., son of the automobile magnate, were said to be associated with Blumenthal in the purchase.

Negotiations for the sale were conducted through Dan Moriarty and Nat Cook, two radio entertainment promoters, who have been negotiating with McGraw and Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics for a series of broadcasts of the World Series.

At the office of Blumenthal an associate said the producer was out of town and could not be immediately reached for comment.

Stoneham Denies Sale of Giants

New York, Sept. 12 (AP)—Charles A. Stoneham, president of the New York Giants, today indignantly denied a report that he had sold his controlling interest in the New York Giants of the National Baseball League to A. C. Blumenthal, real estate and theatrical promoter.

"You can make that as emphatic as you wish," Stoneham said when advised of the report. "There is absolutely nothing to it. The Giants are not for sale."

Hanover, N. H., Sept. 12—Dartmouth could use a good right end [illegible] and if there is any strong replacement [illegible] the Big Green student body, Coach Jackson Cannell [illegible] to hear about it.

[illegible] October 21 [illegible] Princeton [illegible] six major games in six Saturdays [illegible]

13 VETERANS BACK

A three-veteran guard [illegible] left side of the line [illegible] and Michelet and [illegible] belong on the port flank [illegible] doubtless one or another [illegible] shifted. The lone expert [illegible] Embry, lanky [illegible] appeared at Tabor Academy [illegible] Bill never [illegible] in practice but in actual combat he never lets them [illegible] through his fingers.

[illegible] Phil [illegible] six foot [illegible] stockings and with frame to match, stands alone on the other side of center, the only letterman among a host of candidates. He [illegible] Memphis and is a bull [illegible] at tackle.

But no center is back. Max Frankel who played sub at pivot last fall, Abils Butler, who showed promise on the freshman team and Herb Stearns from Mansfield High are fighting for the job at present.

Cannell [illegible] who will [illegible] from the freshman [illegible] Elbert Camp [illegible] and [illegible] Fiton, tackle [illegible] Dick Carper [illegible] Bill Mack from [illegible] and [illegible] Stepel are worth [illegible] Phil Conathan of [illegible] Dick O'Hare [illegible] George [illegible] are among the [illegible] candidates.

The backfield [illegible] players who [illegible] on. Roald Morton [illegible] morning. Bob Clark [illegible] who hurt his shoulder playing baseball on the Cape [illegible] mer, says he feels fine [illegible] Dave Hedges [illegible] Wilbur Powers are all on deck for work in the backfield, together with Sammie Fishman [illegible] Malden high, and George [illegible] who are calling signals.

NORMIE RAND PROSPECT

Except for his weight — he scales only 155 pounds—Little Normie Rand from Salem looks like one of the best prospects in the backfield. Ineligible a year ago, and unable to play in his freshman year, he is now out for the varsity seeking to repeat his success under Bill Broderick at Salem high.

Frank Nairne and John Kenny are the backfield candidates who have brought the best reputations up from last year's freshman team. Frankie Spain, by the way, Wayland boy of whom great things were expected, is not coming back to college this fall.

Canzoneri, Ross Make Weight for Go Tonight

New York, Sept. 12 (AP)—Tony Canzoneri, who meets Champion Barney Ross tonight at the Polo Grounds in an attempt to regain the lightweight boxing title, tipped the scales at 133½ pounds, when he weighed in for the 15-round engagement today.

Canzoneri, his flashing smile denoting confidence in the outcome of the battle, which is expected to draw a crowd of 40,000, stepped on the scales before Ross appeared for the weighing in ceremonies at the State Athletic Commission's office.

The little Italian's weight was only a quarter of a pound more than when he lost his lightweight title to Ross in Chicago less than three months ago.

Ross appeared a few minutes later and balanced the weights at 135 pounds, the limit for the class. Dr. Joseph M. Sheridan, commission physician, examined the two warriors and pronounced both in perfect physical condition.

MackExtols Johnny Marcum, Rookie Shutout Pitcher

Philadelphia, Sept. 12 (AP)—Take it from Connie Mack, his newest and most sensational pitcher, Johnnie Marcum of Eminence, Ky., is sure of his job next season.

Asked to name some hurler whose record in the big leagues could compare with the 18 innings of shutout ball that Marcum pitched in his first two games for the A's, the team's veteran pilot pondered a moment.

"To be perfectly frank, I don't recall any pitcher starting like that," he said. "I don't believe anyone ever hung two shutouts in a row as a starter. He looks good, doesn't he?

"But don't think he won't be a hit. He has some bumps coming. Just say this for me about Marcum—he's here to stay."

GILDEA ROLLS IRISH ATTACK AGAINST FOES

By BILL CONNELL

An answer to a coach's prayer for backfield power can be found at Everett among the more than 100 youngsters marshalled each afternoon by head coach Dennis Gildea of the football squad.

There are two sets of ace backs, [illegible] make up three complete quarters of excellent backfield workers.

Two fine ends has Everett, and a pair of top flight tackles. Only the center and guard posts appear open just now. From the flock of contenders for the middle three jobs in the line Gildea and aide Eddie Melanson will mould a snappy [illegible]

NOTRE DAME ATTACK

This year should give Gildea a real chance to show what schoolboys can do with a full fledged Notre Dame attack, with its call men and split second timing perfor the intricate flexing of lineformance.

"Four years ago we used the Jesse Hawley plan," said Gildea this morning, "and the next year as well. The Hawley type of attack prepared the boys for the Notre Dame system, which I installed intact two years ago, and which this season gets its big test.

"For such football finesse only a few seasons' preparation can bring boys up to the peak demanded. This season the boys are ready. Time will tell the story. We have hopes for a good year."

Gildea himself [illegible] a high ranking student of [illegible] systems of football, particularly the Notre Dame plan and Melanson was a standout for several seasons under Harry Stuhldreher in the Villanova backfield, so knows all the inside points on the South Bend brand of grid stuff.

And now to the boys who [illegible] carry the mail. Joe Schur [illegible] quarterback, an all round star pass snatching marvel. Joe [illegible] very fast, too; Charles Dupont and John Rosetti fullback make [illegible] one fine combine.

Last year a halfback [illegible] Johnson is cast in a pivot role. With Nick Bellafato [illegible] a fullback and Sam Gentile for halfback. And [illegible] Art [illegible] ex halfback and end, a fullback. Gentile can [illegible] for that quartet. He [illegible] up from the high school weighs 170 and can [illegible] 15 yards.

GENTILE HURT

Herb Lundberg, quarterback and [illegible] right on a par with the other. Put them all together they spell MURDER for opponents. [illegible] all fit except [illegible] Gentile, who [illegible] plan [illegible] week or so.

Now for the [illegible] former California [illegible] year to star [illegible] back. With Bill Fiore [illegible] fa [illegible] and [illegible] for the other end.

[illegible] to [illegible] spot. Bill Furness [illegible] nomination cinched [illegible] weighed over 190 a year [illegible] he is not tall was hindered more than a trifle. This [illegible] boiled off [illegible] will be a head [illegible]

All the above boys are [illegible] or have had plenty of [illegible] Here are the boys who will [illegible] for the middle post. Charles [illegible] or Ralph Freeman for center, both 158 pounders.

If you like watch charm guards, there's 145 pound John Yahoodik, a trackman. John Mellen is one of the more prominent of the heftier guard job bidders. With a dozen others to keep the competition close.

From these Gildea plans to use the shock troop plan of [illegible] in a fresh team when the eleven tires. A grand grid idea and fortunate Denny has the material to go ahead thus.

32 REPORT TO TERRIER COACH

By WALTER KILEY

"Organization is the only high road to success." This is the firm conviction of Dr. John M Harmon, director of athletics and head coach of football at Boston University. [illegible] to organization that the incoming coach attributes the fine response for the opening gridiron practice of the year. Some 32 candidates reported, a small figure in terms of [illegible] the better [illegible] with a football [illegible] turnout in the recent history of Terrier sport.

The backfield presents the most [illegible] problem. Only a few veterans are back, a quarterback being sadly needed.

Johnny Paterno, Dave Nemzoff and Johnny Alman will help greatly but they are all of the big, burly fullback type which means that Harmon must find a few good shifty and fast ball carriers.

Joe McKenney holds his initial Boston College scrimmage of the season this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The plan is to weed out the best material from last year's freshman and second team members.

MR. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

The noble wrestlers have a habit of retaining public interest and attracting the cash customers even in a period when many of our so-called best citizens have been obliged to give up the old 16-cylinder chariot and learn how to walk all over again.

Mr. Boston

First it was longer and better cards, then two main bouts, later drastic price reductions. Now Leo Numa, former University of [illegible] two opponents [illegible] finish matches on the same night. There were [illegible] in the [illegible] distant past when Martin was quite happy if he could get $50 for a match. That [illegible] furnished the "Bull" with all the raw meat he required [illegible]

"Bull Became a Card

Almost over night the "Bull" became a wrestling sensation with the Arena crowds. Maybe the boys and girls who paid 40 cents to see wrestling didn't like it too refined. Most of them did not know much about wrestling, and the antics of th [illegible]

McPherson was quick to recognize the "Bull" as a box office attraction. [illegible] $200 a match. Later the "Bull" was [illegible] per cent of the gate.

When Martin demanded [illegible] per cent of the receipts, McPherson rebelled. He declared he had a better card than Martin in the person of Bob Russell of Newport. The cash customers thought otherwise and it was [illegible] to put Martin back on top. Also to give him his [illegible] per cent.

As Martin [illegible] $500 to $1,000 per [illegible] McPherson decided he had discovered a real fine [illegible] no longer regretted he had to give Martin a liberal share of the spoils. McPherson now tells me the "Bull" has played before 160,000 at the Arena. He has put McPherson over as a promoter. I do not believe Steve will admit this statement to be true, but it is nevertheless.

Most promoters are a bit vain. [illegible] of them ever think they [illegible] customers. Even [illegible] who are [illegible] who either make or break a club.

Public Likes to Laugh

There are probably a dozen first [illegible] wrestlers who could wrap Martin up and send him to the cleaners. The Arena fans are not interested in whether they can or not. In fact when Martin was [illegible] he still [illegible] of the mob [illegible] the fans [illegible] and the [illegible] than [illegible]

[illegible] Leo [illegible] beat Martin [illegible] and I think he will the "Bull" will still be the lord who will jam the Arena. It isn't every wrestler who can make such a [illegible] as the "Bull" [illegible]

There [illegible] he was Martin [illegible] He [illegible] at the box office [illegible]

42 Events Carded in Milton Horse Show

A total of 42 events are scheduled and the show ring has been increased to 300 feet by 150 feet for the second annual Milton charity horse show, to be held at Cunningham park, East Milton, Saturday, Sept. 30. It promises to attract a much larger gathering than was the case last year.

Joe Mowry Is Just Bad Enough!

By JOE CASHMAN

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 12—Either [illegible] found himself [illegible] the presence of friends and neighbors in the stands [illegible] Mowry, one of St. Louis' many gifts to the major [illegible] packing ball for the Braves in the recent series with the Cardinals.

For the first time since the Tribal management took the elastic off 45,000 greenbacks to bring the young man up from Minneapolis late last June, Joseph loked like a big leaguer.

Few expensive rookies have appeared as helpless breaking in as Mowry did until this trip started. [illegible] best sticker [illegible] second [illegible] him [illegible]

BILL SAYS O. K.

[illegible] sound, the worse Joe went, the more faith Bill McKechnie had in him. The pilot admitted and explained this strange confidence during an off day fanning bee in smoky town today.

"If Mowry had been a shade better," Bill explained, "I probably would have held no hope for him. He was so bad, I had to string along with him. I felt certain that no class AA player could naturally be that terrible.

"There's still plenty of room for improvement in Joe's work, but he can hold his own out there now and I look for him to be a real asset to the club next season."

McKechnie feels pretty much the same about Tommy Thompson. The former Albany [illegible] performer [illegible] thrower and a [illegible] paths, but he [illegible] safeties since [illegible]

"He's [illegible] as well, but anybody who hits 300 in the International League is going to make far more than two safeties a week. [illegible] After he hits his stride Tommy should stick close to 300."

RED SOX DUE FOR COMPLETE OVERHAUL

But Yawkey, too, has plenty of the root of all evil, and a youthful desire to make a splash with it. He'll bid against Ruppert dollar for dollar in order to obtain a prospect who may turn out to be only a lemon but pennant winning teams have been built only on such desperate gambles with hard won coin of the realm.

The [illegible] to be held [illegible] the marathon received their official [illegible] Brundage, president of the National Amateur Athletic Union of America.

Mr. Brundage [illegible] pleased at the Herald and Examiner's program of swimming events. In commenting he said:

"I am delighted with your plans for swimming here on Oct. 1. The marathon should be a colorful spectacle and of interest not only to Chicagoans but also the many thousands of visitors to our fair.

"The amateur events that we have drawn up for you have been scheduled with the sole purpose of developing new stars in swimming in this country. I am sure that the far-reaching powers of Mr. Hearst's different organizations throughout the country can do more for the promotion of this sport than any other medium I know of."

Pres. Charles H. Cross, of the Massachusetts Golf Association, sent a telegram wishing the Bostonians the best of luck and hoping that the quarter finalists would be all from New England.

Mrs. James H. Dolan, Jr., followed her husband for the entire route and stated that although Jimmie took a 77 she had never seen him play better golf.

Eddie Daily, Newton, who is one of the spectators, predicted that George Dunlap would be right up among the leaders, and as usual he was right, for Dunlap carded a 71. According to Daily, Dunlap will be the one to beat for the title.

SALES CONTEST IDEA TIP FOR EXECUTIVES

"Sell Now" Plan Suggested by a Firm to Aid Recovery Move

By B. C. FORBES

President J. F. Rogers of Addressograph-Multigraph has hit upon a timely, helpful idea which, if widely adopted, might prove valuable [illegible]. He announces an NRA sales contest [illegible] every member of the company [illegible] sales force who attains his quota [illegible] September [illegible] October. The greater the sales the greater the extra cash compensation.

B. C. Forbes

It is generally accepted that the real test of President Roosevelt's recovery program will come during the next few months. If business can be sufficiently quickened the majority of employers will be able to meet the increased burdens imposed on them by NRA.

On the other hand, if business should not increase many concerns would find themselves in an awkward financial condition.

The "buy now" campaign is being most vigorously waged.

Why should not business concerns supplement this [illegible] campaign, offer [illegible] reward to each and every salesman (and saleswoman) who succeeds in making better than a normal record?

There are the soundest of reasons why we should make purchases now including purchases for future needs—it is a foregone conclusion that prices will advance practically all along the line under NRA and under the system of bounties ("processing taxes") paid farmers for their principal products.

Sales forces should not, of course, need any extraordinary stimulus to exert themselves to the utmost but, human nature being what it is, extra inducements will unquestionably result in extra sales.

Which is the most important code of all?

It is not the oil or steel or coal or automobile or retail code.

It is the code you and I adopt for our own personal guidance. Every other code, all the other codes, depend for their success not on employers, not on labor's response, but on you and me, consumers.

Let no man or woman in this country attempt to excuse himself or herself for not joining the recovery movement by saying "All that I could spend wouldn't matter."

Each dollar, each dime put into active circulation will help.

Therefore, do not shirk on the plea that all you could spend wouldn't help.

Not even in the crisis of war was there ever a time when the exercise of patriotism was more urgently demanded.

State St. Traders Bullish as Rise Follows Dullness

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

Smart State St. traders lost little time in jumping on the bull band wagon once prices showed ability to come out of the deadly dullness of last week on the upside. This does not imply that [illegible] now [illegible] for stocks indiscriminately. Quite the contrary. [illegible] obtained a position [illegible] each of recent lows and [illegible] out when selling [illegible] covers shows concluded [illegible] market is able to [illegible].

Some hard boiled [illegible] place between the 103-105 [illegible] 95 areas on the industrial [illegible] averages and a penetration of [illegible] levels would undoubtedly call some sort of a correction. [illegible] a setback activity [illegible] up and the right people appear the buyers positions may be confidentially enlarged. So let it [illegible] be shown store haste make [illegible] in the stock market as well [illegible] other matters.

BULL POINTER SUPPLIED

As matters now stand our barometer supplied a bull pointer within a fraction of reaction lows. Those who followed it as published here are said to have been buyers during the second hour on Monday. As a result they have nice lines of motor, gold store and amusement shares which we reported last week would be favored in reliable brokerage circles.

In order for the barometer to supply a retraction of the bull pointer, it would be necessary for the hourly averages to break down under 100 and 50 respectively. This is a happening many do not look for. The figures are pointed [illegible] [illegible]. They are good insurance against the [illegible] pected news break.

Notes: Celluloid analyzed here Saturday made good [illegible]. Five points a day will keep the margin clerk away . . . Technical position of Allis-Chalmers is said to be strong . . . United Aircraft through 40 is liable to attract quite a following . . . Libby Owens Ford is reported to be doing a good motor business.

These bear arguments on the utilities leave us cold when they are hooked up with inflation argument. If any group will suffer it is the rail section. Strong labor organizations will not stand for a loss of purchasing power for very long. And of the two brackets rails employ more people by far.

The next [illegible] up to add to our bull memo pad [illegible] the rail equipments by competent analysts. One of the sure ways to aid the heavy industries in particular [illegible] to start the carriers buying. Improved rolling stock and better traction are seen as absolute necessities by many rail men.

The rail equipments were covered [illegible] in July and subsequently sold out when the market looked top heavy. The issues we found favored then are apparently the same. American Steel Foundries, Baldwin and Lima Locomotive are the well regarded issues. With Baldwin considered the percentage play.

Bell Station Loan Is Showing a Drop

Wheat Stages Rally in Chicago Market

Chicago, Sept. 12—An advance of more than a cent from the early bottom level for wheat followed enlarged purchases on setbacks. Renewed buying both of wheat and corn was associated with a statement from a leading crop authority that the government report on corn gave official recognition to much greater damage to corn during August than the bare figures would suggest.

Rallies here, however, failed to hold well, and all grains reacted at times to below yesterday's finish with oats following corn despite assertions that need of corn to substitute for other cereals in which crop shortages exist suggested the buying side. Notable strength shown in the provisions market was attributed to likelihood of export business with Germany and Russia.

Pope Says Securities Act Halts Financing

New York, Sept. 12 (AP)—Analyzing the effects of the securities act upon long term financing, Col. Allan M. Pope, Boston investment banker, said today that no securities were being publicly offered by industrial concerns through underwriters and no necessary refunding of maturing obligations could be accomplished.

"If this keeps up," he told the Financial Advertisers Association convention, "great numbers of defaults and bankruptcies are bound to occur."

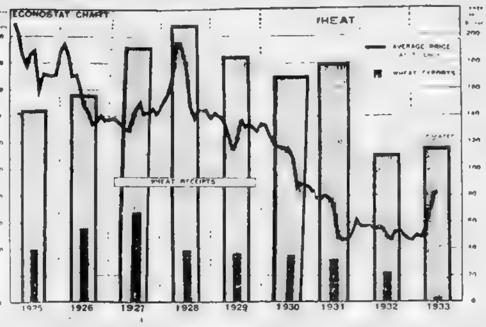
Pope, who is president of First of Boston Corporation, investment banking house, addressing the opening session of the convention said no new long term money for capital requirements is being obtained by industries today except for generally "speculative purposes."

Because of circumstances beyond his control the investment banking underwriter is completely out of business, Pope said, except for underwriting specifically exempted securities such as municipal and government obligations. It is not practicable for investment houses to underwrite some of these because of the securities act, he added.

"When you disrupt the normal functions by which money is borrowed, the public is the one who suffers in the end. The national recovery administration is trying to stimulate short term lending. Long term loans are just as essential. Today they are impossible for borrowers of conservative businesses, the type with which the investment banker alone deals. Such a condition cannot long continue safely."

H. A. Lyon of New York, in his presidential address, urged a long term program of education to enlist the support of the public for a banking system that will weather every strain.

Wheat Demand Is Measured



By JOSEPH STAGG LAWRENCE
Editor, The Econostat

The accompanying chart is a [illegible] demand for wheat. One [illegible] presents the movement of [illegible] to domestic markets and [illegible] its movement to exporters. It may be noted that [illegible] shows a substantial decline [illegible] the wheat intended for export. [illegible] every student of [illegible] program of the [illegible] agrees that the problem of disposing surplus agricultural products is one of the most serious and perplexing which confronts the Administration.

One reason for the active participation of America in the recent and abortive London Economic Conference was the desire to work out some formula which might result in the sale of a larger quantity of American wheat. With the termination of the conference a special session was arranged for wheat producing and wheat consuming nations. Here again the object was to discover some formula which would permit the great producing countries, the United States, Canada, Argentina and Australia to dispose of their surplus crops.

The difficulty of America is aggravated by the fact that our farm relief program necessitates a domestic price for wheat far above that which prevails in the outside world. Consequently no wheat can be exported without a substantial loss. Inasmuch as the government has assumed [illegible] responsibility for the welfare of the wheat farmer it is quite [illegible] who will have to pay the bill.

The responsibility of Uncle Sam has led his deputy in [illegible] Secretary Wallace to say that a failure to evolve an acceptable wheat program would result in [illegible] subsidized exportation of surplus American wheat stocks. This [illegible] aroused apprehension among other producing nations and raised the question of dumping.

Congress in its last tariff bill stated that an article was dumped if it sold abroad at a price less than the domestic price or below its value. Under this definition the threatened policy of Secretary Wallace would clearly be classed as dumping.

In view of the importance of wheat exports in maintaining a wholesome price condition in the American market the agreement concluded by 22 nations regarding world wheat production and price control on Aug. 25 is of great [illegible]. A gold price of 63.08 cents per bushel (about 92 cents in terms of the present American dollar) has been established for wheat.

The exporting countries have limited themselves to 560,000,000 bushels as an export maximum and plan a 15 per cent reduction from a standard year's production during 1934-1935. It remains to be seen how effective this agreement will be.

AUTO SALES AT 3-YEAR HIGH

Sales of new cars in August equaled or slightly exceeded July and were almost double sales in August last year, says R. L. Polk & Co.

August sales in urban centers were showing a slight recession which, however, appeared three to four months later than usual. Sales in rural districts were on the increase more than offsetting the decline in urban sales.

August sales total was expected to approximate 185,000 to 190,000 against 185,660 in July. Sales in August last year were 93,457. It was apparent the month's volume would be the greatest in three years, as sales in August, 1931 were only 155,744.

The estimate was reached by comparison of registrations in 107 leading cities in various sections and by tabulating registration reports from eight states.

Department Store Sales Have Gains

Confirming a distinctly more than seasonal increase in department store sales in nearly all sections of the country, the Federal Reserve Board reports for August an increase of 16 per cent by 456 stores in all 12 districts. This is the most conclusive evidence yet to hand of real increase in public purchasing power. The 16 per cent gain of August compared with a 10 per cent decline for the first eight months of the year.

Of the various districts Cleveland made the best showing with a gain of 42 per cent. Dallas was up 29 per cent, and Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Richmond and Atlanta districts were all up over 20 per cent. Boston was up 16 per cent.

Cut for Passenger Fares Is Favored

A committee of western railroad presidents has prepared report proposing a reduction in passenger fares which will be studied Thursday by the presidents' traffic conference for central territory. Committee has deferred issuing report until southern and eastern managements have had time to consider it. At one time a reduction was proposed in the west from present standard rate of 3.6 cents a mile to 2 cents for coaches and 3 cents for Pullmans. Believed possible that pending report will recommend compromise rate of around 3 cents for both classes of travel.

Kidder Investment Meetings Sept. 27

Adjourned meetings of stockholders of Kidder Peabody Acceptance Corporation, Kidder Participations, Inc., Kidder Participations, Inc., No. 2 and Kidder Participations, Inc., No. 3 to vote on consolidation of the four units have again been adjourned to Sept. 27. While a majority of the stockholders have indicated their approval, it is desired that stockholders be given further opportunity to study the consolidation plan.

Timken to Reopen Plant Long Closed

Columbus, O., Sept. 12—The Columbus plant of Timken Roller Bearing Co. will resume the latter part of this week for the first time since October, 1931, with 300 recalled.

Live News of Active Leaders in Wall St.

LACKING other explanation the speculative markets have been advancing obviously because of expanding expectation that some form of inflation is inevitable in this country. In fact the prospect of French abandonment of the gold standard would confirm the possibility of world-wide inflation of some degree since the two leading capitalist nations, Great Britain and the United States, already have suspended the gold standard.

American Telephone Shorts Get a Jolt

There are still some shorts in American Telephone and it won't be pleasant reading to them to note that the Bell System may show station installations ahead of cancellations for September after months of losses. It is [illegible] as business improves the company will again lost telephones with considerable rapidity and before the end of the year a large part of the losses established earlier this year will be made up.

Radio Industry's Outlook Is Good

Buying in radio shares is led on the fact that leaders generally agree that the outlook for the industry is good. Head of one of the leading companies says:

Heavy Industries in Need of Help

Sentiment appears to be veering toward the producer of capital goods who has been largely neglected recently. The consumer appears to be well taken care of under the provisions of NRA. Moreover recent figures on sales chain and retail stores have been among the brighter spots in the business news. The way sales have soared above a year ago certainly indicates no inability on the part of the public to buy merchandise.

Many feel that what is needed now is stimulation for the producer of heavy goods. Some sources close to the administration apparently share this view and are reported to be actively working to further this object.

Cash Register's New Line Is Out

With retail trade improving National Cash Register Co. has introduced its new line of machines at a fortunate time. The new machines have been under development for a year and one half and the date for introduction was set long before business turned upward, the early fall being the logical time under any circumstances.

The new line of cash registers, according to the company's announcements, incorporate many new features adopted to such uses.

Pointer on Can Heard in Street

Street pointers [illegible] that American Can is slated for high prices. The company has been enjoying good new business as a result of its new line of manufacture for the oil companies.

Dry Goods Bought on Trade Betterment

There has been some buying of Associated Dry Goods from out-of-town sources based on the important improvement noted in retail dry goods business. This company is said to be doing about 40 per cent higher volume of business so far this month than for the same period a year ago.

Consumers' Buying is Catching Production

New York, Sept. 12 (INS)—The business indices measuring chiefly industrial production show a loss of about 10 per cent of the [illegible] and the counter seasonal summer recovery.

The spring-summer recovery brought a better than 60 per cent rise in industrial activity. To date all but two-fifths of that advance has been retained, leaving trade activity still better than [illegible] per cent above the banking [illegible] low point.

These business indices now [illegible] ing a recession do not [illegible] thing consumer buying [illegible] reported from the various [illegible] trade centers to be expanding rapidly.

So what is actually being witnessed is a natural setback in industrial production which was speeded up abnormally in the spring and summer to "beat inflation and the NRA codes." This step up in industry production got way ahead of consumer buying and was threatening to bring about a very unhealthy and dangerous situation.

Now that this production is slowing down, while consumer buying is catching up with the parade this is a healthy state of affairs and augurs well for the fall season. A continuance of the spring trend—production running way ahead of consumer buying could have only one ultimate result—another collapse.

The important thing now to watch is consumer buying. If that comes along satisfactorily, industrial production will take care of itself. For that reason the so-called indices to general business are not so important.

The things to watch are: Bank clearings. They are a guide to the daily spending by the public. The freight car loadings which show the movement of the goods from the raw material producer to the factory and on to the consumer.

The reports of sales by the chain stores and the Federal Reserve reports on department store sales.

They tell the story of public buying, and their reports for August and so far this month are good. They show the public is buying—a condition that has been lacking all through this depression.

This buying though, is about to face a test—higher prices. There are likely to be sharp advances before this month is out. This may bring a lull and then the test will be whether the consuming public resumes its purchasing on a needed large scale.

COMMODITIES' RISE IS HELP TO SHARES

Raw Staples Aided by Further Talk of Inflation

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor, Boston American

The market's rise came "after Labor Day," as predicted, but longer after Labor Day than the rank and file in State Street expected. The able Mr. Baruch remarked that one can't lift one's self by the boot straps, quoting an old saying from back in the days when there were bootstraps. But it was a sort of bootstrap performance when the rise in raw staples—notably grains and cotton—helped boost shares while staples in turn were helped along by inflation talk from Washington, the 1933 source of trading inspiration.

It was Secretary of Agriculture Wallace who made the inflation talk which attracted most attention when he pointed to the possibility of currency inflation through a reduction of the gold content of the dollar within the next three months. Some see the path as blazed for this sort of inflation by the action of the U. S. Treasury in daily fixing the price of gold about $10 an ounce above the U. S. statutory price.

Prof. I. Fisher

The National Fertilizer Assn. index of commodity prices confirms the upswing noted in this column earlier shown in the U. S. Department of Labor figures. If it continues we have come to the end of a long period of downward drifting in these indices. Furthermore the index of wholesale prices compiled by Prof. Irving Fisher at Yale has advanced to another new high figure on the recovery. The Fisher index shows that wholesale commodity prices lifted a fractional point in the week ended September 8, reaching 70.9, as compared with 70.8 in the preceding week and an average of 62.7 in September, 1932. The low was reached on March 3 at 55.0 while in 1913 the index averaged 69.8.

Recovery is also going on abroad as shown by the fact that the British index of wholesale commodity prices also advanced, rising to 64.5 from 64.3. This compares with low of 58.7 and with average of 64.2 in September, 1932. This will cheer those who hold that recovery to be effective must go farther than the American frontiers.

Note that the railroads, including New Haven, did not long ignore marketwise the very favorable report of car loadings for week ended September 2, released at 11:30 Saturday. The total of 666,652 cars was up 34,654 cars from preceding week and represented the largest weekly volume handled since November 1931. During the first 35 weeks of 1933, railroad freight traffic has exceeded that of same portion of 1932 by 1.1 per cent. The decrease of about 130,000 tons in August backlog of U. S. Steel Corp., reported Saturday, was encouraging in that it was smaller than had been generally estimated.

* * *

It may seem early to talk about Christmas, but plans have to be made for it far ahead by the big stores. In reporting a number of personnel changes, President Cunningham of Butler Bros., said sales thus far in September are still substantially ahead of 1932, although gains are not so large as in July and August. Early sales of toys and holiday goods are far in excess of last year, indicating retailers for the first time since 1928 anticipate good Christmas trade.

Dividends

Marlin-Rockwell Corp. declared a special distribution of 25 cents from surplus, payable October 2 to stock of record September 21. Dividend is the same as paid in previous quarters.

Mapes Consolidated Manufacturing Co. declared an extra of 25 cents and regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the common both payable October 2 to stock of record September 15. A similar extra was paid three months ago.

American Brake Shoe & Foundry Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of 15 cents on the common, payable Sept. 30 to stock of record Sept. 22.

First National Bank of New York declared regular quarterly dividend of $25, payable October 2 to stock of record September 25.

International Hydro-Electric System declared regular quarterly dividend of $87\frac{1}{2}$ cents on the $3.50 series convertible preferred stock, payable October 15 to stock of record September 25.

SPECTATOR [illegible]

Important Thing Is the Strength in Commodities

By WALL STREET SPECTATOR

The market cut a few capers with an agility that amazed even its best friends. The surprise turnabout caught most napping, and traders are floundering around trying to find the reason.

The important thing was strength in commodities which shook off their recent weakness. Along with this came rumblings of some important developments in Washington. The next reaction will show whether the rise is real or another flash in the pan.

MOTORS PROVE ATTRACTIVE

Motor stocks have proved attractive, and Spectator believes strength in the motors is attracting interest to the accessory stocks. An interesting situation is reported in Electric Autolite. In addition to being in line for a contract from Chrysler the company, it is said, may get back the Ford business it lost in the past two years as the Detroiter is said to have found that making his own [illegible] was costlier than he anticipated.

General Electric is said to have received a $2,000,000 turbine order. The company's Schenectady plant is reported to have enough work to keep it going for months.

Bulls on Chrysler are predicting that net for the current quarter will run $2 a share. General Motors is expected to show around $1 for the quarter. Steel interests expect some big rail buying orders before long.

Greyhound Capital Program Approved

Chicago, Sept. 12—Stockholders of Greyhound Corp. approved plan of capital reorganization whereby holders of each share of participating preference receive five shares new common, and holders of 20 shares old common will get one share of new common.

Consummation results in capitalization consisting of 22,050 shares of series 1 preferred A $7 cumulative dividend stock and 455,955 shares of common. There is an accumulation of $192,937 as of July 1 in unpaid dividends on this preferred. The new set-up removes from capitalization 81,997 shares of $6 cumulative participating preference stock and 820,000 shares of old common.

Boston Exchange Will Remain Open

The Boston Stock Exchange will remain open as usual until 3 p. m. Wednesday, although the New York Stock Exchange in observance of the NRA celebration will close at 12 noon.

Boston banks will also observe the usual schedule of hours Wednesday.

Cotton Higher in New York Trading

New York, Sept. 12—The cotton market maintained its newly established uptrend today, with the general list ruling moderately higher at midday although under its best levels of the forenoon. Late prices showed gains of from 5 to 7 points with October up 7 at 8.95, December up 5 at 9.14 and March up 6 at 9.39.

Kerosene Is Advanced

Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey has advanced kerosene price [illegible] cent a gallon in tank cars.

MARKET TREND DOWNWARD FOR SEVEN WEEKS

Retail Trade, Car Loadings Exceptions to Reactionary Move

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics,
New York University.

New York, Sept. 12—Most business indexes declined again last week so that the trend has now been reactionary for seven or eight weeks in succession.

The chief exceptions were car loadings and possibly retail trade. The gain in car loadings was seasonal and partly due to increased coal production. The figure was 14.6 per cent above a year ago, at which time the loadings were practically at the lowest level of the depression.

Department store sales in August are now known to have averaged about 16 per cent over last year and to have been 75 per cent of the 1923-1925 level. It is true that the sales were very low in August 1932 and that much of the gain since then may be due to higher prices so that the volume of goods sold has not increased much. Retail trade and consumer buying still lag in comparison with the summer spurt in production but the movement has been more than seasonal, and is in the right direction.

Steel production was down in August considering the season and has continued to slump in September. The reason is indicated by the large decline in unfilled orders, which is contrary to the usual seasonal trend. Unfilled orders are below a year ago.

This reflects the backwardness in the so-called heavy industries and capital goods. Even automobile production after a long period of expansion is now yielding to the usual seasonal forces. While building activity gained a little in August it is still extremely depressed.

The steel industry is not likely to show sustained recovery until monetary uncertainties are removed so that business men can make long-term plans and investment policies can be adopted with more certainty. And these conditions are not yet in sight.

Wholesale trade in general is barely fair and unless the buying drives are effective this fact suggests some slowing up in retail trade.

August brought a more than seasonal increase in factory employment. In New York State it gained more than six per cent. It is interesting to note that payrolls increased by only about the same percentage. You see that despite various raises in wages rates, the shorter hours worked under NRA conditions keep the total wage payments down.

Co-operation With Press is Favored

Before the annual convention of the Financial Advertisers Association, Louis W. Munro, New England manager of Doremus & Co., speaking on "Open-Handed Dealings with the Press," emphasized the co-operation which the press generally is ready to extend during grave crises.

He stressed the importance of taking the press entirely in one's confidence during such periods, giving them complete and authentic information with which to work and a reliance upon their judgment in the proper handling of news once the newspaper representatives are in possession of such information as they should properly have. Mr. Munro related in detail the handling of the banking crisis in Boston last March.

Steel Orders Gaining In Youngstown Area

Youngstown, Sept. 12—Since last Tuesday steel orders have been showing a slight but steady increase, suggesting heavier mill schedules soon.

Forty of 83 open-hearth furnaces in the district are melting this week, while finished output will be sharply higher. Both valley pipe producers are lifting output and sheet production will advance. A blast furnace down last week will resume melting. District operations a year ago were at 15 per cent and two years ago at 41 per cent.

Republic Steel Corp.'s operations here this week will be unchanged at 45 per cent but finished output will be higher and one or more open-hearth furnaces will be operating in the Mahoning Valley for this company. Ten of 23 open-hearth furnaces will be melting for Republic in the Youngstown district against nine last week, while three blast furnaces will continue operating.

The company's tinplate plant at Warren will remain at capacity while 10 sheet mills at Niles and Warren will operate. The company is finding a slight pickup in demand and expects further improvement through September. Republic's district operations a year ago were at 18 per cent and two years ago at 47 per cent.

Carnegie Steel Co. operations in Youngstown district this week will be unchanged at near 70 per cent with 21 of 30 open-hearths in the company's district plants operating. Twelve of 15 open-hearths at the Ohio Works will be operating, that plant remaining the most active in the entire district. Three of six blast furnaces are melting for Carnegie in the Mahoning Valley where output for bars and other light products continues fairly strong.

Demands for tin plate bar continue to bolster Carnegie's schedule in the Shennago Valley where nine of 15 open-hearths are melting with two blast furnaces. Blooming and bar mills there will operate unchanged through this week. Carnegie Stele operations of 70 per cent compare with 55 per cent in the like wek of 1931 and 38 precent two years ago.

MODERATE RISE IS REGISTERED BY LEADERS

New York, Sept. 12—Leading shares registered moderate advances in New York Stock Exchange trading today, with prices in the final hour mostly somewhat under the best of the day. U. S. Steel showed a net loss of a major fraction.

The market as a whole presented a firm tone in the face of heavy profit taking induced by yesterday's sharp advance.

Oil shares were outstanding favorites in today's market, with many issues including Standard Oil of N. J. and Texas Corp. going to new highs for the year.

General Motors and Radio were features, being bought in large volume with the former getting up to a new high for the year. Chrysler came in for heavy profit taking following yesterday's 4-point advance and sold down fractionally on the day.

The commodity markets also aided the list's recovery movement. Wheat, after opening slightly lower, rallied sharply converting the losses into gains of about 1 cent a bushel. The cotton market was consistently strong throughout the session, gaining about 50 cents a bale on top of yesterday's advance of $1 a bale.

Another factor in the market's strength was the acute weakness in the dollar which dropped to 70.8 cents gold from 72 cents yesterday.

In the first hour price changes ruled mixed. Trading started brisk, but slowed up on profit-taking centered in the repeal shares, which appeared following news of the Maine repeal victory. Point or better gains appeared for Cudahy, General Foods, General Motors, International Business Machines, Sterling Products and others.

Declines of a point or more were seen in Johns-Manville, U. S. Smelting, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Corn Products, J. I. Case and Laska Juneau. Homestake Mining was off over 4 points.

Alcohols took on a firmer aspect during the second hour and earlier recessions were generally erased. Changes elsewhere in the list were negligible. Trading continued quiet.

The bond division broke out of its recent narrow trading range as buyers displayed renewed interest in the domestic corporate list. Good fractional gains were registered by many loans. Volume picked up on the advance.

Sales to noon approximated 1,190,000 shares.

In the third hour a firm tone prevailed despite continued profit-taking. General Motors and Radio were features, being bought in good volume. G. M. got up to a new high for the year. Chrysler's 4-point rise yesterday brought in taking of profits. Toward the end of the hour the oil shares were heavily traded, and some point or better gains resulted.

Standard Oil of New Jersey and Texas Corp. both went into new high ground for the year. A factor in the market was acute weakness in the dollar, which dropped to 70.8 cts. gold against 72 cts. yesterday.

Oil shares continued as the feature of the market in the fourth hour with the leaders moving into new high ground for the year on gains ranging from fractions to almost 2 points.

The market firmed generally at the start of this period but later the general list slipped back to around early morning lows. Trading in the oils was heavy and brought the total volume for the session up considerably.

Houston Oil recorded the best gain with an advance of almost 2 points. Texas Co. and Standard Oil of California showed gains of a point over last night's close. Atlantic Refining and Standard Oil of New Jersey were major fractions above last closing prices.

Sales to 2 p. m. approximated 1,900,000 shares.

Soaring Prices for Champagne Grapes

The price of champagne grapes is soaring in the Lake Keuka country as wineries seek to outbid each other in anticipation of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. Most of the wineries are planning to press as much as they can store.

Prices have leaped as high as $150 a ton for Delaware grapes in some instances, which is about twice the amount received by vineyardists since the advent of prohibition. The crop is ripening abnormally early this year.

St. Paul's Freight Loadings Increase

Freight carloadings on St. Paul's own lines during the week ended Sept. 9 were 3.6 per cent above the like 1932 period, against an increase of 9.3 per cent in the preceding week, when there was one more loading day.

Machinery Trades Seen Slowing Down

Although September business in the machinery trades began well in some localities, American Machinist says that in general there is a recession from August and July levels.

"The opinion is unanimous," says the review, "that the cause of the slowing down is the uncertainty connected with NRA codes."

Buying by McElwain Lifts Employment

Purchase by the J. F. McElwain Co, shoe manufacturers of Manchester and Nashua, N. H., of one of the factories of the F. M. Hoyt Shoe Co., will necessitate re-equipping of the plant and when ready it will provide employment for several hundred additional hands. Reduction of hours under the shoe code made necessary the acquisition of additional space to take care of production of the McElwain company, which has run consistently large.

Packaged Candies Sales Are Larger

A substantial seasonal rise in sales of packaged chocolates and other candies has developed, with gains of 5 to 10 per cent over a year ago noted in some instances. Higher retail confectionery prices are expected as result of rise of 18 to 30 per cent in raw materials and the increased costs of NRA operation.

United Cigar Company to Pay

New York, Sept. 12—A 20 per cent dividend to creditors of the United Cigar Stores Co, which was judged bankrupt on Aug. 29, 1932, was ordered Monday by Referee Irwin Kurtz. Attorneys representing the Irving Trust Co, trustee for the cigar company, estimated that payment of the dividend, which would amount to about $2,000,000, would still leave the company with sufficient operating cash.

Atlas Tack to Pay Bonus

New York, Sept. 12 (AP)—The executive personnel of Atlas Tack Co. is to receive a stock bonus in recognition of progress made by the company in the past year. Directors have authorized distribution of 1000 shares of Atlas stock, purchased in the open market, in amounts to be determined by the president. Six new directors have been added to the board.

To Ship Gold to London

First shipment of newly mined American gold since the United States government's new gold regulations went into effect last week is expected to be shipped to London on the first fast steamer, which is the Berengaria, sailing Wednesday. This will represent the excess of the newly mined gold not taken for domestic consumption by the arts and crafts.

Fox-Poli Auction Sale Is Planned

Hartford, Sept. 12 The auctioneer's hammer hovers over the Fox-Poli theatrical interests in New England, sold to Fox Theatre Corp. in 1928 at reported price of $28,000,000. The holdings including 13 theaters in Connecticut and four in Massachusetts, besides personal property, have been in hands of receivers since last year. Sylvester Z. Poli was said to be prepared to take over the properties again by bidding up to the amount due him from the original negotiations.

Pere Marquette's Loadings Increase

Pere Marquette loaded 3709 cars the week ended Sept. 9, up 11.7 per cent from 3504 in corresponding week, 1932. In preceding week loadings totaled 4392, up 19.6 per cent from 1932.

Big Wheel Order Is Given to Budd

Budd Wheel Co. of Philadelphia has received an order from Chrysler Corp. for 200,000 wheels, to be used on the new 1934 model.

SHARE TREND IS MIXED IN BOSTON

Leading shares showed a mixed trend in late trading on the Boston Stock Exchange today. Utilities were inclined to sag while textile issues were generally firm. Rail shares stiffened after an irregular start.

American Woolen common was fractionally higher. Pacific Mills gained a point while Amoskeag sagged a point. Fractional recessions were recorded for such issues as American Telephone, New England Telephone, Boston Elevated and Edison Electric. General Electric firmed and recorded a slight gain.

New Haven and Pennsylvania were fractionally improved. Eastern Gas & Fuel preferred advanced a point. Torrington, selling dividend, was more than a point higher.

Eastern Steamship dropped about 2 points in its first appearance on the tape in weeks. U S Smelting was off more than a point and Warren Brothers was a minor fraction lower. Gillette, Nash Motors, United Fruit and United Shoe were slightly higher.

Kreuger Would Sell Its Beer in Cans

Plans for sale of beer in cans are now under consideration by Kreuger Brewing Co. Company is conducting experiments with the American Can Co. looking towards perfection of a suitable container and expects shortly to be in a position to determine to what extent it will go into merchandising beer in this manner.

Earnings of Kreuger for July were the largest since the legalization of beer and sales for August and up to the present date have been running most satisfactorily, according to Vice-President Bryce. Plans have been given out for erection of an ale stock house and the company anticipates the sale of ale after repeal.

$700,000 Cambridge Financing Awarded

Cambridge awarded to City Co. of Massachusetts at 100.26 for 3¼s, $700,000 municipal relief loan dated September 15 and payable $140,000 annually 1934 to 1938. Other bidders were: N. W. Harris & Co., 100 plus $140 premium for 3¼s; Brown Bros. Harriman & Co. 100.31 for 3½s; First of Boston Corporation, R. L. Day & Co., Estabrook & Co., and Whiting, Weeks & Knowles jointly 100.17 for 3½s and Blyth & Co. and Jackson & Curtis 100.16 for 3½s.

Business in Film Houses Is Larger

Since the middle of August the nation's movie theaters have been doing more business than at any period since the halcyon days of 1928-29. Martin Quigley, publisher of Motion Picture Herald and other trade papers, says expected gross income this year is $650,000,000, of which $100,000,000 will be spent in production of films. Although this figure is not as high as in 1928 and 1929, it is much larger than the average of the past few years.

Business Recovery is Due For a New Gain

New York, Sept. 12 (UP) Some of our principal industrialists believe that within a fortnight it will be apparent whether the main impulse toward business recovery, which was somewhat interrupted in August, will be resumed.

The report that NRA henceforth will place more emphasis on co-operation with business and less on coercion is regarded as a bullish factor. Moreover, seasonal influences are now favorable in character. In connection with the demand for an official re-interpretation of the National Industrial Recovery Act, the subjoined statement by John Dickinson, Assistant Secretary of Commerce and one of the drafters of the legislation, is timely.

Emphasizing that investors and business management are to get a quid pro quo for their concessions to labor in connection with higher pay and shorter hours, Mr. Dickinson, in the Atlantic Monthly, declares:

"The provisions in the National Recovery Act for reduction in the number of hours and for the establishment of minimum wages are intended to benefit industry as a whole, the investor and management no less than the laboring class, by making possible an increase in the purchasing power of the nation.

"However, it is obvious that in order to accomplish this end the direct and immediate burdens which are placed on employers are severe, and that if industry is to be maintained in a healthy state, as the needs of labor no less than those of the employer require, every effort should be made to enable industry to eliminate the practices which weaken it and impose upon it a burden of waste that in the long run labor and the consumer are called upon to share.

"Much of the insecurity which has attended the industrial process in recent years, and many of the burdens which have lessened its ability to withstand the strain of the depression, have been connected with senseless and destructive methods of competition.

"The Industrial Recovery Act holds out to industry not merely the promise of increased consumer's demand, but the possibility of compensation for the burdens of the Act, in the form of the right to take co-operative action to eliminate destructive and unwholesome competition."

That larger purpose needs to be stressed, because in the haste of the emergency in which wages and hours alone were emphasized the business executive has become upset with the notion that perhaps the whole government had become labor ridden.

Closing on London Exchange Is Firm

London, Sept. 12 (AP) A more cheerful tone was registered on the stock exchange today. International issues were generally higher on better advices from New York while most industrials also improved. Wet stocks were the most prominent. Oil shares rose in anticipation of a possible rise in the price of petroleum here and German bonds rallied somewhat. The market closed firm.

Dollar in London Rallies From Low

London, Sept. 12 (AP) Selling by continental operators on fresh rumors of inflation depressed the United States dollar today to 4.58⅝ to the pound. There was a slight recovery later and the close was $4.57⅜. Yesterday's close was $4.53⅝.

The French franc weakened early on sterling to 82.87 but a buying movement put the quotation to 82.03 after which the rate eased to close at 82.81.

Sales of Electric Power Are Greater

Industrial sales of electricity by Consolidated Gas, Electric Light & Power Co. of Baltimore, exclusive of power supplied to Bethlehem Steel Corp. and Baltimore Copper, Smelting & Rolling Co. totaled 34,389,976 k. w. h. in July, against 30,177,817 k. w. h. in July, 1932, an increase of 13.96 per cent. Sales in June totaled 33,286,136 k. w. h., against 31,437,678 k. w. h. in the like 1932 month, an increase of 5.88 per cent.

THE TITLE MEANS CASH

$2,000 in cash and 100 pairs of shoes will be given for the title to this picture

Houghton & Dutton is the New England headquarters for the nation-wide contest now being conducted by the Craddock-Terry Co., Lynchburg, Va., makers of the Natural Bridge Arch Shoes for women.

The contest, which closes Saturday, Oct. 14, 1933, offers some $2000 in cash prizes as well as 100 pairs of shoes to the lucky winners. Unlike most contests, there is nothing to buy and nothing complicated in the contest. It consists wholly of submitting a winning title to the picture shown in the photograph above. All titles, however, must be submitted on an official entry blank, obtainable only at Houghton & Dutton's.

An interesting story tells how this contest originated: a painter arrived at the Lynchburg, Va., airport and as he climbed from his plane an unusual scene met his eye, a girl, a pilot, a black cat and a horseshoe.

Upon his return to his studio he put the scene on canvas and forwarded the finished painting to the Craddock-Terry Company, asking that it be given a name. It was not named and now a nationwide prize contest is being conducted to select a name for the picture.

ROARING TO PEAK RECORD

Al Miller, in a standard stock Terraplane 8, is shown above rounding a dangerous curve in his record-breaking dash up Pikes Peak in the annual Labor Day Hill Climb for stock cars. He made the 12.5-mile course in 18 minutes, 58.2 seconds. This beat the existing record by 1 minute, 25.7 seconds.

To make it a clean sweep for Terraplanes, three others, driven by Chet Miller, Otis Bollman and Paul Bost, finished in second, third and fourth positions. The two Miller lads last June broke the record up Mt. Washington and sent the first car to the top to ever climb it in high—a Terraplane 8.

GALA CEREMONIES ON THE AIR

Big Celebration Broadcast Planned

By N. F. T.

Tomorrow's big demonstration and public turnout in connection with "Buy Day" as the "Buy in September—Buy American" highlight, will be heard on the air between 2 and 2:30 in the afternoon (WAAB), originating at the Parkman Bandstand on historic Boston Common. This marks the half hour during which Mayor Curley will administer the Blue Eagle pledge to thousands of assembled Hub school children.

There is enthusiasm no end on every hand. Predictions are confidently voiced that the spirit noted rising today will fully equal and likely surpass that in evidence during the spectacular American Legion and Centennial celebration parades of 1930—remember? Those memorable events were also broadcast for New England to hear, taking wireless wings under auspices of your favorite evening newspaper. In fact, tomorrow is the first time since those days that they have drafted your occasional microphone gabbing scribe from his deluged desk to take the air again out-of-doors. Here's hoping the always eager eye for detail hasn't dimmed. May the ever willing tonsils evidence no signs of tarnish either. Close by, the capable Irwin (WNAC) Cowper will also be present to help tell loudspeaker patrons all about it.

Certainly the voice of Mayor Curley pledging the vast throng of youngsters to the NRA Blue Eagle emblem, with them in turn repeating the oath, should furnish a striking presentation on the air waves.

Definite opening of the much talked of Ed Wynn network has been arranged and announced as scheduled for Monday evening, Sept. 25. Mr. Wynn will not be present in New York at the time, owing to his movie-making work in Hollywood. No station in New England has been affiliated as yet. Low wave Eastern outlets forming the chain are situated in New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Washington.

* * *

New York's former Governor, Al Smith, slipped slightly on Sunday night last—he said "Ray-dee-oh" plain as could be . . . Linus (WNAC) Travers is launching a new "try-out" plan especially for folks with ideas. He invites one and all to turn out with what they have to offer tonight and every Tuesday evening henceforth at 8 o'clock . . . Duke Ellington and Cab Calloway, rival dark-skinned hotcha rhythm band bosses, have the same business manager . . . Martha Lee, culinary queen for the Evening American here, is at sea today and will probably be heard by short wave facilities when Mildred (WBZ-WBZA) Carlson, likewise a respected and widely patronized cooking authority on the air, introduces home economics experts aboard the fishing trawler "Heckla" some 40 miles off Boston lightship. Mildred, Martha and others are slated to be broadcasting from the fishing schooner between 3:30 and 4 o'clock this afternoon . . . Steve Fitzgibbon, a contemporary, but a congenial opposition studio scooper in print, is handling New England radio activity for the NRA organization in fine fashion. Steve puts on a top notch quarter hour tonight as part of his official schedule (WEEI) come 5:30 . . . Bob (WEEI) Burlen, the dramatic director of Edison Salute sketches glorifying Greater Boston communities, promises some striking new ideas for his bi-weekly community bits, beginning Sunday evening, Sept. 24. Our "colyum" spies report he is planning to promote individual industries in various nearby municipalities, which is great stuff—Bravo, Bob!

BOSTON WOOL PRICES STRONG

Prices of Ohio and similar fleece wools show a strengthening tendency and demand includes practically all grades. Strictly combing 58s, 60s, ½ blood fleeces have brought 34c in the grease, while strictly combing 56s, ⅜ blood, and 48s, 50s, ¼ blood grades have realized 39c in the grease. Clothing 56s fleeces have sold at 33-35c in the grease. Estimated receipts of domestic wool at Boston, reported to the Boston Grain and Flour Exchange during the week ending Sept. 9, amounted to 1,324,200 pounds, compared with 23,752,700 pounds during the previous week, says the Boston office of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The total imports of greasy combing wool at the three major eastern ports during the week ending Sept. 9 amounted to 413,320 pounds, distributed as follows: Boston 286,503 lbs., Philadelphia 62,232 lbs. and New York 64,585 lbs.

Imports of greasy combing wool at Boston, classified by grades, were as follows: 42,140 lbs. of 56s to 60s; 230,822 lbs. of 44-46s to 54s, and 13,541 lbs. not finer than 40s.

The origin of the various grades of greasy wool imported at Boston was as follows: 56s to 60s, New Zealand, 42,140 lbs.; 44-46s to 54s, Canada, 168,260 lbs.; Scotland, 50,243 lbs.; New Zealand, 11,350 lbs., and Argentina, 969 lbs.; not finer than 40s, England, 13,541 lbs.

Greasy combing wool imported at Philadelphia included 27,235 lbs. of 48s, 50s from New Zealand, 14,525 lbs. from England and 10,657 lbs. from the Irish Free State of 40s to 44s, and 9,815 lbs. of 36s, 40s from New Zealand.

Greasy combing wool imported at New York was the product of England and comprised 29,853 lbs. of 50s, 48s, 6,463 lbs. of 58s, 23,090 lbs. of 46s, 48s and 5179 lbs. of 56s, 50s.

The imports of greasy and washed carpet wool at the three major eastern ports during the week ending September 9 amounted to 4,207,594 lbs., distributed as follows: Boston, 196,705 lbs.; Philadelphia, 1,963,687 lbs., and New York, 2,047,207 lbs.

Smart and Slim Watchword of Season

By MARIAN MARTIN

TO BE SMART and slim is the byword of the season. This charming model will do the trick. Note the vestee and the way the collar finishes in back, the sleeves, and the slenderizing seaming—excellent lines for the matron. Any of the new darker shades of satin with white bengaline or satin used as contrast would be ideal.

Pattern 9776 may be ordered only in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 3⅜ yards 39-inch fabric and ½ yard contrasting.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

Study the new mode at its best with the MARIAN MARTIN PATTERN BOOK FOR FALL AND WINTER. All the new style highlights — shoulders, collars, sleeves, skirts — are cleverly worked out in their easiest-to-make form. Clothes for juniors and kiddies, reflecting new trends, and Marian Martin's famous slenderizing models are shown. Lingerie and gift patterns, too. This book will guide you to a distinctive wardrobe at little effort and small cost. SEND FOR IT TODAY. PRICE OF PATTERN BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

BIDS AND PROPOSALS

CITY OF BOSTON.
TRANSIT DEPARTMENT.
Proposals for Furnishing and Delivering Telephone Equipment, Traffic Tunnel.

The Transit Department of the City of Boston, 1 Beacon Street, seventh floor, invites proposals from citizens of the United States and corporations or other legal associations wherein the controlling interest to the extent of at least one-half thereof is owned by a citizen or citizens of the United States, for furnishing and delivering telephone equipment for the Traffic Tunnel. A bond of an approved surety company will be required for the faithful performance of the contract in a sum of the total bid price. Proposals must be filled out and signed by the bidder on forms to be obtained at this office, inclosed in a sealed envelope, indorsed "Telephone Equipment," and delivered to the Department, or to its secretary, before 12 o'clock noon on Monday, September 25, 1933, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read. A properly certified check in the sum of five hundred (500) dollars, payable to the city, must accompany the proposal. This check shall become the property of the city if the contract is not executed by the bidder within the time prescribed after the date of the notification by the Department of the acceptance of the proposal and the readiness of the contract for signature. Proposals must be made in duplicate. The sealed duplicate, without check, is to be deposited by the bidder with the City Auditor, Room 20, City Hall, previous to the time named for opening the proposals. Proposals, specifications and forms of contract may be obtained at this office on or after Monday, September 11, 1933. A deposit of $5, in cash or by certified check, will be required for a set of plans and two sets of specifications. Mutilation of them will be deemed sufficient cause for the forfeiture of said deposit. The Department reserves the right to reject any or all proposals.

By order of the CITY OF BOSTON TRANSIT DEPARTMENT.
EDWARD F. CONDON, Secretary.
(Sept. 12.)

NOTICES

IN BOARD OF STREET COMMISSIONERS of the City of Boston, September 7, 1933.—ORDERED: That due notice be given, that this Board is of the opinion that, in said city, public improvements should be made, consisting of:

The laying out and construction of Edgewater Drive, Dorchester and Hyde Park districts, as a highway, from River street to Mattakeesel street;

The laying out and construction of Terrace avenue, Roxbury and West Roxbury districts, as a highway, from Sheridan street to Cranston street, with the name of Termine avenue or some other distinctive name; substantially as shown on plans in the office of this board, that it intends to pass orders making said improvements, and that it appoints 11 o'clock A. M., of September 20, 1933, and the office of this Board, 401 City Hall Annex, as the time and place for public hearings in the matters.

THEODORE A. GLYNN,
JOHN J. O'CALLAGHAN,
CHARLES F. BOGAN,
Street Commissioners.

A true copy of an order passed by said Board on said day.
Attest:
CORNELIUS A. REARDON,
Secretary.

CHRONIC APPENDICITIS

Mrs. Daisy Harris, 755 Center St., Dorchester, Mass., Says: "I was terribly sick. I had spells of pain after eating. My back ached so that I was afraid to go to bed at night. I did not know what ailed me. A friend advised me to go to Dr. Walsh because Dr. Walsh is honest, he will tell you what is best for you, as he did me. I had Dr. Walsh treat me, now I feel well, pain and aches all gone and I feel that I ought to make my experience known so that others suffering as I did may profit by my experience." NEW ENGLAND'S GREATEST EVENING NEWSPAPER

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN
TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1933

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION BY MORE THAN 75,000

Wednesday Is Consumers' NRA Day in Boston!

TOMORROW, Wednesday, will be NRA Consumers' Day in Boston.

In the morning the 175,000 children of the public, parochial and private schools will hold impressive Blue Eagle services in their classrooms.

In the afternoon, at 2 o'clock, the children and the people of Boston will assemble on Boston Common, there to make the Blue Eagle pledge and to assert their devotion to the vast and patriotic plan evolved by President Roosevelt for the economic recovery of the nation.

This remarkable demonstration on Boston Common will be followed by a patriotic parade of the children and of civic societies through the streets of Boston.

Thus the same spirit of universal enthusiasm is to be expressed that was dominant among the American people during the World War and that is as utterly essential to victory in the national crisis of today.

THE NATION is girded for war today.

It is a war against hunger, famine, hardship and all the other discomforts that would arise out of continued business stagnation and unemployment.

Enthusiasm wins wars—enthusiasm built out of loyal co-operation among the people.

You must beat the drums, sound the tocsins, assemble enthusiasm and pledge devotion.

All these, representing the patriotic determination of the American people, will make their manifestation in the great demonstration to be held on Boston Common tomorrow afternoon.

Take part in the magnificent demonstration.

BUY NOW.

SPEND IN SEPTEMBER.

MAKE THE WHEELS OF INDUSTRY HUM.

Be a consumer. Buy what you need. If everybody does his part, victory will perch on the standards of America.

Business will revive overnight. Unemployment will vanish. Happiness, contentment and success will be the prize of all.

U. S. Should Restore Pay

Postoffice a Good Place to Start

Postmaster-General Farley, in his address to the Boston Chamber of Commerce, declared that he hopes speedily to restore the wages of postal employes which were deeply slashed by the government's policy of economy.

The postal deficit was heavy throughout the period of the depression. Postal receipts have shown a very substantial increase in the past two months, however. This is one of the unfailing barometers of better times. Mr. Farley has some expectation that the deficit may be completely eliminated before the expiration of the present fiscal year. Now that the two-cent rate has been re-established for local mail, he urges the great corporations to patronize their government again instead of resorting to their own delivery systems.

The government should restore the wages of the postal employes without interminable delay. They are a loyal, efficient corps. They have never been overly paid for the service they render in fair weather and foul.

The government should set the example in installing wages and working standards for the rest of the country.

Moreover, an ordinary deficit in the postal service should not cause undue concern. The postal service was never intended by Benjamin Franklin and its other creators and early administrators to be a self-sustaining institution. They regarded it as an avenue for the transmission of information and intelligence among all the people of the Nation. They realized that the success of democracy must rest upon a well-informed constituency. The measure of the success of the postal service is the information it distributes and not the trial balance of finances at the end of the year.

Human Side of the News

Adventurers Again Head for Frozen Antarctic—Sad Fate of Scott and His Companions

By Edwin C. Hill

Way down under, at the end of the earth, is a continent still in the ice age, a place probably uninhabited by man or beast, one great frozen plateau called Antarctica. This great barrier, with its surrounding ice fields and Polar seas, has New Zealand and Australia as the nearest lands to it on the Pacific side, and the extremities of South America and Africa on the Atlantic side.

The eyes of two gallant adventurers are turned in its direction. About the time next December that you and I are worrying about our Christmas shopping this intrepid pair will be winging out on the last great adventure of South Polar exploration. Of the two the leader is he whose purpose holds

> "To sail beyond the sunset and > the paths
> "Of all the western stars until > I die."

For the spirit of adventure and exploration is in the blood of Lincoln Ellsworth. It has ruled him for nearly all of his forty-eight years and is ever urging him on. He says himself: "My desire is to get beyond the known barriers of the world, to find out the things that are not known about the world we live in."

Of a wealthy Chicago family, Ellsworth first heard the call when a child of eleven. Scarcely more than a boy, he was roughing in the wilds of our Northwest. He worked as an axeman in the Canadian forests, hunted big game, led expeditions in South America, served as an aviator with the American Expeditionary Forces, flew over the North Pole with Amundsen and spent 125 days on an ice floe with the same intrepid explorer after their plane had been forced down.

Ellsworth will have with him a kindred spirit, Bernt Balchen, true son of Eric the Red, who knows no peer in the handling of an airplane. This blond young man of 33 was born in Norway and lives now in staid old Brooklyn as an American citizen. It was he who brought down Byrd's transatlantic plane safely in the waters off the coast of France when fog forced them to land just short of their goal, Le Bourget.

The same Balchen was the pilot of the plane which carried Byrd to the South Pole and back, and it was he who flew to the relief of Ellsworth and Amundsen in the Arctic and to the German-Irish fliers when they came down on an island off Newfoundland on the first successful westward crossing of the Atlantic by air.

It will be a miracle if Ellsworth, Balchen and Sir Hubert Wilkins see anything more than mountains of ice, on their 2900-mile flight from Ross Sea to the Wendell Sea. For it is pretty well established that, compared to the Arctic, the Antarctic is the abomination of desolation itself. Up north we have inhabitants, about a million of them, Eskimos and Lapps. Animals and fish are not unplentiful, and trees abound in the northern polar circle. But the south polar area knows neither man, fish nor beast.

Amundsen, it was, who discovered the South Pole in an epical race against Capt. Robert Scott's ill-fated English expedition. Amundsen, of course, did not know where Scott was, and the Englishman had no idea that the Norwegians were even trying to reach the pole, for this was in the pre-radio days. It is not difficult, therefore, to imagine the terrible disappointment which was Scott's when on January 18, 1912, he arrived at the pole with four companions, only to come upon Amundsen's tent, the evidence that he had been there three weeks before.

Scott and his men had planned for years their elaborate expedition. They had set out on this last journey with motor sledges, ponies and dogs, but the sledges broke down and the ponies had to be killed. For 69 days they had pushed on—Capt. Scott, Capt. Oates, Petty Officer Evans and two others, Wilson and Bowers—to reach their goal, only to find another had been there before them.

They started back, these five dispirited men. Evans took sick and died. Oates, a captain in the Inniskillen Dragoons, who had earned for himself the nickname, "Never Surrender Oates," in the Boer War, was horribly frostbitten. He felt himself a drag on the others, an incumbrance who threatened their chances of getting back alive to their companions. As Scott was to write, Oates went to sleep each night hoping that he would not awaken.

But death would not come to him, so he went to death. Against their pleadings he walked out of the tent into the raging blizzard so that the words might be fulfilled, "Greater love hath no man shown than to lay down his life for his friends." A raging blizzard encompassed the others and they had nothing to do but wait the end.

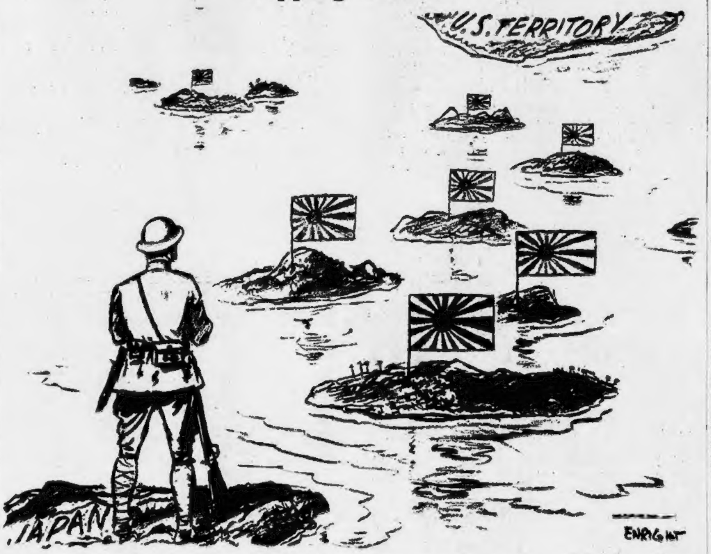
Stepping Stones?



For the fifth time since the Cuban people received independence, internal troubles have compelled the United States to take some kind of action.

In 1906, American troops were sent to Cuba to restore order.

In 1912, troops again were sent to Cuba.

In 1921, General Crowder was sent to Cuba to reform the electoral laws.

A few weeks ago, American destroyers were sent to Cuba to watch the revolution; and counter-revolutioin almost immediately called forth new measures.

This country is obliged to maintain order in Cuba under the Platt Amendment. If not, some other nation will—and in that event, the Cubans will suffer and Uncle Sam may have a hostile Power stationed at the gateway of the Caribbean, fronting the Panama Canal.

And what about our national safety in the Pacific?

Hawaii and the Philippines are our outposts in that ocean.

Japan, obtaining the former German isles under a League of Nations mandate, has refused to surrender the mandate in withdrawing from the League.

Those Islands, if made a permanent part of Japan's oceanic empire, will be fortified into airplane and naval bases, forming a strategic wedge between Hawaii and the Philippines.

And in case of war in the Pacific, which many experts predict, the islands will be MILITARY STEPPING STONES to American territory.

Literary Cliques

NEW YORK, Sept. 11—The Algonquin Round Table is only a metaphor of literary log-rolling and backscratching. Actually it does not exist. Many of the original members still lunch at Frank Case's 44th st. hotel, but there is no special table for bouquet tossing any more.

O. O. McIntyre

Originally there used to collect at one table Robert E. Sherwood, Alexander Woollcott, Franklin P. Adams, Heywood Broun, George S. Kaufman, Robert C. Benchley and a number of lesser fry. Someone — Frank Ward O'Malley as I recall—referred to them as knights of the round table.

And the legend grew. There was a specious theory they made or unmade literary figures of the day. All of which was nippingly humorous. The truth is they were merely a bantering crowd of writing folk expressing the usual cynicism of the guild for the newcomer. Plus a dash of show-offery.

The hotel benefited largely by the exploitation. Timid writing fledgelings were attracted there for a Dorothy Parker mot. Now and then the Algonquin front was weakened by schism and this one and that one drifted away. Eventually it just ceased to exist.

But literary talent can never be stagnated by cliques. Any writer of merit without effort defends himself from psychological difficulties, because the trade is primarily psychological. Hooters never caused a good writer's downfall. They jerred Oscar Wilde. They jerred Theodore Dreiser and James Branch Cabell. The list is long.

There are sundry luncheon crowds far more interesting than the Algonquin ever was. Chiefly I think of those ordinary young lovers who sit out in Bryant park and other squares at noon. They are the office workers, she with an index finger purpled by typewriter ribbon and he clerkly correct in his walk-up-and-save-$10 suit. They divide a box lunch. And that is significant. They are saving for one of those little dream cottages.

* * *

Slate gray shirts with snow white four-in-hands have hit the town sartorially. I counted five so adorned in a midtown block. And any number of haberdashery windows display all sorts of white ties from 50 cent washables to those marked $6. I don't know who thought up the idea, but the first I saw wearing the combination was Russell Patterson.

* * *

Artistic circles were not surprised by the way, when Joseph Urban's scenic work and studios were turned over to young Patterson. He has for some time shown a flair for effects in the theater, turning out the scenery for several musical revues. Patterson himself has the languor of beauty, a classical profile, wavy powdered gray hair and slight arriere pense. He's in early 30's.

It is always interesting to watch Patterson at teas or dinner parties. No one I ever saw—outside of James M. Barrie—gives forth such a sense of impermanence. After he joins a group, he seems to disappear suddenly, as though dropped through a pavement grating. He listens gravely but rarely talks and all of a sudden is gone.

* * *

Howard Acton and I wagered recently we would spend a night in a cheap Bowery lodging house. Each ran out of excuses and so the other evening, donning rather unpresentable clothes, subwayed to Brooklyn Bridge and walked northward to find an upstairs hotel that might be interesting. One more brilliantly lit than the others struck our mutual fancy. We registered as "G. K. Chesterton" and "Daniel McGraw," paid our 40 cents each and were given keys on a wooden block. It may have been imagination, but outside of a tiger's amber eyes I have never seen such contempt for mankind as the clerk expressed. He was the sort who wore a horse shoe nail ring. We sat in the office chairs awhile, looking down on the Bowery' smuggy flow. Finally I said: "I'm ready." Acton said: "I, too," and taking a taxicab we scooted home.

* * *

Also I made a sucker out of a proverb today. It reads: "He that riseth late shall trot all day." I got up at 11 o'clock this morning and have been squatting at this typewriter until right now. And it's dusk.

'Constitution Day' Here an Example to U. S.

By James T. Williams, Jr.

President Roosevelt's home state sets a good example for the other states of the union in proclaiming, as Governor Lehman has done, September 17, "Constitution Day."

September 17, 1933, will mark the 146th anniversary of the completion and signing of the Constitution of the United States.

There is a special fitness in the national observance this year of the anniversary of the signing of the Federal Constitution. Every State which has already voted to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment has demonstrated its loyalty to the fundamental purposes of the Constitution.

TOPIC FOR DISCUSSION

It is because the American people have come to the conclusion that the Eighteenth Amendment had more of evil than of good in it that they are repealing it as rapidly as the machinery of repeal can be set up.

Maine is the 26th state which by constitutional convention has voted to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment, and more than enough states will hold constitutional conventions before the end of the year to bring the total number thus voting to 36, which is required by the Constitution to make effective such repeal.

This experience in getting rid of the Eighteenth Amendment makes an appropriate topic for discussion as the several states observe "Constitution Day."

In the Constitution as it now stands there are two methods prescribed for ratifying amendments:

First, ratification by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states.

Second, ratification by conventions in three-fourths of the several states.

Since the adoption of the Constitution 146 years ago more than 3000 attempts have been made to amend it.

In only two of these cases, however, has Congress seen fit to prescribe the convention method of ratification. The first time this was done was when the ratification of the Constitution itself took place. The second time this method was employed is in the ratification of the repeal amendment, now in progress, which will become the 21st amendment.

GORHAM'S REASONS

In the constitutional convention of 1787 Nathaniel Gorham of Massachusetts argued strongly in favor of having the Constitution ratified by conventions in the several states. The reasons advanced by him then, when read in the light of subsequent experience, will appeal to the common sense of thoughtful Americans.

Among Gorham's reasons for preferring ratification by convention to ratification by legislatures were:

Men chosen by the people for the particular purpose will discuss the subject more candidly.

In the states many of the ablest men are excluded from the legislatures, but may be elected to a convention.

The Legislatures will be interrupted with a variety of little business "by artfully pressing which designing men will find means to delay from year to year, if not to frustrate altogether, the national system."

It is doubtful whether the eighteenth amendament would ever have been put into the constitution had Congress prescribed the the convention mode of ratification. It is even more doubtful whether the repeal of this amendment could have been accomplished within a single year had not Congress prescribed the convention mode of ratification.

If a national observance of "ConstitutionDay" this year is devoted to the discussion of the merits of the convention method of ratification public sentiment may yet demand that Congress follow this method in the future.

Just Folks

The Tramp

This is what he said: In all his life
He'd done no useful thing;
Had idled, dodging children and a wife,
And all the care they bring.

He thought that school was prison as a boy,
And when he'd older grown
He had no gifts men wanted to employ,
So off he trudged alone.

He'd never fretted; never shed a tear
Beside a loved one's bed.
He'd never watched all night, heartsick with fear,
Or buried any dead.

He'd walked away from all that offered care
This simple fact to find,
That those who would be happy here must share

Words of the Wise Men

Words are women, deeds are men.

No cord nor cable can so forcibly draw, or hold so fast, as love can do with a twined thread.
